SUMMARY.

A national committee has been formed in Germany under the auspices of the Chancellor, advocating an honourable peace.

The Conservative newspapers are indignant. They bitterly assail the Government for giving the committee semi-official sanction.

There have been further riots in Munich, due to exasperation at the enormous Bavarian casualties and the prices of food.

The "Frankfurter Zeitung" remarks that all are aware that the military situation is critical.

Exciting scenes have taken place in the Hungarian Chamber.

Members shouted at Count Tisza, demanding the protection of Transylvanian territory against invasion.

They also insisted that the generals responsible for the terrible losses in June should be called to account.

The British have resumed a vigorous offensive east of Albert.

Severe fighting has taken place east of La Boisselle, where the British captured trenches over a front of 1000 yards.

There has been further fighting, principally on the British extreme right flank, with important successes.

The British afterwards advanced over a maze of German trenches on a front of 2000 yards.

The French have captured the village of Hardecourt, seven miles east of Albert.

The Bavarian 17th Division suffered severely in six successive assaults between Belloy and Estrées.

In the Verdun sector brisk fighting has taken place at Thiaumont work.

After several attacks the enemy gained a footing in the advanced elements, but were driven out by a counter-attack.

Berlin claims that French attacks over a wide front east of the Meuse failed.

The enemy violently bombarded the French first and second lines on the left bank of the Meuse.

There is also artillery activity northward of Fort Souville, Fumin Wood, and Damloup.

Viscount Esher, writing from France to a Scottish correspondent, urges the people to throw every ounce of energy into the scale.

"The game," he says, "is going fast in favour of the Allies. The ball has now passed to us for the final rush."

The Russians are vigorously attacking along the whole of the eastern front, and a great gain prevails in Galicia.

Since the outset of General Brusiloff's attack the Austro-German casualties have totalled 520,000, including 225,000 prisoners.

Russia has recovered considerable areas of her own soil, as well as enemy territory she was compelled to abandon in 1915.

The cutting of the Stanislav railway has enormously impeded the enemy's operations.

It is reported that owing to the triple reverse at Riga, Kolki, and Baranovitchi, the Germans have begun a move westward.

All the most eastern routes for the enemy's retreat across the Carpathians into Hungary are held by the Russians.

The position of the enemy in Galicia is daily becoming more grave. The Russian operations are proceeding apace.

The combat at Lake Narocz, north of the Pripet marshes, is losing its intensity.

The last German counter-attacks have not given the enemy any advantage.

An Austrian message says: We withdrew from the Styr salient northward of Kolki, to previously allotted positions.

Attacks by great masses of Russians, north-eastward of Baranovitchi, it is added, were sanguinarily shattered.

There is an intense artillery action between the Adige and the Astico.

The enemy continues to resist attacks northward of Posina, against Mount Cimone.

The Italians captured two important points—Caserotebla and Malgapozza, in the Trentino.

A Rome message says: We are consolidating our positions in the Upper Astico region, and are pushing forward.

There is every indication that there will be a large Venizelist majority in the Greek elections.

A Russian submarine sank the German steamer Dorita in the Baltic. The crew were landed in Sweden.

Under the new agreement Japan undertakes not to be a party to any political arrangement or combination against Russia.

Both agree to act together if the Far Eastern rights of either are threatened.

There are now 20 arsenals in Britain. The war workers number 2,500,000, of whom 600,000 are women.

A great slump in munition making in America is predicted, as the Allies are now able to supply their own needs.

The English boot trade is engaged in the manufacture of 5,000,000 pairs of boots for the Russian troops.

It is expected that the United States' wheat yield for the year will total 750,000,000 bushels.

The Governor (Sir Gerald Strickland), who is touring the western part of the State, is expected to reach Broken Hill to-day.

References to the war were prominent in the addresses at the annual Orange celebration in the Town Hall yesterday.

The principal speaker said he looked forward to the day when all the free Protestant Churches would be united.

A memorial service was held at St. Stephen's Church yesterday for the late Captain A. G. Ferguson, who was killed in action.

"True to his conscience, his ideals, and to military traditions," said the Rev. J. Ferguson, "he obeyed, toiled, fought, and fell."

The Soldiers' Welcome, in St. Andrew's Cathedral grounds, is becoming a popular resort for men in khaki.

An anti-conscription meeting in the Domain yesterday was broken up by recruiting sympathisers.

As the anti-conscriptionists left the Domain they were hooted. A recruiting meeting was then held and proved a success.

A large number of returned soldiers were given an outing by the Motor Yacht Club on Saturday.

The carpenters and joiners of Goulburn have undertaken to erect the first cottage in the district for a disabled soldier.

The Education Department has obtained information as to the occupations taken up by 6452 boys who left school during 1915.

Farming and agricultural pursuits attracted 1354 boys, 2117 chose commercial life, and 942 left to take up a trade of some kind.

A deputation of hop-growers in Tasmania waited on the Treasurer to ask the State Government to take control of the industry.

All the targets at Randwick range were in use on Saturday afternoon; 30 clubs being represented.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Randwick Rifle Club, Senator Millen defended the rifle club movement.

He said it was entitled to a much more important part in the defence system than was accorded it.

Among those present at the dinner was Mr. W. Young, a Crimean veteran, now in his 88th year.

Nearly 32,000 men have been recruited in New South Wales since December last.

All work has been stopped on the South Australian end of the transcontinental railway, owing to a strike of 40 clerks.

At the V.R.C. Grand National Steeplechase meeting Corazil won the Steeplechase, and Phylactery the July Handicap.

The Ministers for Agriculture of New South Wales and Queensland have arrived at the Tweed to investigate the tick question.

At the Warwick Farm July meeting, St. Medoc won the Hurdle Race, and Galtee Queen the Warwick Handicap.

All lines were lower in the Railway produce market on Saturday. Business in the vegetable markets was dull.

Forecast.—Unsettled generally, with more rain and thunder, chiefly over the eastern and north-eastern districts, shortly becoming fine in the west.

MYRTLE TANNEHILL,

in Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes' Delightful Play,

THE BOOMERANG,
THE BOOMERANG.

"There is," sings Yamadori in "Madame Butterfly," "nought in life more cruel than the pangs of hopeless love." There is, according to the dramatists responsible for "The Boomerang," nought more amusing. The agonies of calf love are humorously presented. The little tragedies of youth are sympathetically and deliciously treated. Young and old, philosophers and sentimentalists, will enjoy it hugely.

"THE BOOMERANG."

The new comedy at the Criterion, by Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes, is chiefly remarkable for the skill of its stagecraft, which is such that the reception of the dramatic scheme depends entirely upon the supremely clever acting of two, or perhaps three, central characters. Indeed, the actual fare provided is as slight as a luncheon on wafers and cowslip wine—light, but unsatisfying. But just as good company is better than a feast, so in the same way Hale Hamilton, Donald Bowles, and Myrtle Tannehill, set the table in a roar by faithfully embodying the authors' ideas of love and jealousy in a successfully whimsical treatment.

Dr. Gerald Sumner undertakes to cure Budd Woodbridge of his unreasonable fondness for Grace Tyler by persuading Virginia Xelva to nurse, and, incidentally, flirt, with the youthful patient. Dr. Sumner is himself unconsciously in love with "Virgie," and in that way the boomerang "comes back," and deals him a severe blow in the region of the heart. Dr. Sumner's uneasiness at this pleasing pain is so humorously suggested by Mr. Hamilton that the audience admiringly realise that he is giving them "some" acting; though it should be added that his high art as a light comedian has been revealed to old playgoers long before that in the course of an exceedingly quiet, but telling, impersonation. As in the previous piece, so once more there is a star part for Mr. Bowles, who scores as a young lover whose nerves are wrecked by jealousy; and again Miss Tannehill appears as a secretary, typist, and 'phone girl, with a long and ineffective role, above which she rises from time to time by the modest power of her personal charm.

The scene is laid in Hartford, Connecticut, doubtless mentioned on the programme because it happens to be the birthplace of the author, Winchell Smith. Otherwise, Sydney, or any other place would have met the case, seeing that Mr. George Upward's first set merely shows a perfectly appointed, modern, consulting physician's surgery, and the second a luxurious living room. The first five minutes affords extended pantomime on the part of Hale Hamilton, whose volatile Dr. Sumner resembles Dryden's Cymon, who "whistled as he went for want of thought," or rather lack of patients, and becomes ultimately articulate in "yum-deedle-dum-dee" with a yawn! This silent acting completely 'broke up' Saturday's audience, and is only quoted to show how the dramatists have confidently left everything to the actors! The first patient of this young consultant is the aforesaid Budd Woodbridge, led by his gracious and handsome mother (Celia Ghiloni) to the surgery like a lamb to the slaughter. His monosyllabic sulkiness, his boyish fear of ridicule, and his deep emotion when at last he reveals the torments of love and jealousy which are devastating his young existence, are marvellously vivified by Mr. Bowles. The object of his passionate desire is depicted as a hoydenish vixen by Beatrice Nicholls. Her flirtation with Preston De Witt is nipped in the bud by her affianced lover's assumed neglect, under the masterly guidance of Dr. Sumner. Virginia Xelva nurses the boy, and plays up to her employer's instructions in great style; but she has lost her heart to the latter, and "lets concealment prey upon her damask cheek" sooner than tell her love. In point of fact, "The Boomerang" is a comedy of sentiment, and this is the part of it in which Miss Tannehill is girlish, reticent, and engaging.

As for the other characters, they are purely incidental. Nancye Stewart filled in pleasingly the ingenue role of Dr. Sumner's sister; Leslie Victor was graceful and well-mannered as De Witt; John De Lacey and Charles Wheeler played with experience as valet and footman, respectively, and Maltee Brown was vivacious as Gertrude Ludlow. "The Boomerang" was cordially received throughout.

THE TIVOLI.

Horace Goldin, a magician who knows how to blend the elements of humbug and mystery, and who understands the value of picturesque stage-settings, provided half the entertainment at the Tivoli on Saturday. Some of the illusions suggested the matured charms of Cleopatra, which "age could not wither, nor custom stale." Others might be said to have come under the drapery trade definition of "new season's goods." A pleasant-mannered deceiver, Goldin succeeded in getting the old things and the new off his hands in the style of a smart American salesman. The best trick in the set of "twentieth century miracles," was the one with line and fishing rod. Successive dips into the orchestral stalls landed gold fish, which were placed alive in a bowl of water. In this section of the show the crowded audience witnessed the disappearance of a piano and the lady player, who had roused the anger of Charles Gounod by striking a wrong chord. A few minutes later Goldin had everyone puzzled when one of his fair assistants seemed to accomplish the impossible feat of stepping through a sheet of plate glass without injury to herself or the glass. A good-humoured soldier in khaki invested the scene with human interest while sleight of hand was being shown in the egg-and-bag trick, and in the fooling with tied handkerchiefs.

The sensation of "The Tiger God," in which there are about a dozen characters, including Barbara Babington, as "The White Captive," besides Moorish soldiers and harem dancers, was reserved as a spectacular climax. With the cinematograph pressed into service for the earlier scene the "Moorish mystery" wordless drama ended in Horace Goldin taking the place of a caged tigress. In a flash the magician had left the cage and the tigress was again seen—this time devouring a piece of meat instead of the intended victim of a Sultan's rage.

Miss Margaret Jewell, a light-voiced soprano, whose charming mezza voce effects recalled the gentle art of Delia Mason, a member of the last London Gaiety Company which toured Australia, sang in an admirable manner "Come Sing to Me," and "The Sunshine of Your Smile." The fair singer was not so successful in Willeby's "Coming Home," which Ella Caspers introduced to this part of the world. With a pianoforte accompaniment instead of the orchestra Max Selinsky, the Russian violinist, who recently gave concerts here, was so enthusiastically applauded that he added Dvorak's captivating Humoresque as his fourth contribution. Cesar Cui's "Orientale," Hubay's "Hejre Kati," and Vieuxtemp's "Ballet and Polonaise" were the unaffected artist's other numbers. Easily at the head of the fun makers were Mennetti and Sedelli, the deservedly popular comedy acrobats. Gosward, a comedian and eccentric musician, wound up a clever turn by playing the famous Mascagni Intermezzo on a set of hand bells. Bill Pruitt, who looks like John M'Cormack, and who has a style of his own, was applauded for several sentimental songs, with falsetto trimmings. The bioscope pictures, which were shown early in the evening, included King George reviewing troops at Aldershot, women as war-workers in England, and the arrival of Russian soldiers in Marseilles. The audience gave the Russians a cheer.

THE DUFAULT FAREWELL.

The Town Hall was absolutely packed on Saturday night on the occasion of Mr. Paul Dufault's farewell; even the choir seats being filled. The artist was in fine voice, and the immense audience again recognised with enthusiasm his mellow tones and his perfect interpretation. Mr. Dufault opened his programme with the aria "Sound the Alarm," from "Judas Maccabaeus," which was delivered with impressive dignity and breadth of tone. After the interval Mr. Dufault introduced a new song by Wakefield Cadman—"At Dawning"—and also Massenet's "Le Sais-tu," a tender little love-fragment, perfectly interpreted. Later, Sinding's exquisite song of the blue-eyed, white-skinned "Sylvelin," with its peculiar glissando accompaniment, was included, this item not having been heard here since the tenor's last visit. Chaminade's "Au Pays Bleu" followed, and the last item on the programme was Dix's stirring "The Trumpeter." Again enthusiasm resulted, and Mr. Dufault responded with the "Marseillaise," and after further insistent recalls, with Huhn's "Invictus," the fiery, determined climax of which proved a fitting ending to an impressive season. There were many encores during the evening, including Harriet Ware's ever-popular "Boat Song," and St. Clair's humorous little Scotch ballad, "Caddie."

Miss Pauline Bindley was heard in the aria "Qui la Voce," from Bellini's "I Puritani," and other items, including Cadman's Indian tribal melody "From the land of the sky-blue water," and "Vilanelle" of Del 'Acqua.

Miss Florence Scapini opened the programme with the Sibelius "Valse Triste," and later gave the finale from Lalo's "Spanish Symphony." Mr. Harold Whittle again perfectly accompanied the artists.

Mr. Frederic Shipman will probably arrange the Australian tour so as to bring the star tenor back to Sydney about October.

SNOW AT KOSCIUSKO.

Reports to hand from Kosciusko indicate that there is more snow and ice there than has been the case for some years. Snow is lying as deep as two feet at the door of the Hotel Kosciusko, and there is a foot of ice on the artificial lake, 6 acres in extent, and the whole of the surface is skatable.

"THE MERRY WIDOW."

The first of the 12 nights allotted to the revival of "The Merry Widow" opened at Her Majesty's Theatre on Saturday evening before a crowded and delighted audience. Since the last presentation of this favourite light opera there have been a number of changes in the cast, and among the notable alterations Miss Minnie Love succeeded Miss Carrie Moore as Sonia (the Merry Widow), and will alternate with Miss Ethel Cadman, who appears in the character to-night. Miss Love played charmingly with a full appreciation of what was required, and vocally she was fairly equal to the occasion. The Marsovian dance and Merry Widow waltz in the second act, with Leslie Holland, were given with striking effect, resulting in enthusiastic recalls. Miss Florence Young, who, it may be recalled, also achieved such a hit in the title role, made a handsome and exquisitely-gowned Natalie, and her song "I'm a Dutiful Wife" proved one of the gems of a melodious setting. Leslie Holland succeeded Andrew Higginson as Prince Danilo, and, though his singing was somewhat feeble, his acting and dancing were unexceptionable, so that the Prince's love passages with Sonia were among the many enjoyable features of the performance. Reginald Roberts once more appeared as Jolidon, and, being in excellent voice, he shared the honours with Miss Florence Young. Phil Smith, who played Baron Popoff (vice Victor Gouriet), maintained his reputation for amusing an audience; and Derek Hudson as Khadja had little opportunity of shining, but did useful work. Claude Bantock was quite up to his old standard as the fortune-hunting Marquis de Cascada, and Charles Albert as Nisch, messenger to the legation, proved an able substitute for his predecessor, Fred. Leslie, both in his study of the character and his clever dancing. Jack Ralston was also good as M. de St. Brioche, and Miss Nellie Payne (Fifi) and Mrs. George Lauri (Praskovia) also did their share in the comedy element of the opera. Among the successful musical numbers not already referred to were "My Homeland" (Leslie Holland), "Vilia" (Minnie Love and chorus), "The Cavalier" (Minnie Love and Leslie Holland), "A Simple Little Thing" (Nellie Payne and Charles Albert), and the pretty duet in the final act between Minnie Love and Leslie Holland. A word of praise is due to the chorus; and the Marsovian dance was a triumph for the ballet. The orchestral work, under the direction of Mr. Victor Champion, was excellent.

"UNDER FIRE."

Mr. Julius Knight's revival of "Under Fire" at the Theatre Royal on Saturday night, deserved a much better house. But the piece is to run for two weeks, so that there is plenty of time for it to thrill crowded houses again. This play seizes upon a few authoritative incidents during the early days of the murderous invasion of Belgium, nearly two years ago, and it holds the mirror up to the horrors of modern war. Love of country is the author's (Rol Cooper Megrue) keynote. To make that sentiment burn, he shows us first the calm serenity of a typical English gentle home. Then he rushes upon the stage the tragic burst of the war cloud. The play shows the German soldier and the German spy, as he was—and is. A secret, bigamous marriage with an accomplished English gentlewoman is a mere trifle to a German spy—when secrets about the British fleet are the stakes of the game. There is, of course, the inevitable firing of dummy guns on and off and behind the stage. But the general cast succeeds in the purpose of the author in unmasking the real intention behind the march of the German hordes through Belgium. There are some excellent characterisations. Mr. Knight himself has a difficult part—for him. But he bore the burden of the development of the theme well. As Captain Larry Redmond, of the Irish Guards, he makes an ardent, unselfish lover, and a stanch British patriot. As Christophe, a kindly Belgian innkeeper, who calls the Germans their friends, even up to half an hour before they shoot him for a spy without the slightest evidence, Mr. J. B. Atholwood gives another of his cameo delineations that stick in the memory. Mr. Boyd Irwin invests the German spy character with sufficient venom to get himself well hissed, and Mr. Louis Kimball carries off the role of a young, talkative American journalist in a highly commendable style. Miss Lizette Parkes scored a distinct hit with the difficult and hard-worked part of Ethel Willoughby, the heroine of the play. From start to finish—and she is "on" practically all the time—she acted well, and spoke her lines perfectly. Miss Frances Anderson's one big scene, as the daughter of Christophe, in grief for her murdered father, shot before her eyes, was a distinct success. But of a long series of thrills, perhaps the one that will be remembered most is that when the wounded soldiers lying in a church in France, get news of the hold up of the Germans, almost within gun shot of Paris. A Britisher waves a Union Jack, while another prays in thanksgiving. But a French soldier—till then apparently lifeless—rises on his elbow to sing "The Marseillaise."

"PEG'S" 100TH PERFORMANCE.

To-night at the Palace Theatre the 100th performance of "Peg o' My Heart" will be given, which, it is claimed, is a record for any comedy or drama in Australasia. To commemorate the occasion Messrs. J. and N. Tait are presenting a photographic souvenir to all ladies in the audience at this evening's performance. The last night of the season is Wednesday, July 19.

MANLY CARROUSEL DE LUX.

The construction of a pretentious building to be devoted to indoor amusement is now under way on the Corso, Manly, and will be opened to the public about October 1. The principal feature will be the much-discussed carrousel, to be surrounded by high-class attractions. Mr. Edwin Kilpatrick, Castlecomnon, Manly, will receive proposals for mechanical devices and privileges, same to embrace full description and space required. Preference will be given Australian ideas.

CONCERT AT THE WARREN CAMP.

The Y.M.C.A. tent at the Artillery camp at The Warren was crowded on Friday night last, the occasion of a concert organised by Corpl. Stanley M'Kay. The Fredo Bros. (trick violinists), the Mullaney Bros. (ventriloquists), and Crotty (ragtime expert) appeared by kind permission of Mr. Ben Fuller. Other artists assisting were the Catholic Women's Orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. J. Carlton Fay, Miss Ray Joore, Mr. Harry Thomas, Mr. Arthur Baron, Mr. R. H. Millard (ventriloquist), and Mr. Warwick Armstrong. A Shakespearean scene was enacted by Miss Elsie Prince, supported by Mrs. Newton-Carroll and members of the Camp Club.

MISS NELLIE COOKE'S RECITAL.

A vocal recital was given by Miss Nellie Cooke at the Conservatorium on Saturday night. Though severely handicapped by an ulcerated throat, this lady, a pupil of Mr. Nelson Illingworth, made a successful debut, and was the recipient of many floral tributes from an appreciative audience. Miss Cooke possesses a sweet, youthful soprano voice, and though her enunciation was not sufficiently distinct, her singing was always pleasant. Miss Cooke was best in her first group of songs, "My Mother Bids me Bind my Hair" (Haydn), "You Who Have Knowledge" (Mozart), and Arn's sprightly "Where the Bee Sucks." Other items by the same artist were Puccini's aria, "They call me Mimi," from "La Boheme;" two of Massenet's songs, "Elegy" and "Open Thy Blue Eyes" (bracketed), and a final group, "The First Primrose" (Grieg), "Erin, the Tear and the Smile in Thine Eyes" (Moore), and Godard's "Chanson de Florian." In response to insistent applause Miss Cooke gave two encores, Franz's "Request" and the soprano aria from "La Tosca," act 1. The assisting artists were Messrs. Cyril Monk (violinist), Frank Hutchens (pianist), and Walter Thorman and Nelson Illingworth (accompanists). The first two gentlemen opened the evening with an enjoyable rendering of Sjogren's "Sonata," and later each artist successfully supplied solo items.

ADELPHI NEW BURLESQUE COMPANY.

To replace Miss Wish Wynne and the present Adelphi company, Mr. Ben. J. Fuller will introduce on Saturday night a new burlesque show, the principals of which and two producers arrived by the Sierra last week. The opening production is to be "The Follies of Pleasure," which will be produced by Murry Simons. Rapid changes are promised, and popular prices will rule. Mr. Walter Johnson will have the second production, "The Flirting Widow," well in hand before the curtain goes up on "The Follies of Pleasure."

"A HARASSED HONEYMOON."

The musical comedy, "A Harassed Honeymoon," was presented by the Petersham Choral Society for the first time at the local Town Hall on Saturday night. The fun in the comedy hangs on the similarity of names. There are two newly-wedded Mrs. Fenmores. Alice, the young wife of a young husband, Charles Fenmore, arrives at the Grand Hotel, and awaits her husband. Soon afterwards the second Mrs. Fenmore, who is of somewhat uncertain age, also reaches the hotel, expecting her husband, a middle-aged major. In due course young Charles arrives, and asks for his bride. He is confronted with Mrs. Major Fenmore, whom he repudiates as "an antique specimen." After an interval the major comes along, and wants to see his better half. The hotelkeeper fetches the wrong Mrs. Fenmore, and the choleric major "plays up." These complications constitute the plot of "A Harassed Honeymoon."

The comedy went fairly well for the first performance of an original play. Unfortunately, its composer, Mr. Les. Williams, became ill on Friday night. His part, Uncle Jasper ("the cheerful idiot") was taken at short notice by Mr. Gilbert Howell, who did very well in the circumstances. Among other well-played parts were Charles Fenmore (Mr. Les. Walker), Major Fenmore (Mr. Reg. L. Meyers), Alice Fenmore (Miss Freda Brown), Mrs. Major Fenmore (Miss Hilda Henningham), Herbert Cuminger, waiter (Mr. Frank Ryan), Mrs. Haughty Head, society widow (Miss Beryl Bien-Venu), Sadie Snool, an American heiress (Miss Gladys Pardey).

Among the best appreciated musical numbers were "There's No One Like You" (Les. Walker), "Bring that Melody" (Syd. Walton and Frank Ryan), "Love Will Come Some Day" (Miss Beryl Bien-Venu), and "Keep the Home Fires Burning" (Les. Walker and chorus). "A Pas de Deux" "The Awakening of Pierrot") was cleverly interpreted by the Misses Kristelle and Hillyer. "A Harassed Honeymoon" will be repeated next Wednesday and Saturday.

"MARITANA."

The first opera produced for its season by the Mosman Musical Society was "Maritana," which was staged in the Mosman Town Hall on Saturday night. It was gratifying to note that the skill of both artists and producers met with appreciation, the large hall being crowded to the doors. The music was under the supervision of Mr. A. H. Norman. In the title role Miss Mabel Batchelor sang and acted with effect, and was strongly supported by Miss Dorrie Ward, who was Lazarillo, and by Mr. W. R. Beattie (Don Jose). The duet between the latter and Maritana, "Oh, Fairy Wand," enchanted the house, and encores were demanded for this, as well as for other numbers. Miss Ward's most appreciated number was "Alas, Those Chimes." Mr. Beattie was encored after giving "In Happy Moments." As Don Caesar Mr. Reg. Raymond was a success, but it can be expected that he will appear to even better advantage during the week, as his self-consciousness disappears. Mr. A. F. Y. Renham (King of Spain), Mr. W. S. Miller (Alcade), Mr. C. W. J. Buchanan (Marquis de Montefiori), Mr. K. M'Alpine (Captain of the Guard), and Miss Irene Ross (Marchioness de Montefiori) each contributed to the success of the evening, as did also the orchestra and Miss M. Reyburn at the organ. The opera will be continued till next Saturday.

FRENCH "NATIONAL DAY" CONCERT.

Sydney people need little reminder of the French "National Day" festival concert on Friday next, in celebration of July 14, and in aid of the French-Australian League of Help. This year, in memory of Verdun and other thrilling events, our French friends are to be enthusiastically supported by the community in general. The Ministry, the Chief Justice, the Archbishops, and other leaders, will be present at this concert, which is being directed by Mr. Henri Verbrugghen, who will provide players for Saint Saens' Septette for pianoforte, strings, and trumpet. Mr. Arthur Appleby will sing "Vers la Gloire," written and composed in the trenches by our recent visitor, Maxime Guitton (Medaille Militaire). Miss Nellie Stewart, Mme. Charvia, Miss Margaret Jewell, Mlle. Puech, Albert Goossens, Philip Newbury, Max Selinsky, will appear. Mr. Verbrugghen will conduct the Conservatorium Choir of 150 voices in the Marseillaise. The plan is already filling fast at Aengenheyster's.

THE PROBLEM OF BRAIN FAG, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, AND BACKACHE.

FISHER'S PHOSPHERINE,

THE TRUE SOLUTION.

Nurse Bell-Boyd's story:—"I was completely run down through overwork, and suffered severely from Brain Fag. I had to give up my occupation altogether. As a nurse, of course, I know something of medicine, and I tried numerous powerful tonics, but gained no relief. A sister nurse said, 'Never mind, you try Fisher's Phospherine.' I did. In one day I experienced a feeling of restful repose that I had not felt for months. In a week I felt as though I had been taking a six weeks' rest cure at the Mountains or the seaside. I was in perfect health. Fisher's Phospherine is far and away the most powerful nerve strengthener and rest-giver that can be had, no matter what you pay. I am convinced of that.—Charlotte Bell-Boyd, 224 Riley-street, Surry Hills, Sydney." Declared to be true before Charles Lovely, J.P.

Five drops of Fisher's Phospherine in a tumblerful of water pleases the palate and purifies the blood.

REINFORCE YOUR HEALTH

Most people realise that life is an arduous campaign in the prosecution of which their "fighting force" frequently suffers serious depletion. "Reinforcements" become necessary to replace the wastage of energy and to ensure the "war" being waged with success. The first step to take to reinforce the health is to clear the system of the debris with which it is clogged owing to the sluggish action of one or more of the organs governing the functions of digestion and elimination. This will be most easily and satisfactorily accomplished

BY TAKING

one or two doses of Beecham's Pills, which act as a gentle, yet efficient aperient. It usually happens that no other medicine will be required, for Beecham's Pills, in addition to possessing valuable aperient properties, are also an excellent tonic medicine, which will be found to thoroughly "reinforce" the general health. Remember that "Staying power" wins; that the battle in these days is more than ever to the strong, and remember, too, that nothing will contribute to your enjoying your full plenitude of vigour and vitality like

THE LIBERALS.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE ENDS

The Liberal Conference concluded its sittings in the King's Hall on Saturday, Mr. J. Garland, M.L.C., presiding. Mr. Archdale Parkhill, general secretary, read the nominations for office-bearers for the ensuing year, showing that the following were elected to the offices mentioned:—President, Mr. C. G. Wade, K.C., M.L.A.; vice-presidents, Mr. G. W. Fuller, M.L.A., Sir Joseph Carruthers, M.L.C., Mr. John Garland, M.L.C., Mr. S. R. Innes-Noad, Mr. V. D. Cox, Mr. W. H. Wheatley; and hon. treasurers, Messrs. W. Rigg and G. S. Littlejohn. As the nominations for the central committee exceeded the number required, a postal ballot will be taken.

INEBRIATE HOMES.

Mr. Maguire (Hurstville) moved in favour of the desirability that Liberal members should frame a bill by which the Inebriates Act may be made more effective. He said that although the Act provided for the establishment of inebriate homes the only place provided for that purpose was the Long Bay Penitentiary. Detention there was supposed to give a criminal taint to the confinees, and some better provision should be made for their cure from what was undoubtedly a disease.

A short discussion ensued, and the chairman in putting the motion said the portion of Long Bay Penitentiary to which inebriates were committed was quite separate from that portion where criminals were confined. Still, one great desideratum was wanting. A home should have plenty of ground round it, because one of the important factors in effecting a cure was pleasant surroundings.

The motion was carried.

WIDOWS' MAINTENANCE.

A motion submitted by the Henty branch in favour of legislation being introduced to provide for a wife being able to claim at least one-third of a deceased husband's property was altered, so as to make its effect that the executive be instructed to draw up a family maintenance bill. It was explained by the chairman that the subject was one bristling with difficulties; and a family maintenance bill was now before Parliament for its consideration.

In its altered form, and on the understanding that the executive would re-draft it so as to make its meaning more clear, the motion was carried.

CANDIDATES' PLEDGES.

On a previous day of sitting a resolution was carried asking that the caucus pledge now signed by the Labour party be declared illegal, and disqualifying any member who committed himself to vote in accordance with the dictates of the majority of his party on any subject. It was now re-submitted and rescinded, and a motion referring the matter to the executive to draft a resolution expressing condemnation of the pledge system was carried.

SUNDAY TRAM FARES.

A motion was submitted on behalf of the Enmore branch,—"That excess fares on any section of tramways on Sundays and holidays be abolished," and a rather animated discussion followed upon it. The mover was asked to allow the motion following it on the business paper to be incorporated: "That the Liberal party, if returned to power, pledge themselves to reduce railway and tramway fares," but declined, on the ground that the extra fares charged on Sundays and holidays was an entirely unjustifiable impost.

Several speakers pointed out that the raising of the fares was brought about by the fact that the wages of tramway employees were raised owing to the increased cost of living, and to revert to the old scale of holiday and Sunday fares would make the tramways unprofitable. On the other hand, the injustice of the double fare system was pressed on the conference.

An amendment was submitted to add the words, "Also the 50 per cent. extra on the second section," to the motion, and the debate proceeded.

Mr. Carter (Middle Harbour) pointed out that the tramway fares in New South Wales were cheaper than anywhere else in the world, and in any case the imposition of the extra fare was quite within the rights of the Railway Commissioners, whose duty it was to see that the tramways paid.

After further debate the chairman suggested the withdrawal of both motion and amendment, and the submission of a motion in general terms, "That the increased fares imposed under the administration of the Labour Government be abolished." This was accepted by both parties, and agreed to.

TEACHING DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

Miss Yeo (Yass Women's Branch) moved:—"That domestic training be made compulsory for girls, as military training is for boys." She said that girls, no matter whether in the future they were to have homes of their own or not, should be taught the elements of housekeeping. Boys had to undergo military training by law, and the harmony of the home would in the future be better ensured if the wife understood the science of housekeeping.

The motion was carried.

SOLDIERS' INCOME TAX.

Mr. Nesbitt, M.L.A., moved:—

"That in the opinion of this conference the Income Tax Acts be amended (early during the forthcoming session of Parliament), empowering the Tax Commissioners to either remit altogether or else defer payment of income tax of persons on active service until their return to this State, and, further, to exempt from income tax contributions in either money or kind to patriotic funds, hospitals, and charitable objects."

Mr. Maguire (Annandale) seconded the motion, which was carried.

OTHER MOTIONS.

Motions were also passed in favour of Civil Servants being paid weekly instead of fortnightly; objecting to the franchise proposed in the Local Government Act; and a general resolution affirming the general principle of taxation with representation in the Local Government Act. Several other motions were formally agreed to.

CONFERENCE CLOSES.

The business having been concluded, a motion of thanks to the general secretary (Mr. Archdale Parkhill) was carried, and the conference closed.

HOP-GROWING.

POSITION IN TASMANIA.

HOBART, Sunday.

A deputation of members of Parliament and others interested in the hop-growing industry waited on the Treasurer, Sir Elliott Lewis on Friday, to ask that the State Government take control of the industry, and appoint an officer to grade the hops, and fix prices at which the products should be sold. The deputation was introduced by Mr. Ellis Dean, M.L.C., who said that the industry was in a perilous condition. Nearly the whole of last season's crop still remained unsold, and unless something was done by the State, a large proportion of the hop-growing areas would be grubbed up and the industry almost brought to a standstill. He alleged that as a result of the dumping of foreign grown hops in Australia, all brewers were overstocked, and there was practically no sale for the Tasmanian article. Since the war started immense quantities of Bavarian hops had been dumped in America, and this accounted for large shipments from America to Australia.

Mr. W. E. Shoobridge, M.P., said that the standard grading of hops should be undertaken by the State, and prices fixed. He suggested 1/3 as a fair price for first grade; 1/1 and 1/ for second and third grades respectively.

The Treasurer, in reply, promised to bring the matter before his colleagues at the earliest possible opportunity. It would hardly be possible to prohibit the importation of hops unless it could be shown that they had been grown in an enemy country. The Federal Government could not prohibit the importation of hops grown in America.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The discussion at the meeting of the Royal Society on "Science and Industry," and your leader of this date, together with an appreciation of the economic conditions brought about by the war, serve to draw attention to the importance of encouraging the study of science in its relation to industry, and to the educational facilities in that direction. Unfortunately, criticism of the actions and policy of the Education Department is ineffective, such is their infallibility. But it might not be amiss to draw attention to the extraordinary fact that, after this year, no "honours" will be granted in science at the leaving certificate examinations. Incidentally the same is true of history. As pupils win bursaries and exhibitions by competitive examinations in which "honours" count for more than "A" passes, it is inevitable that science will not attract as many students as other subjects—a fact greatly to be deplored. The reason for the department's action is a puzzle, but the determination is beyond question, under existing circumstances, deplorable.

BAG SHELTER MOTHS.

In the June number of the "Agricultural Gazette," it is reported that Mr. H. L. White, of Belltrees, Scone, recently forwarded to the Department of Agriculture specimens of moths which had been doing great damage to the wattle trees in the district. According to the report, originally that part of the Upper Hunter contained many large clumps of the "Yarran" tree, and with one exception they had all died out owing, in Mr. White's opinion, to the ravages of this particular caterpillar. The exception referred to is a clump of about 10 acres close to the Belltrees woolshed. These trees have been partly protected for the past few years, but the insects had this autumn stripped quite 50 per cent. of the trees, and the beautiful patch of timber was apparently doomed. The nests were a wonderful sight, many of them being the size of small buckets. When Mr. White first started to try to check the caterpillars he put on three men to cut down and burn the nests, but the hairy matter from the insects came off in such quantities that two of the men became affected with itch in such a bad form that they had to attend the local hospital. For many years spraying with Paris green was tried, but all to no purpose. While it would appear that spraying affords the best check, the tops of the highest trees cannot be reached with an ordinary outfit. An apparently similar caterpillar, the report states, attacks his "Myall" and "Cootamundra" wattle, but the trees being few and small the pest can be easily dealt with. In his reply the Government Entomologist stated that bag-shelter moths are found all over the central and western country, attacking the different species of wattle. Cutting out and burning the nests containing the caterpillars seem, under ordinary conditions, the best methods to adopt. When the pest gets beyond this control it must be very bad. The caterpillars only use the bag-shelter nests to hide in during the day, coming out to feed on the foliage in the night. When full grown they swarm down the trunk, and bury themselves in the soil close to the tree. They may be destroyed in great numbers in the pupal stage when buried in the ground, by turning over the ground with a pick. He stated that a spray arsenate of lead should be more effective and lasting than Paris green, and a strength of 2lb to 50 gallons of water should not be too strong for wattle trees. These caterpillars are allied to the Gypsy Moth in America, which has been destroying the forests and gardens in the neighbourhood of Boston, U.S.A., for the last 20 years."

Does the Department of Agriculture fully realise the serious consequences which might follow any more than usual increase in the numbers of these bag-shelter moths? Is it not possible for these moths to become so serious a pest as to get absolutely beyond our control, and cause hundreds of thousands of pounds' worth of damage to both our commercial and ornamental timbers? This has already been the case in many parts of America, where these moths have cost an enormous sum in the loss of valuable shade and forest trees, besides the money spent in the attempt to curb their spread. The State of Massachusetts alone has spent up to the present time over 8,000,000 dollars in this work of extermination. It is stated that in some parts of New England (America) the fight against this moth seems almost hopeless as far as the area in which they are established is concerned. The fact that this insect has got beyond control at Scone would seem to be sufficient reason for prompt action being taken by the department for its eradication.

ENGLISH WOOL TRADE.

EUROPE ON THE LICENSE SYSTEM.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

BRADFORD, May 25.

The wool trade of Europe at the present time seems to be worked on the licence system. Exports of wool and wool goods in any form are prohibited from Great Britain, except in a few cases to allies, the most notable exception to this being the fact that any kind of clothing except khaki can be exported to France. Our ally enjoys freer trade in this respect with us than any other country that is not a colony. Italy has also laid restrictions on the export of all kinds of wool and wool goods, and only the very lightest fabrics can be exported, but even these need a licence. Norway and Sweden and the northern countries are also "at the band end," for wool and wool goods, and for many months export has been forbidden, in some cases entirely, and in others except by licence. Spain also has an absolute embargo on the export of wool, with the result that several kinds of Spanish produce which used to be sold in Bradford are now almost unobtainable. Supplies of Mazamet wool in Bradford have been extremely small during the course of the war, so much so that quotations have been unobtainable from most of the regular dealers. This again is due to the fact that France has allowed no wool to be exported, although we hear that quite recently the largest Bradford factor has been successful in securing a licence for a few months to import skin wool from Mazamet, and has put a large amount of capital into the raw material.

In regard to our own country, since the meeting of the representatives from every wool centre of the country with the War Trade Department at Westminster, a few licences have been given out. The proceedings last week at this meeting were to be considered confidential, but it is freely rumoured that the Government have practically decided to take a census of all the wool stocks in this country. This is good policy, and is sure to give them a far better idea of what licences to grant. Nobody expects that America will get much, and no doubt some of America's purchases of New Zealand crossbreds will be resold in the London market, at least that is what is looked for. Last week-end's meeting was the first of a series of monthly ones, by which the wool committee in London hopes to keep in close touch with conditions in the trade. The licences granted have been chiefly for the export to France of dry-combed merino tops, merino noils, and small weights of crossbred yarns, although there are still moderate weights of dry-combed tops and manifold hosiery yarns offered by export houses, who have been unable to get permission to ship. Still, the actual weight of dry-combed tops on this market has diminished sensibly during the past week, and whereas at the time of writing our last letter a good dry-combed 64's or 70's was worth no more than a similar quality in oil, we have heard that 4s 1d has been made for a dry-combed top of the former quality, while up to the present, as far as we are aware, no sales of tops in oil have been made at more than 4s.

EXTREMELY STRONG MARKET.

This price has come to be regarded as the standard quotation for 64's, and topmakers are by no means ready sellers. There is a good deal of talk about the soundness of to-day's values, and no one expects lower prices for some time to come, either in merinos or crossbreds. Spinners naturally are not eager buyers at such a level, but still they have to keep taking a few small weights when they cannot get delivery of old contracts. It is remarkable that there is not the same pressure to-day in getting merino wool combed as there was a couple of months ago, but combers are very independent indeed, and will only treat the best raw material. The operatives threaten to strike if they are told to scour and comb burry wool, and labour is so scarce to-day that the employer is to a far greater extent than ever before at the mercy of his employees.

There has been a very good demand recently for merino noils, which have advanced smartly to the extent of 2d or more during the past fortnight. France is again likely to be interested, seeing that a few licences have been granted, although applications for these had been sent in to the War Trade Department six weeks or more ago. Russia, too, has participated in the buy.

AMERICAN EXPORTERS COMBINE.

The title of the latest society in the wool trade is the "Association of English and Colonial Wool Exporters to the United States from the United Kingdom." Under this long and imposing title the chief firms interested in the export of wool to America have united in order to act as an official representative body to the War Trade Department on all matters appertaining to their particular export trade, and to circulate all information received from that department quickly and efficiently to members.

MERINO RECORDS AND STOCK RECORDS.

LONDON, June 1.

The attitude of the whole trade to-day is one of confidence in the future, and the prices users are paying show that they are quite ready to discount a future rise. On the opening day there were dozens of lots of superior wools selling at around 1s 9d to 1s 11d, which could have been secured a month ago for about 1s 7½d to 1s 9d. The advance generally was 1½d to 2d in the topmaking wools offered, and out of most of them decent 64's tops would cost around 4s 3d to 4s 4d. One or two lots went at "dear prices" for Bradford spinners, who apparently can pay any figure, and though the wools were 70's, it was estimated that the tops would cost close on 4s 6d. West Australian greasy merinos touched 2s yesterday—a record price. So did Queensland wools.

SATISFACTION FOR GROWERS.

The news that was received here early this week to the effect that an embargo has been placed on the export of all wool from Australia except to Great Britain, and that the Brisbane sale had been postponed in consequence, had not the slightest effect on the market here. There seems to be altogether too little merino wool in sight for such an embargo to affect materially the course of values, and one would certainly think top-making wool looks like rising, in spite of everything. No matter where they come from, Australia or New Zealand, good combing merinos are at a premium to-day in London, and it is lucky for some things that America is not allowed to force up values still higher. The fact of the present high prices is itself a warning that the home trade demands for wool are really pressing, and we cannot believe the rumours that Australian growers are against an embargo in their country, because they want the last ⅛d, whether it be out of American or English buyers.

Three-shilling scoureds are by no means the novelty they used to be. One would like to see a few lots of the famous Shaw mark offered to-day. They might realise well on towards 4s. During this week, Russia has paid up to 3s 2d for the Clyde scoured clothing wools from Victoria, and 3s 7d for scoured Queensland 70's of the Cambridge Downs mark. These wools, though it is difficult to find fault with them, were certainly not the best offered this year by any means, and the prices realised show how far the market has advanced during the last month or two. At the present time shipping to Russia is becoming easier, as the ice breaks round the port of Archangel. Ekaterina also continues to work at full pressure, and during the summer months considerable weights of good wool, which have been bought by Russia in this market during the winter will be taken to her mills. We might here comment that, compared with some of the figures which greasy merinos are fetching, superior Queensland scoured 70's at from 3s 2d to 3s 6d, though certainly high priced, can hardly be called dear.

INFERIOR WOOLS.

Flannel manufacturers are again well to the front, and Rochdale and the West Riding have been keen competitors for all classes of short, woollen style merinos. Both scoured and greasy wools, burry, and free, have been actively competed for, and short Western Australian lambs have sold at around /15½, which would only make about /9 in normal times. One of the chief buyers for a well-known hosiery firm has been paying freely 1/5½ for Western Australian greasy merino lambs, these wools being a good penny above last series. The advance in the best greasy merinos is quite /2, in scoureds /3, and in faulty wools about /1½ all round.

GOOD CROSSBRED OFFERINGS.

There have been one or two exceptionally good lots of Australian comebacks, Geelong wools of the Eddington mark having made /25½; Tasmanian comebacks branded Woolnorth 2/0½. Port Phillip comebacks marked Moynalla /26, and excellent length Western Australian comebacks of the E.J.L. clip /23½. These wools were all taken by Bradford and Scotch spinners, and their extreme scarcity accounts for the big figures realised. Some very good half-breds have been also offered from New Zealand, Gladbrook touched /24, Ormaglade /21½, and several others from 1/7 to 1/9. Fine scoured Sydney comebacks have touched /40½, crossbred /36½, and quarter-bred lambs clothing from Melbourne have sold around 2/7. One or two lots of fine sliped lambs have been submitted, but not large weights. These have made good prices, selling at up to 2/2½, always for the woollen trade, and they frequently show, like greasy sorts, an advance of a good ½d. Some put it down at /1, but one must not forget the big prices paid last series. The bulk of the crossbred offerings have consisted of medium and low sorts, and they have met with special competition from Bradford topmakers. At the present time 36's to 40's wools certainly seem to be the most reasonable combing sorts on the market, and there is a feeling that they are worth buying as a speculation at to-day's prices.

GOVERNMENT CENSUS OF WOOL STOCKS.

During the present week the Government has been taking a census of all stocks actually held in this country of wool, tops, noils, yarns, rovings, rags, shoddies, and mungoes, under the term wool being understood all kinds of wool and hair, both home and foreign grown. Only stocks actually in the country had to be counted, and each firm had to state separately what goods were unsold and what were to be delivered against contracts. There were several different sections for colonial and foreign crossbreds and merinos, and for the different classes of English wools, this system of tabulation being also carried out to some extent in tops and yarns. It will thus be seen that by this census the Government will obtain a clear idea of all the goods in the country, those which are suitable for khaki, and those not so suited. Returns correct to within 5 per cent. have been accepted, and firms have had to fill in how much of their stock was held on foreign account. They have also been required to state how their present stocks compared with those held in normal pre-war years; how much carbonising merino wool they hold, and if they have any difficulty in having carbonising executed.

F.A.Q. STANDARD.

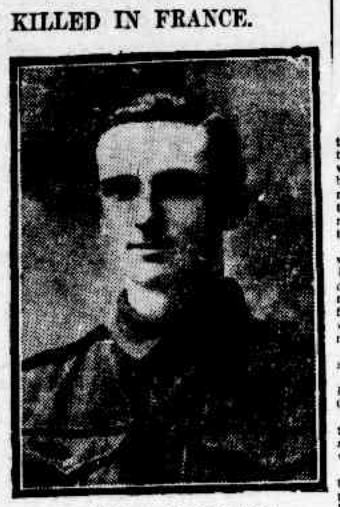

The Tallawang branch of the Agricultural Bureau has been considering the question of the fixing of the f.a.q. wheat standard, and has been confronted with the old grievance that, while the standard is fixed by using the M'Quirk patent scales by the Chamber of Commerce, wheat is tested by country buyers with the chondrometers, which do not register as accurately. This acts prejudicially to the grower and to the benefit of the shipper. Our correspondent writes:—"Some executive action for the protection of the farmer is certainly called for in this matter, that first suggesting itself being the standardising under the Weights and Measures Act of instruments used for testing the quality of wheat. Next we would think payment on grade should be adopted. If a better price for choice butter, beef, mutton, chaff, why should not wheat which is above the average be paid for at a higher rate?"

The unsatisfactory nature of the present f.a.q. system has been pointed out repeatedly in these columns, and one of the advantages of a proper system of handling wheat in bulk is that it will be graded and sold according to grade. The growers' best course is to urge the necessity of speedy introduction of such a system.

VARIEGATED THISTLE.

PROOF OF ITS FODDER VALUE.

INVERELL.—A wonderful example of the excellent fodder value of the variegated thistle is being afforded on a farm of Mr. John Borthwick's, four miles from Inverell, on Byron Plains. The area of the farm, which is wholly rich black soil, is only 300 acres, yet, on this over 2700 sheep have been depasturing for the last three months, and many of them are now fit for the Sydney market. The sheep were trucked from Myenbiah, a property of Mr. Borthwick's, near Collarenebri, owing to the drought prevailing there, and were very low in condition, a number dying on the way. The thistles had made considerable growth before the sheep were turned on, but, despite the heavy stocking, scarcely any impression has been made on their growth; in fact, the thistles are beating the sheep. The farm was under crop for some years, but in the absence of a tenant this year the thistles took possession.

A MAN'S WORK.

BY SILAS K. HOCKING.

CHAPTER XV.—Continued.

He ceased to call after a while. What was the use? He was far away from the beaten tracks. No one would ever hear him. He would have to lie there till people from the hotel came to search for him. That would not be till evening. The excursionists had taken their lunch with them, and would not return till sundown, and it would be supposed that he had gone with them.

By the time the search party set off it would be nearly dark, and they would not know which way to turn. No one had been about when he wandered away alone. They might search through all the night without finding him, and when they did find him he would be dead. He could not possibly live many hours in such agony.

He called again for help, but his voice seemed to grow more and more feeble.

Was this the end, then? Had all his striving and plotting and sinning led to this? Had God ceased to be merciful after all?

He did not want to die. He wanted to live, to perhaps reshape his life, to make some atonement for the past, to do some useful work before he went to his account.

He closed his eyes, and all his life seemed to pass before him like the unrolling of a panorama. How futile it had been in the main. He had begun well, but money and unworthy ambitions had corrupted him. He had gone from step to step, from one folly to another, till now——

"Oh, merciful God," he prayed, "give me a few more years. Now that my eyes have been opened, give me another chance——"

But there came no answer to his prayer. The only sound that broke the stillness was the tinkling of the stream.

The pain in his leg was growing more intense and agonising. A cold sweat had broken out over him, and lay in big drops on his forehead. His strength seemed to be swiftly ebbing out.

He opened his eyes again, and looked appealingly towards heaven. Then a shudder ran through his frame, he drew in his breath with a great gasp, his heart seemed to stop beating.

Peering over the rock was a face that froze the blood in his veins and held him spellbound. He tried to cry out, but no sound escaped his lips. Was he losing his reason, or was this the beginning of death? He raised a feeble hand to ward off the sight, and then with a piteous groan he slipped away into the region of unconsciousness.

CHAPTER XVI.

TRUTH WILL OUT.

Less than an hour later a young man in a knickerbocker suit, and wearing thick hob-nailed shoes, rushed up the hotel steps and said to the hall-porter in excited tones:

"There's a gentleman staying at this hotel who has got hurt. Telephone to the nearest doctor to be here as quickly as possible, and let me have half a dozen men and a stretcher of some kind. There's no time to be lost."

The porter was alert in a moment, and eager with questions.

"Hurt? Who, sir? Where? How did it happen?"

"Never mind who or where. Call the proprietor," was the quick answer.

The proprietor was on the scene in a few seconds, accompanied by a dozen waiters; and while a stretcher was dragged from a lumber-room downstairs and a number of appliances got together, the young man told his story.

"I saw a man climbing about among the rocks some time before I reached him," he said. "I was on my way to Vaarstegg. Then he disappeared, but I thought nothing of that—the place is not at all dangerous. When I got near the spot, however, I heard a faint cry for help, and looking over a rock on the edge of the ravine, I saw him lying on a wide ledge several feet below me—he had evidently slipped and fallen over. By the time I reached him he had become unconscious. It did not take me long to discover that his right leg was broken—what other hurts he may have received I don't know. As I know something about surgery, I got some rough splints from underneath a hayshed. Also I twisted a rope of dried hay and made my way back to him as quickly as possible. He was still unconscious, but he came to himself while I was setting his leg—the pain, I suppose, brought him round. I made him as comfortable as possible; gave him a stimulant which I had in my knapsack, and hurried off here for assistance."

By this time a number of visitors who were at lunch gathered round, and a few minutes later at least twenty men and a few women set off to bring back the wounded man, the stranger leading the way.

In less than half an hour they reached the place where Bardell lay. He was quite conscious, and when he heard the sound of voices he looked up with a wan smile.

It was no easy task to get him up to the edge of the ravine. The stranger directed operations with considerable skill, keeping a finger most of the time on Bardell's pulse.

When at length the task was accomplished and the little cavalcade marched away in the direction of the hotel, the stranger turned back for his knapsack, which he had left lying on the foot of a rock. Strapping it on carefully he waited a few moments, then walked away in the opposite direction.

By the time Adela returned—which was not until nearly sundown—Bardell was lying comfortably in bed with a nurse in attendance. She was greatly distressed, as was only natural, and flew to her fathers' side in an agony of fear and misgiving. He received her, however, with great cheerfulness and made as light of the matter as possible.

"Might have been worse, little girl," he smiled. "Might have broken my neck, you know."

"Oh, daddy," and she bent over and kissed him, while her tears fell on his face.

"Don't worry, little girl," he went on tenderly; "there's a bright side to every cloud, you know."

"Yes, daddy," she sobbed, "but—oh——"

"Oh, I'll soon be all right again," he gurgled, "It'll mean lengthening out our holiday a bit, and very likely you'll have to take a turn at nursing——"

"Oh, I won't mind that," she said, smiling through her tears. "I shall love nursing you."

"You'll find my temper awful," he grinned, "but you will have to put up with me."

"I won't mind anything, daddy, so long as you get better," she whispered, kissing him again.

"Doctor says nothing ails me but my leg," he gurgled; "right as rain in all other respects."

The next morning when the doctor called, Adela waylaid him as he was leaving.

"You think he will get better," she questioned anxiously.

"Oh, yes, he will do all right," he said pleasantly. "He was fortunate in getting his leg set before it began to swell. It was cleverly done, too——"

"You mean——"

"Whoever the young man was who found him, he knew his business—could not have done it better myself, nor so well——"

"He did not return to the hotel."

"There was no need. He had done all he could. Possibly also he wanted to reach his destination before nightfall."

"I wish he had stayed. I would so like to have thanked him."

"Men do not want thanks for doing a neighbourly act."

Meanwhile Richard Bardell was lying quite still, looking up at the ceiling and thinking hard. He had had brief snatches of sleep during the night, and his brain seemed clearer than on the previous evening; but he was still in doubt sometimes whether he was altogether in his right mind. The events of the previous day seemed in many respects like a fantastic dream. Coincidences, strange and startling are common enough in works of fiction, but in real life they are much more rare, and the chances seemed a million to one against the thing happening that had apparently happened.

It was strange enough that he should have been discovered at all in that out-of-the-way place, and so soon after his accident, but that he should have been discovered by Hector Drysdale—the man whom he believed was dead—seemed incredible, almost unthinkable. It was this that made Richard Bardell doubt his sanity. It seemed more reasonable to believe that he was off his head than that the things had happened which appeared to have happened.

He seemed wide awake enough, but was he? He put the matter to the test in every way he could think of. His brain appeared to be working in orderly fashion. There were no breaks in his memory. He could trace the events of yesterday and of the previous days step by step. There was surely no room for doubt that his leg was broken. The pain was real enough.

But Hector Drysdale!—the man he had insulted the last time they met. The man he had wronged and sought to kill! Was he real, or only the creation of a disordered brain?

He still felt so much in doubt as to his absolute sanity that he resolved to say nothing about the matter to Adela—for the present, at least. He would wait till he was more certain of himself.

(To be continued.)

RIFLE SHOOTING.

BUSY DAY AT RANDWICK.

All of the targets at the Randwick range were in use on Saturday afternoon, 30 clubs being represented. A fairly steady northerly wind blew for most of the time, and although the light was bad, good scores were registered, including a number of one-stage "possibles." Towards the conclusion of the shooting the wind veered round to the south-west, from which quarter it blew strongly. Heavy rain also fell. As a consequence, many of the scores were considerably reduced. The best totals registered at the respective distances were:—800 yards (36in bull's-eye), 59 out of 70, by W. Linfoot and J. Boyle (Annandale); 700 yards (20in), 60 out of 70, by A. Bourke (Auburn); 600 yards (20in), 61 out of 70, by R. Roberts (Registrar-General's Department); 500 yards (20in), 69 out of 70 (including a 7-shot "possible), by H. Harvie (Sydney); seven-shot "possibles," by G. W. Pardonne (Yorkshire Society), S. Pinnington (A.M.P. Society), and R. Edmond and F. Box (Sydney); 400 yards (20in), 34 out of 35, by F. S. Lee (Ashfield); 300 yards (8in), 66 out of 70, by R. C. Broomham (North Sydney); a seven-shot "possible," by Sergeant-major Groot (Legion of Frontiersmen); 200 yards (8in), 68 out of 70 (including a seven-shot "possible"), each by P. Lawless and J. Garland (Belmore); 49 out of 50, by J. Robertson (Wunderlich).

From the 800 yards' mound a 14-shot club shoot was carried out by Annandale Club, the top-scorers being W. Linfoot and J. Boyle, who each obtained 59.

A 14-shot club shoot was decided from the 700 yards' mound by Auburn Club. The best scores were registered by A. Bourke (60) and T. Noonan and W. M'Nab (58 each). Teams of 10 men a side, representing the Bungendore and Randwick clubs, fired a seven-shot match, the country team winning by 260 to 251 points. D. Gregory, with 32, top-scored for the winning side, and S. Sibley, with 30, for Randwick.

At 600 yards a 14-shot two-stage club shoot was put in by the Registrar-General's Department Club. R. Roberts, with 28, 33—61, headed the list, the next best being C. Shinn, with 29, 31—60, and O. Rowley, with 27, 32—59. Four country clubs fired matches with the Randwick Club, Penrith, Katoomba, Penrose, and Goulburn Railway Ambulance. The latter club and Penrith won their matches.

From the 500 yards mound a 14-shot practice shoot was carried out by the Eastern Suburbs Club, E. Docksey and A. Mason top-scoring with 66 each, A. Nelson coming next with 64. Parramatta Club held a young members' shoot, 14 shots in two stages. The best scores were obtained by E. Patmore (32, 34—66), H. Chapple (33, 33—66), and P. Towse (32, 33—65). A match, 10 men a side, 14 shots, was fired between the Callan Park and Drummoyne clubs, the former winning by 553 points to 518. For Callan Park E. Evans and J. Storey headed the list with 58 each, while for the losing side F. Stutchbury, with 64, and R. Fenerty, with 62, obtained the best scores. A 14-shot two-stage practice shoot was put in by the Press Club, the members shooting as pairs. The winners were W. E. Pite (31, 32—63) and R. J. Steel (31, 31—62), who beat H. V. Hart (33, 31—64) and A. Yeldon (28, 30—58) by three points. Yorkshire Society Club decided its first club shoot of the quarter, 14 shots in two stages. A. Schmidt, who scored 33 in both stages, headed the list. G. W. Pardonne, with a "possible" and 30, being the next best. Sydney Club brought off a similar shoot, H. Harvie, with 34 and a "possible," R. Edmond, with 33 and a "possible," D. S. Dalmazzo, who dropped but one point in each stage, and F. Box, with 33 and a "possible," obtaining the best scores. Twenty-two members competed. In a 14-shot club shoot by Balmain Club J. Peterson scored 58, F. Farrell 56, and F. Garwood 54.

A.M.P. Club held its first shoot of the quarter, 14 shots in two stages. The top-scorers were: A. Sneddon, with 34 and 32, and S. Pinnington, with a "possible" and 31, L. Morrison, with 32, 30—62, being the next best.

At 400 yards a seven-shot teams' match was decided between the Haberfield and Ashfield clubs, the former winning by 215 points to 192. H. Ritchie, with 33, led the winning side, while F. S. Lee, with 34, top-scored for the losers.

From the 300 yards' mound, North Sydney put in a 14-shot two-stage club shoot, 28 members competing. R. C. Broomham, who dropped but two points in each stage, headed the list, A. H. Pitcher (late of Yorkshire Society Club) coming second with 32, 31—63. A 14-shot two-stage practice shoot was carried out by the Legion of Frontiersmen, Sergeant-major Heap, with 31, 34—65, and Sergeant-major Groot, with 30 and a "possible," obtaining the best totals. A novel match was fired between whiskered and clean-shaven members of Western Suburbs Club, eight men a side, 14 shots. The former won by 490 points to 461. R. Ackland and W. Griffiths, with 65 each, leading the winning team's scores, and B. T. R. Bennett, with 62, the clean-shaven men. The scores also counted for the club's first club shoot of the quarter.

At 200 yards Belmore Club carried out a 14-shot two-stage practice shoot. P. Lawless, with 33, and a "possible," and J. Garland, with a "possible" and 33, obtaining the best scores. In a similar shoot by the Burwood Club, J. Galbraith, the magistrate at the Children's Court, top-scored with 31, 27—58, F. Handcock, with 29, 27—56 being the next best. Wunderlich Club held its first club shoot of the quarter, 13 shots. The best score off the rifle was made by J. Robertson (49), and his allowance of one point enabled him to retain his position at the head of the list when the handicaps were added.

FOOTBALL.

RUGBY LEAGUE.

FIRST GRADE.

GLEBE v SOUTH SYDNEY.

Played at the Agricultural Ground in the presence of 10,000 spectators, and won by Glebe by 11 points to 4. Referee, Mr. T. McMahon.

Ray Norman's kick-off was followed by some fast open play by Glebe, which compelled South Sydney to break ground, but twice Kearns cleared cleverly. Glebe continued to force the play, and D. Donnell, heeling smartly, gave Butler opportunities to open up the game for Gallagher and Scannell, but the "spotting" of the brothers Norman was too effective. The game was fast and attractive, but frequent penalties interfered with promising movements. Glebe took many risks, throwing the ball about with an abandon which suggested great confidence. Once Scannell broke through beautifully, and his short kick over Kearns's head nearly put F. Burge over, but he was narrowly beaten for the ball. A period of even play followed, and then Glebe again attacked. From some loose ruck work, in which Oxford was conspicuous, Butler gathered the ball smartly and passed to Scannell, to Leggo, who grounded in the corner. A. Bolewski failed at goal. Glebe 3 points to nil after twenty minutes' play.

The ball was in play about a minute when Glebe scored again. From a scrummage outside South Sydney's twenty-five, Butler sent the ball to Gallagher, to F. Burge, who scored in the corner. A. Bolewski again failed with the kick. Glebe 6, South Sydney nil. Butler, playing with great dash and cunning, was opening up the game from every position. His supports handled superbly, but South Sydney's stubborn defence never wavered. The spectators were delighted with the brilliancy of the Glebe men and the tenacious defence of their opponents. Nicholls, of South Sydney, now retired with an injured knee, and was replaced by W. Dymant. Glebe were now unlucky. F. Burge, after a fine run, crossed over, but in foolishly trying to improve his position was tackled by McGowen, and lost the ball. At half-time Glebe had 6 points to nil.

South Sydney were unlucky in the second half. Soon after resuming the wind veered round, giving Glebe an advantage which South Sydney could not afford to concede. For a while Glebe's back division was disorganised, whilst South Sydney showed an improvement. However, Glebe's backs got going again, and a brilliant cut through by Scannell just missed putting Leggo in. South Sydney made several vain efforts to break through after this, and then A. Bolewski goaled from a penalty, and Glebe led by 8 points to nil. Just afterwards Oxford failed badly at goal, but a moment or two later Dymant was successful. Glebe 8 points, South Sydney 2. Glebe returned to the attack, and a smart movement from the South Sydney twenty-five resulted in Leggo scoring a good try. A. Bolewski's kick hit the cross-bar. Glebe 11 points to 2. Moore, of South Sydney, now retired with an injured hand, but South Sydney made a fine rally, which ended in Dymant kicking another penalty goal. Glebe 11 points, South Sydney 4. The scores were unaltered at full time.

BALMAIN v NORTH SYDNEY.

Played at Birchgrove Oval, and won by Balmain by 13 points to 8. Referee, Mr. C. J. Russell. Attendance 3000.

North Sydney displayed surprisingly good form, but Balmain's excellent defence saved them from defeat. The features of the match were the successful goal kicking of C. Fraser, of Balmain, and Blinkhorn's brilliant work for North Sydney. For the winners, Latta scored a try, which C. Fraser converted. The latter also kicked three penalty goals. For North Sydney Blinkhorn scored two tries, one of which M'Arthur converted. Blinkhorn's second try was secured after a magnificent run over 60 yards.

EASTERN SUBURBS v WESTERN SUBURBS.

Played at the Sports Ground, and won by Eastern Suburbs by 53 points to nil. Referee, Mr. A. Farrow.

Eastern Suburbs established the season's record in this match by scoring 53 points without having their own defence disturbed. The East Sydney men were irresistible, and scored at will. Their combination, even allowing for the weakened Western Suburbs team (Liddy and White were absent, and J. Iss retired at half-time with an injured arm), was high-class, being reminiscent of the side's play when H. H. Messenger was in his best form. His younger brother was very conspicuous on Saturday, scoring a try and kicking 16 goals from 17 attempts. The other try-getters were Gilbert (4), Cubitt (4), Raymond, and Duffy. Towards the close Cubitt had to retire with a jarred ankle.

ANNANDALE v NEWTOWN.

Played at Wentworth Park, and won by Annandale by 12 points to 6. Referee, Mr. [illegible]

Notwithstanding a one-point deficit at half-time, Annandale beat their opponents in a game which, though keenly contested throughout, was scrappy during the major portion. The closing ten minutes were very lively, when Newtown made great efforts. For the winners R. Stewart and Dagg scored tries, and W. Doyle kicked three penalty goals. For the losers P. A. McCue and Regan scored tries.

SECOND GRADE.

EASTERN SUBURBS v NEWTOWN.

Played at the Sports Ground, and won by Eastern Suburbs by 26 points to nil. A. Brown (2), Connerton, Wright, Maddocks, and Ward scored tries, and Lucas kicked four goals.

GLEBE v WESTERN SUBURBS.

RIFLE CLUBS AND DEFENCE.

SPEECH BY SENATOR MILLEN.

Responding to the toast of "The Federal Parliament" at the annual dinner of the Randwick Rifle Club, held in St. Jude's Hall, Randwick, on Saturday evening, Senator Millen, ex-Minister for Defence, said that the rifle club movement was entitled to a much more important part in the defence system than was accorded it. A lot had been said as to the assistance that the riflemen in Australia were in a position to give in the training of troops in musketry. He had endeavoured to prevail with the Defence Department to recognise that the rifle clubs were in a position to supply such instruction, and if the opportunity had not been taken advantage of there was something radically wrong. It was a matter for regret that men had been sent to the front with but little knowledge of the use of a rifle, while members of rifle clubs were willing to give their services as instructors. The resources of the clubs should be fully utilised to make our men proficient. When we looked at what had been responsible for such measure of success as the Germans had claimed up to the present—success which was to be cut permanently short and ended—we had to recognise that it was not due to the fact that she had organised after the outbreak of the war, but that she had used 40 years of peace to prepare for the struggle. On the other hand, Britain had faced the war without any preparation worth speaking of. There were two kinds of preparation which a peaceful nation could adopt. One was to take advantage of the years of peace to build up a great military and naval force at the expense of the people. He was not in favour of that kind of preparation at all. It was a system repugnant to the ideas of a democratic community. There was the other form, a preparation which he thought Australia should seriously address itself to. It was in times of peace a nation should organise her civil forces and activities, so that in the time of war those forces and activities could be utilised to the best advantage. The rifle clubs were formed so that there would be a place for them in the national army. They formed practically the only reserves for the army, yet the one institution to which the movement should look for encouragement had received it with little more than the cold shoulder. As we could not maintain a huge costly army, we must so utilise the civil forces of the community that there would be no longer that shadow of doubt between the Defence Department and the rifle club movement, but instead a generous recognition of the valuable work they had done, and would continue to do in the future, to assist the defence movement. It had been said that members of rifle clubs were "pot-hunters," but the lie direct to that statement was in the fact that the clubs had responded splendidly to the Empire's call for assistance. Forty per cent. of the members of the club were already at the front.

In responding on behalf of the State Parliament, Mr. D. Storey, M.L.A., said that he had endeavoured to get the Chamber of Commerce here to do what Mr. Hughes had advocated in England in dealing with the Germans after the war. He considered that all German-made goods should be plainly branded, and that people should abstain from buying them.

Mr. T. B. Simpson, senior vice-president of the club, regretted that the services of members of rifle clubs had not been fully availed of by the military authorities here. He claimed that hundreds of members were competent and willing to act as musketry instructors, but they were not called upon at a time when such instruction was urgently required. The home authorities, on the other hand, had, he said, utilised riflemen as instructors, and no fewer than 2,000,000 men had passed through the Bisley School of Musketry, where they were taught the use of the rifle by members of the National Rifle Association.

At a later stage, in proposing "Absent Comrades," Senator Millen referred to the fact that no less than 120,000 single men had deliberately signed "No" to their war census cards, and had thereby shown that, in their opinion, our country was not worth fighting for. He considered such a state of affairs was disgraceful, but he was pleased to see that there were many men, and riflemen among them, who were prepared to make sacrifices, even of their lives, for the sake of the Empire.

The Randwick Rifle Club has 82 active and four honorary members, and of these 35 have enlisted. Two of them—Lieutenant J. B. Savage and Private Arthur Barnes—have been killed, while another—Colonel Newmarch—has gained his C.M.G. at the front.

PROTESTANT ALLIANCE.

Lodge Victoria of the Protestant Alliance Friendly Society of Australasia held the annual installation of officers in the Chatswood Town Hall on Wednesday, when Bro. H. E. Walker was installed as Worshipful Master. Past-Masters' jewels were presented to Wor. Bros. Petrie, Wearne, and Newton. The Grand Master, Bro. F. C. Petrie, on behalf of the brethren, presented Mrs. A. E. Wearne with a silver hot-water kettle.

The toast of "Our Brethren at the Front" was proposed by Bro. Newton, who stated the lodge had sent 30 members and the order 1726, of whom 57 had been killed.

AUSTRALIAN JEWELLERY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—A certain amount of correspondence has appeared in your columns under the above heading, and the matter is of such vital importance to a large section of Sydney traders, and in fact to master jewellers throughout the Commonwealth, that it becomes necessary that the public should be made acquainted with what is going on. The hon. the Minister for Trade and Customs recently issued a minute that all jewellery of the standard of 9ct, and over should be prohibited from entering the Commonwealth. This came as a bombshell, more particularly to those carrying on a high-class trade, because, while everything that can be made locally is made locally in order to avoid the heavy duties, it is essential to the progress and well-being of their business to keep in close touch with the art productions in the London and Paris markets.

It may be explained that many classes of jewellery cannot, and will not for a long time to come, be made in Australia, simply because we are not yet ready for it. So far no schools of design, and no night schools, have been established out here, and while the trade since the start of Federation has made rapid strides, we are not yet ready to stand alone. These schools of design were started in Birmingham many years ago through the energy of the late Joseph Chamberlain, and the trade in that city was slowly lifted from a condition of chaos to what we find it to-day.

Prior to Federation, New South Wales had no jewellery factories worth the name, but with heavy outside duties and intercolonial freetrade, we set to work to manufacture all we could, and for the past 16 years have made steady progress both in quality and quantity, and quality stood first. This condition of things has reacted more or less on the Melbourne manufacturers, who, prior to Federation, sent all they could not sell in Victoria into freetrade New South Wales. It would now appear that a small coterie of Melbourne jewellers have got the ear of the Minister (who is a Victorian member), or his advisers, with the result that a large number of traders who have in many cases spent half a century in building up a high-class trade have, with one stroke of the Ministerial pen, had the ground cut from under their feet, and a life's work seriously endangered.

The suggestion that designs can be produced and made here superior to London and Paris is too childish to merit comment but the opportunity we have hitherto enjoyed of importing the latest Parisian designs has enabled shopkeepers to manufacture and copy these designs to a fairly successful extent, and step by step we are becoming more and more self-reliant and efficient; but for many years to come there are certain lines of jewellery which, although much asked for by certain buyers, will not be made in Australia.

What we now ask is this—The Minister has heard one side of the question; will he come along and visit our showrooms and workshops and allow us to show him (or his representatives) what we have done, and what we are doing at this moment? Surely this is a fair and just proposal. The suggestion that a large number of working jewellers are out of work will be found to be distinctly wrong; that is, assuming that these men are competent tradesmen. At the present time many Sydney houses are searching high and low for mounters and setters, but without result. If the conditions of war make it imperative that all luxuries should cease, then the master jewellers will accept loyally that condition of things; but that is not for a moment suggested, and, if so, why should jewellery alone be hit upon when so many other luxuries of a passing character are admitted without demur?

If the Minister persists in the course he has taken, then we must appeal to the New South Wales members on both sides of the House to see that we get a fair deal, because, if this edict continues in force for any length of time, it means that the condition of the jewellery trade will be put back to what it was 25 years ago, and can only end in disaster to both masters and men.

I am, etc., FAIRPLAY.

FRENCH NATIONAL DAY.

The president of the French National Day Committee, Mr. Neville Mayman, reports that the committee has received promises of support from all classes of the community in connection with the movement to pay a tribute to our Allies, the French, on the occasion of their National Day, July 14. At noon at each civic headquarters throughout New South Wales the Mayor or shire president will invite the people of the district to attend and pay their tribute to our French allies. A resolution of esteem and gratitude has been prepared, and will be submitted at each of these gatherings, and cheers will be given for the people and the armies of France. In the Sydney Town Hall, between 11 and 12 o'clock, a programme will be given on the grand organ by Mr. Ernest Truman of selected national airs, and at 12 o'clock precisely the Lord Mayor will take the chair and call upon the Attorney-General (Mr. D. R. Hall) to submit the resolution. This will be seconded by Mr. George Fuller, deputy leader of the State Opposition, acting for Mr. C. G. Wade.

A requiem mass for the French fallen will be celebrated at St. Patrick's at 8.30 a.m., and later members of the French community and other citizens will gather at Moore Park to witness an inspection of all arms of the service by the Brigadier-General commanding the State forces.

After the civic function in the Town Hall members of the Millions Club and their friends will gather at luncheon at the A.B.C. Cafe, where speeches will be made in honour of France. Band selections will be given by the Police Band from 12 to 1 in Martin-place, and by the Fire Brigades Band from 1 to 2 at the same place. In the evening a grand concert will be held in the Town Hall, at which leading artists will assist. The box plan is at Aengenheyster's.

The following messages have been received by Mr. Neville Mayman, president of the French National Day Committee, from Mr. Holman and Mr. Wade respectively:—

"There is justification for doing special honour to France on her national day this year, if only in acknowledgment of the wealth of welcome she has showered upon the Australian troops now fighting side by side with the soldiers of France. But apart from any feeling of gratitude, there is the deeper sentiment of reverential admiration we feel for the heroic sacrifices her pepole have made in defence not only of her own land, but of the sacred laws of humanity. The strength of her manhood, the flower of her youth, and wisdom of her aged, have alike been flung into the shell-swept hell along the western front, and at last their glorious courage and contempt of death have brought the golden lining of prospective victory to the thunder war-clouds overhanging Europe.

"I regret I will not be present at any of the public functions with which it is proposed to do honour to our Ally on July 14, but on that day, out on the Pacific, my thoughts will be with you in your celebrations, and I will toast in all sincerity—'To France, our brothers-in-blood, renewed and more glorious prosperity when peace follows upon a quick and complete victory.'"—W. A. Holman.

"The people of New South Wales will welcome the French national day as an opportunity to do homage to a gallant race and the steadfast allies of the British Empire. They withstood with heroic courage the first shock of the war; they have suffered appalling hardships and grave material losses at the hands of our ruthless and savage enemy, but have endured through the grim struggle with courage undaunted and spirit undimmed. Their untroubled serenity in the face of adversity, their magnificent reorganisation in the presence of the foe, and their efficient management of every department of war, have been alike a terror to the enemy and a stimulus to their friends. They emerge now in the dawn of victory unconquerable and triumphant. I cordially commend the celebrations on the 14th to the people, and truth that they will result in a striking demonstration of gratitude and sympathy.—C. G. Wade."

ORANGE CELEBRATION.

PROTESTANTISM AND THE WAR.

References to the war were prominent in the addresses delivered at the annual religious service and demonstration of the Loyal Orange Institution of New South Wales, in connection with the 12th of July celebrations, held yesterday at the Town Hall, Sydney. The hall was crowded. Mr. Marcus W. Grice (Grand Master) presided.

"The great lesson of the war for Protestant Australia" was the subject of an address by Bro. the Rev. J. J. Willings (Past Grand Chaplain). The war, he said, had shown the value of unity, and during the past two years they had been talking a great deal of the cruel mailed fist of the enemy, who had advanced united upon the Allies. They had seen the spectacle of the ruthless Prussian, the cadaverous Austrian, and the bankrupt Turk marching upon the helpless and the weak. But they had seen something else. They still had the Union Jack waving above their heads. (Applause.) Britain was still a united Empire. It seemed a little while back that this was not going to be so. There were troubles in Ireland—when were there not troubles in Ireland?—and it seemed as if in the midst of the struggle the German Emperor was going to get his fist home. But it was amply demonstrated that the Empire, in spite of the German Emperor, in spite of the Dublin riots, in spite of Roger Casement, and in spite of turbulent priests, was more solid and more united than it ever had been before. (Applause.) Only in Saturday's paper they had read of an Ulster division advancing to the attack in the face of an awful hail of bullets, crying "No surrender! Remember the Boyne!" (Applause.) This and many other things went to prove that they were standing more solidly and more unitedly facing the enemy than ever before in history. The Empire, with the help of God, will come out of the struggle mightier, greater, purer, nobler, and grander still. (Applause.) The spirit of unity, which was the spirit of God, was the lesson that was being learned, and comprehended through the war, and the speaker pleaded for unity in fighting evil at home. He looked forward to the day when all the free Protestant Churches should be united—the grand united Australasian Federated Church of Jesus Christ.

Bro. the Rev. J. A. Waddell (Deputy Grand Chaplain) delivered an address, in which he compared Joshua's scrupulous observance and the treaty with the Gibeonites, as told in the Old Testament, with Germany's conduct in the present war. The war had its commencement in an act of treaty-breaking—he supposed the most criminal act that had ever stained humanity in all its history. He believed that after the war a better spirit would arise and a rejuvenated Germany would take the place of the Germany that was before the world to-day, dark with crime and dripping with blood—a Germany which it would take many years to restore to the confidence of a world she had deceived. When the war was over Germany, bankrupt in honour, would present the saddest spectacle, while on the other hand grand old England would stand before the world as an ideal nation—always honourable and peaceful, though not prepared for peace at any price.

The Rev. D. F. Brandt delivered an address entitled "The challenge to Protestantism by a world at war."

Mr. Brandt pleaded for home prayer and better observance of the Sabbath.

The service concluded with the National Anthem.

FUNERAL OF MR. W. NEWCOMBE.

The funeral of the late Mr. William Newcombe, who for some years was receiver at the Treasury, took place on Friday afternoon. The cortege left his late residence, St. Catherine, Dowling-street, Moore Park, for St. Michael's Church, Flinders-street, where a short service was held. The Rev. F. R. Elder, assisted by the Rev. NO CATALOGUE THIS SALE.
BULLETINS OF BARGAINS ISSUED INSTEAD.

The prohibitive cost of printing, owing to the scarcity of paper caused by the War, decided us NOT to issue a Sale Catalogue this Sale.

But we shall be issuing printed Bulletins of Bargains in sheet form at frequent intervals during the Sale. These Bargain Bulletins will really be a Mirror of our Annual Sale—as looked at from day to day, and will reduce the writing of that disappointing sentence, "Goods Sold Out," to the irreducible minimum.

YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS on a post card will bring you every "Bargain Bulletin" we issue while the Sale lasts.

WAR AND POLITICS.

Almost two years of warfare have taught the subjects of the allied countries to place very little reliance on reports of internal dissensions or of economic distress in any of the countries opposed to them. Before the war so much had been heard of the hostility of the Socialists to the Government in Germany and of feuds between one race and another in Austria that it was a natural mistake to suppose that the protests of Herr Liebknecht represented a body of active and vigorous pacificists, or that the failure of a Czech or Italian regiment would be followed by a serious internal revolt. Time has proved again what German and Austrian statesmen have supposed, that there is no unifying force as strong as a war. If a nation can be persuaded at once that it is fighting in self-defence and that victory is certain, it will postpone the settlement of its internal disputes and will do so the more readily if geography and history have combined to give all its citizens a sense of their community of interests. Even when both these convictions begin to weaken, when the nation begins to suspect that its rulers have been aggressive and to question their promises of victory, even then the organisation of war prevents any slackening of the national effort. Realisation of these facts prevents us from attaching too much importance to the news of riots in Munich, or to the election to the Reichstag of a partisan of Herr Liebknecht, hitherto almost a solitary figure among the German Socialists. Both these events are of importance to the German Government. They are a forecast of what will happen after the war when the Emperor is called upon to redeem the promises made on his behalf by Herr Delbruck. They suggest that the war has revived the old hostility between Prussia and Bavaria, though it has in no way diminished the courage or the savagery of the Bavarian troops. But they do not of themselves indicate any weakening in the resolve of the German people to continue the war. The civilians are told constantly when they complain of food prices that if they were to adopt the standard of living of 1870 they would have abundance, and that, even with their present standard, they will have enough now that a dictator has been appointed to kill speculation. The wealthier classes are still determined to make peace only on the terms which would have satisfied them at the end of last year. They know that the materials of commerce, such as coal and iron, are even more abundant than in any of the allied countries. There is no longer a famine in petrol, and the Government has released supplies for use in commercial factories. The scarcity of butter and meat imposes on them no actual privation, as it has done on the poorer classes. All their efforts, therefore, are directed towards preventing the Chancellor lowering his demands. They attacked him bitterly in April, when he asked them to be content with annexing part of Russia, with a modified control of Belgium, and with an abandonment of the French provinces. Many of them will attack him for his patronage of the League of Peace, under Count Wedel. The objects of the league may be so vaguely defined as to cover any project for German aggrandisement. Their proclamation may be a despairing attempt to find some war-weariness among the Allies. They will nevertheless be denounced by the German annexationists, who, until they are convinced by an unquestionable defeat, will continue to hope for the iron and coal of France and Belgium which they are enjoying to-day.

In Germany the Government stands between two extremes. A growing but still small minority of the Socialist party demands an immediate peace, the bulk of the party insists that when peace is made no territory shall be annexed. The Centre party and the bulk of the Reichstag go much further than the Government, and nullify all its attempts to persuade the world that Germany is on the defensive or that she has no territorial ambitions. They are addressed occasionally by Ministers, but more often by newspapers, such as the "Frankfurter Zeitung," which is in close touch with financial circles, and is credited with occasional inspiration. They are warned again of the position of their armies, but they will heed no one until their soldiers have suffered again both on the East and the West. The Austrian Government, of course, depends very much on the German. Its armies cannot hold their ground without German support. Its Ministers have been compelled to employ every form of compulsion in order to raise money at home, and have failed to raise a loan in America after offering to hypothecate a definite portion of their revenue—a signal humiliation for a great power. The greater part of its supplies of food come through Germany, and diminish considerably during their passage. The Austrian Parliament has not met during the war, and the Government of Vienna is largely in the hands of German officials. But as our cables show us this morning, there is one part of the dual monarchy which does not bear the German domination either with goodwill or with humility. The indignation of the opposition in Hungary is very significant at the present time, when a Russian army is at the gates of one of their provinces, if not within the province itself. It reflects a sentiment which a few years ago was strong enough to drive Count Tisza from power, and to keep him out until the Emperor intervened with a threat to give Hungary universal suffrage, and so submerge the Magyars in the Slavs and Roumanians. Count Tisza's offence then was that he failed to keep Austrian and Hungarian regiments distinct. His offence now is that a Hungarian province is in danger, and there are no German reinforcements to help it. The Hungarians have heard often during the war that their province of Transylvania is to be offered to Roumania as the price of intervention. They obtained that province from Austria as the fruit of much hard bargaining, and there are some at least of them who would make a bargain to keep it. Hungarians have no reason to love Russia, but they love the Germans less. They have never relished the idea of an economic union, which is to place them at the mercy of German goods and German officials. Count Tisza may have persuaded them that the Russian successes are of no value, but the facts are hopelessly against him, and the Hungarians are bound to ask whether and when the Germans are to appear in the only duty in which they are tolerated, as reinforcements.

WORK FOR STATE WAR COUNCILS.

The Federal Treasurer is taking care that the appeal to all who can possibly do so to take up a portion of the war loan is pressed with greater vigour than were the appeals on account of the first and second issues. Those appeals were mainly through the press, if we except a circular letter by the Federal Treasurer to individuals in receipt of income of £300 and over, sent out on the second occasion. Then all the money required was raised, but it was raised mainly because of large individual subscriptions. Applicants for small amounts were few compared with the number of income receivers who could and should have applied. It may be taken for granted that all citizens of large income were participants in those issues, and will be participants in the present, which is the third issue. They are accustomed to placing money on loan with less security than Governments offer, and so encountered no anxiety in taking up Government stock or bonds. Many took up all they could. Others who did not invest to the limit of their ability will, it is hoped, do so at the present opportunity. The comparative paucity of investment by people of small incomes was no doubt due to want of knowledge of the ways of investment, and certainly to some anxiety as regards realisation should they find that course necessary before the date of maturity. Placing their little in this way was something altogether away from their modes of life; it was foreign, in many cases quite inimical, to their modes of thought. They would look upon stocks and shares as entailing great risks if they ventured the little they had accumulated. The money of the many of small income is just as valuable to the Federal Treasurer as that of the few of large income. But this fact must be brought home to the many. The timorous among them must be reassured, the thoughtless must be convinced that patriotism in lending their means to the Government spells safety both to the Commonwealth as a whole and to themselves as individuals.

To reach the many enthusiasm must be created. We have seen how successful is enthusiasm in the appeals which have been made for money for the troops, to provide them with comforts at the front, in the hospitals when sick and wounded, and with relief to help sustain them on their return home while settling down to their former civilian life. The enthusiasm which did all this, if properly aroused, would prove a potent factor in providing the sinews of war. Such enthusiasm can be best aroused by the closest personal appeal, by the appeal of speech from men who know of what they speak, and who have the faculty of conveying that knowledge to their fellows. The Federal Treasurer has appealed to employers to put a scheme of extended payments of subscriptions before their employees. That appeal has been willingly responded to by large and small firms and companies. But these appeals do not cover everything. A still wider field is left untouched in the small shopkeeper, the small tradesman in business on his own account, even the farmer and the grazier, who have not yet responded to the call. Here is a fresh field for the State war councils to cultivate. They have done their utmost, in the main successfully, with recruiting. They should be equally successful with an appeal for funds for the loan. These councils have the requisite organisation to their hands. They could arrange throughout each State public meetings, at which the claims and advantages of the war loan could be set forth with proper emphasis and with knowledge. But if anything is to be attempted the whole energies of the councils must be devoted to the task, and that at once.

COMMONWEALTH PRICE FIXING.

The Federal Government, having ascertained by the decision of the High Court that it possesses the power to fix the price of merchant goods throughout the Commonwealth, has determined to exercise that power. Though traders would prefer to regain their former freedom they will not be sorry at the change from State control to Commonwealth control. While the State controlled there had always been the fear of Federal action also being taken in certain lines, thus leading to a conflict of authority. This almost happened in regard to breadstuffs in this State. If there is to be price fixing, by all means let there be single control in preference to two controls which would probably be antagonistic the one to the other. Federal control, too, will put all States on the one footing; not that prices will be uniform, because local conditions will be taken into account, but the profits allowed will be on a uniform basis, and the method of working out costs will be uniform. But the question remains whether price fixing is necessary or expedient at the present time. Necessary or expedient, or both, it may have been in the early days of the war when everyone wished to keep stocks as long as possible, because it was not known when replenishment could be brought about. But with a few exceptions the case for present price fixing only brings forth doubtful argument. Government controls wheat, therefore it must fix the price of breadstuffs and offals. It prohibits the export of butter. So butter prices must be fixed. These two cases are admitted. But though Government prohibits the export of meat it does not attempt to fix the price of meat, except the luxury meats—pork and bacon. Why should the price of luxuries be fixed? All belligerents are imploring the people to forego luxuries, to do without them. No surer way of carrying out this prayer than by allowing prices to rise could be imagined. Yet we have fixed the price of luxuries, of wines and spirits and ales, of plum puddings, and of biscuits. That encourages consumption. Tea, too, is a strange omission. Why are not cake prices curtailed? Probably Government disapproves of the afternoon-tea habit and wants cake prices to soar if they will. Where commodities which are necessary for the food and industry of the community are ruled by a combination or a "gentlemen's understanding" control of some sort, Government compulsion is requisite, otherwise the community is in danger of avid exploitation. But where the free play of competition rules, as it does in most of our industrial commodities, as far as trade within Australia is concerned, then the fixing of prices is only a hindrance to that trade. Its tendency is to lessen the output of the locally-produced commodity; it certainly will lessen the import of commodities from abroad. Merchants will not risk their capital when Governments interfere with trading. But if there is to be price fixing it should be done by men with a knowledge of trade, not by politicians who have no knowledge of the analysis of costs. The present price adjustment board of the Commonwealth consists entirely of politicians.

PERSONAL.

The delegates to the conference convened by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the Commonwealth to formulate a uniform produce contract were entertained by the president at luncheon on Friday at Farmer and Co.'s rooms. Among those present were:—Messrs. Arthur A. C. Cocks, M.L.A., R. Dean, J. P. Heffernan, T. Murdoch, W. T. Thorpe, J. Gosman, D. Mulholland, G. F. Allen, R. Manning, A. S. Back, G. E. Bryant, T. J. M'Hugh, C. U. B. Gurnett, and the secretary of the Sydney chamber (Mr. J. N. Bell).

Mrs. J. M. Purves and Miss Enid Purves, of Edgecliff, left Sydney on Saturday by the Mongolia for Bombay, to meet Lieutenant A. Grafton Purves, who has been invalided there suffering from injuries received on active service in Mesopotamia.

Commissioner Hay, chief officer of the Salvation Army, is at present in Sydney. He is accompanied by Lieutenant-Colonel Knight.

Mr. E. E. W. Lewis was presented by the officers of the Railway and Tramway Stores staff with a tea service on the occasion of his retirement from the department, after a service of 46 years.

Mr. Henry Gyles Turner, who has been president of the Melbourne Public Library and National Gallery for many years, and is an ex-president of the Victorian Bankers' Institute, Chamber of Commerce, and Shakespeare Society, arrived in Sydney by the express from Melbourne yesterday.

Mr. Arthur Toombes, organising secretary of the North Coast Temperance Council, was entertained by the committee at Lismore, and presented with a cheque in recognition of his services in connection with the recent liquor referendum campaign.

GERMANY'S PRISONERS.

NEW ZEALAND AND "MOSIAC LAW."

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Sunday.

Referring in Parliament to the alleged maltreatment of British prisoners in Germany, the Prime Minister, Mr. Massey, stated that, as citizens of New Zealand and the Empire, they were concerned in the welfare of every British soldier, but they had a special responsibility to their own New Zealand soldiers, and if any maltreatment of New Zealand prisoners took place, he would be prepared to apply the Mosaic law, and apply it to the very letter. New Zealand was making representations to the British Government on the subject.

THE SOLOMONS.

SEPARATE CROWN COLONY.

PLANTERS' DESIRE.

The political destiny of the Solomon Islands is a matter of interest.

Mr. E. H. Pybus, manager of the Union Plantation and Trading Company of Vella Lavella, who arrived by the Mindini a few days ago, said that the planters, who had formed a very strong association, desired that the Solomons should be erected into a separate Crown colony, if Bougainville and Buka, late German possessions, were included. If the other late German possessions were added it would be so much the better. The proposal that they should be attached to the Commonwealth did not appeal to them. The labour question was a burning one. If supplies could not be obtained from New Guinea the plantations would come to a standstill. The alternative was the introduction of coolie labour. The best native labour came from Malaita, but that recruiting ground was now becoming exhausted. The residents of the Islands were when he left making a great noise about the proposal of the Government to erect a new wharf at Tulagi, the chief Government station, at a cost of about £10,000, when there was already a wharf at a distance of about ten minutes that adequately served all requirements.

DEFENCE DEPARTMENT CLERKS.

MR. COOK ON THE MINISTER'S MINUTE.

Referring to Senator Pearce's remarks regarding the employment of clerks in the Defence Department, Mr. Joseph Cook yesterday said:—

"I see that Senator Pearce takes exception to the reference of mine to Mr. Katz in his relation to returned soldiers, and proceeds to quote the minute or direction of the Federal Government in regard to the employment of soldiers. The Minister is very adroit in doing so. I, however, was perfectly aware of the minute. I was not referring to the regulations or the minutes of the Federal Government, but to the practices which are taking place. It is one thing to write a minute, and quite another to carry it out in actual practice. I commend to Senator Pearce's notice the statement appearing immediately under his own from Mr. Cheeseman, vice-president of the Federal executive and president of the New South Wales branch of the Clerks' Union, who makes it quite clear that what I have stated is correct. To use his own language: 'The facts are that, under the minute of the present Labour Government for preference to unionists, all clerks seeking employment have to be members of the union; and Mr. Katz, being assistant secretary of the Victorian branch, is naturally the person who comes (after Mr. T. J. Smith, the secretary) mostly into touch with these men, be they returned soldiers or not.'

"Place the proper emphasis on the last sentence," said Mr. Cook, "and the reply to the Minister is complete."

COLLIERY UNREST.

MINERS ACT AS WHEELERS.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

The miners at South Bulli resumed work on Friday morning; but as the wheelers would not take horses into the mine, the men appointed some of their own number to act as wheelers. The delay experienced in securing the settlement of the claim for an eight-hour day was considered by the delegate board, and it was decided that, should the proprietors refuse the request, the matter should be brought under the consideration of the Coal and Shale Employees' Federation throughout Australasia.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE.

COUNTRY CAMPAIGN.

OPENING MEETING AT BATHURST.

BATHURST, Sunday.

The Universal Service League inaugurated its provincial campaign by a well-attended and enthusiastic meeting in Bathurst on Saturday night.

Professor MacCallum emphasised that the war could only be won by organisation, and they should set about it in the way proposed by the Universal Service League, and bring all classes of the community together to do their share. They required a combination of all their strength, whether at the front or at home, to bring about the conclusion of the war at the earliest possible date, and to bring it to such a conclusion with as little destruction of property and lives as possible.

Mr. T. R. Bavin said that he had found in advocating universal service that the great majority of people were under a misapprehension, and the greater part of his time was occupied in removing that misapprehension. Universal service was a service for everybody, and a service of every kind. Under the voluntary system the defence of the Empire was left to those people who realised their obligations. He had read of three headmasters of Public schools who had offered themselves as volunteers. It was not good for the country that these men should be sent away. The future requirements of the country demanded their work in the community. They had sent about 190,000 men away, and those in camp at present would in all probability be used up in reinforcements at the end of the year. They must replace the wastage. It was owing to the evacuation of Gallipoli that nearly all the Australian troops had since been resting, and were not engaged at the front, and that there had not been a much greater call on their reinforcements to make good the wastage.

There were still 120,000 single men, according to the war census cards, who were free from any family obligations, and could have gone long ago. For that reason he would say that the system of universal service, apart from the military side, was necessary. An objection that had been made was that the system was against the principles of British freedom. Was it freedom, he asked, to neglect one's obligations to the Empire and the Allies? Was it freedom to neglect their obligations to the men who had died for the Empire?

Bishop Long made reference to the attitude of Mr. E. S. Carr, M.P., in definitely advocating conscription. He gave all honour to him for his courage in giving expression to his opinion. All men in public life who would not give their opinions on such important questions should stand down. A man had no right to be in a public position if he did not have the courage to speak his mind. The present system in force was an intolerable one. It was rubbish to say that it was voluntary. It was a horrible form of conscription upon men's services, and many men had enlisted because they could not stand up against the jeers of their friends.

WOOL FOR ITALY.

MAY BE HELD FOR GERMANY.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

When it was brought under the notice of the Minister for Customs (Mr. Tudor) that there was a suspicion that large quantities of wool were being imported into Italy for the purpose of being held for Germany to be used after the war, he said that it was impossible for Australia to watch what was being done on the other side of the world. "I have no doubt," he continued, "that the authorities are keeping an eye on operations there. We are watching the matter at this end. No wool is now going to America."

MR. WINCHCOMBE'S VIEWS.

Mr. F. E. Winchcombe, M.L.C., makes the following comments on the cablegram published on Saturday, having reference to the danger of allowing wool to be sent to Italy:—

"That Italy should have taken more wool from Australia during the past twelve months than she did during the first year of the war, is nothing to marvel at. When Italy threw in her lot with the Allies, her requirements in raw wool increased enormously. The wastage of war had to be met, and this is a particularly heavy item when a nation is maintaining her armies amidst Alpine snows. The increased importations of wool therefore cannot be regarded as abnormal in the circumstances. As to the alleged danger of wool finding its way from Italy to Germany, there is first of all the guarantee of good faith, for Italy is pledged to stand or fall with the Allies. And there is the further, and even more potent consideration, that, although Italy has not declared war against Germany, she is fighting for her life against Austria. Any succour given to Germany would be the same as aid given direct to Austria. It can hardly be conceived, therefore, that Italy would allow wool to filter through to Germany.

"'The trade,' which is several times quoted in the London cable message, objects quite naturally to any wool being sold in Australia to Italian buyers. 'The trade' in London objects to wool being sold in Australia to anybody—even to buyers from Bradford. This is an ancient grievance on the part of London woolbrokers and dealers.

"At present no wool is being exported from here except to Great Britain or her Allies."

CLERKS ON STRIKE.

THE EAST-WEST LINE.

EASTERN SECTION CLOSED DOWN.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

According to a statement made by the Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. O'Malley) on Saturday, all work has been stopped on the South Australian end of the transcontinental railway line owing to a strike of 40 clerks at Port Augusta. In all 1450 men are involved. On Saturday 500 men were paid off, and the remainder are to be paid off in batches of 100 as they come in from the working centres. Mr. O'Malley said that the clerks were members of the Federated Clerks' Union. They made demands as under: 1. That non-unionists be compelled to join the Federated Clerks' Union, or failing that be dismissed from the Commonwealth service. 2. That the rates of pay agreed upon at a conference held at Port Augusta recently be immediately introduced and made retrospective. 3. That the conditions of employment as set out by a recent arbitrational award with the exception of rates of pay be applied at once.

Regarding the first request the Minister went on to say about four men were concerned. Some were members of another union, while in one case the man was appointed before the ruling that unionists were to be engaged, and declined to join this particular union. Owing to the way in which the unions interlock and affect each other it would be useless trying to continue the construction work while the clerks were on strike. No other course was open but to close down the whole of the works on the eastern section, and that had been done on the recommendation of Mr. N. G. Bell, the engineer-in-chief.

NEW ZEALAND LOAN.

WELLINGTON, Sunday.

Originally the Government proposed to raise a war loan of £12,000,000. It is now announced that that amount is increased to £16,000,000.

It is suggested that it may be necessary to impose a series of severe penalties on companies which may seek to evade their responsibility in the war profits tax by putting undue amounts to their reserves.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

PERTH, Sunday.

The Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson returned to Perth from the goldfields on Friday. Sir Ronald left later on a visit to the south-west timber country.

GOVERNOR'S TOUR.

BROKEN HILL, Sunday.

The State Governor (Sir Gerald Strickland) should have arrived at Broken Hill to-day from Sydney, via Condobolin, but, owing to the heavy state of the roads the party had to make a detour via Wilcannia, and will not reach here till to-morow morning.

LATE CAPT. A. G. FERGUSON.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

The morning service at St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church, Phillip-street, yesterday, was in memoriam of the late Captain A. G. Ferguson, A.I.F., who was recently killed in action. Mr. Justice Ferguson and family were present, as was Mr. Justice Rich, and several members of the New South Wales Bar. Major Edwards represented the military authorities, and the congregation included an officer and some men of the 20th Battalion, A.I.F., former officers and men of the old Scottish Rifles, in which the deceased at one time held a commission, students of St. Andrew's College, Sydney University, and a delegation from the Sydney Grammar School Old Boys' Union.

The preacher was the Rev. John Ferguson, whose sermon was entitled "The Soldier's Vision." In the course of it he referred to the short but noble career of the late Captain Ferguson, who, when the first Australian contingent was forming, was keenly alert in facing the question which should be first in the mind of every young man at the present time, and in due course he enlisted. He had not been long in France, when his company suffered a very heavy bombardment, the casualties including three officers and 84 men. An officer on the general's staff, writing to his own people about it, had said: "Arthur Ferguson has been doing excellent work, and shone out the other night under rather severe circumstances, earning the approbation of everyone in the brigade." Writing on May 30 to Mr. Justice Ferguson, General Holmes said: "I am sure it will please you beyond measure and all of your family, and I am quite certain it is my duty to tell you that your son acted in a particularly gallant way on the night of May 5-6 instant, and it has been my extreme pleasure officially to bring his conduct under the notice of higher authority. I am not at liberty at present to give you any details, suffice it to say he is a fearless, gallant boy, and I am proud to have him under my command." "Such a soldier," said the preacher, "was Arthur Gardere Ferguson, who laid down his life for the Empire, for honour, for righteousness, and for all he loved on earth. True to his conscience, his ideals, to his best self, and to the traditions of the martial races whose mingled blood flowed in his veins, he obeyed, toiled, fought, and fell. His body lies in the sacred soil of France, not far from the home of his mother's forbears, and at no great distance from the historic field of Waterloo, where his father's grandfather and his mother's grandfather fought, the one under the British, and the other under the French."

FEDERAL PANTHEON.

STATUES OF EMINENT MEN.

CARDINAL MORAN FIRST.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Permission has been granted by the Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. O'Malley) to the Hibernian Society to erect a statue at the Federal capital to the memory of the late Cardinal Moran.

"It is not correct," the Minister said yesterday, "that any preference is being shown. The Hibernian Society was the first to apply. Permission will be granted to other bodies to erect statues. The idea is to have a park in the capital which will be the site of statues of eminent people. It will be a kind of pantheon, as they had at Rome, and it will be near the site of the Federal Parliament buildings."

AFTER SCHOOL.

CHOICE OF OCCUPATIONS.

The Education Department has obtained information as to the occupation taken up by 6452 boys and 5167 girls who left school during 1915.

Most of the boys going in for farming came from the bush schools, while the majority of boys entering upon a commercial life were found in the metropolitan schools. 1354 boys left school last year to enter upon pastoral or agricultural work. Of these 33 came from the High schools, 51 from the metropolitan schools, 110 from schools in large country towns, 1134 from the small bush schools, and 26 from the coal-mining centres. General farming attracted the majority, 772 boys from country schools being returned as having left school to enter upon "general farming." 218 left country schools to do work on dairy farms, while the other occupations included poultry farming, market gardening, droving, wheat farming, and station hands.

Altogether 2112 boys left school to enter upon a commercial life. Of these 412 were High School boys, 1037 came from the metropolitan primary schools, 527 from the country, and 136 from the coal-mining centres. 187 lads went into the mining industry, 122 of them having been enrolled at schools in coal-mining districts.

A total of 952 (850 primary schoolboys and 102 High School boys) left to take up a trade of some kind, 566 of them coming from the High schools and the metropolitan primary schools. Thirty-one High School boys and 33 boys from the primary schools entered upon a naval or military career, while 81 lads left the primary schools and 10 the High schools to enter a profession. In regard to the professions, that of chemist is first in popularity, although architecture runs it very closely. Only one boy left school for the purpose of becoming a journalist, and one lad was returned as leaving school to become an artist.

In spite of the facilities now offering in the way of vocational education, 1318 primary school boys and 21 High School boys were returned as having entered upon such unskilled occupations as labourers, messengers, and so on. The unskilled work of general labourers and messengers attracted the majority of these boys. Forty boys left the small country schools to become rabbit-trappers. One High School boy left school to sell newspapers, one to assist in a billiard-room, and one to clear scrub. Out of a total of over 6500 boys there were only 206 of whom no report was received in regard to their future occupation.

The returns show that 305 boys left school under the age of 13 years, 3546 under the age of 14, and 1656 at 15. 108 boys remained at school, the majority of them at High schools, until they were 18 years of age. 298 boys were only in third class when they left school, but it is to be remembered that in small country schools third class is frequently the highest class. 1021 boys left school while they were in the fourth class, and 3088 while in the fifth class, which completed the primary course of education.

A CRIMEAN VETERAN.

"LEARN TO DEFEND YOUR COUNTRY."

Among those present at the annual dinner of the Randwick Rifle Club, held in St. Jude's Hall, Randwick, on Saturday evening, was Mr. William Young, a Crimean veteran, now in his 88th year. Besides the Crimean ribbon he wore that of the Maori medal, and also naval and military long service medal ribbons. He was the founder of the Randwick Club 15 years ago, and is at present its only life member. Up to about two years ago he shot with the club, and successfully, too. For years the club had as members some of the best marksmen in Australia, and many of them gained their instruction in rifle-shooting from Mr. Young.

Mr. Young holds decided views on the value of military training, and he gave expression to a number of them when he proposed the toast of "Success to the Club." "I joined the service in February, 1845," said the veteran, "and I always endeavoured to do my best to teach the old brigade to defend their country. In my young days the wars of Wellington and Napoleon were not far back, and I could see that England was in danger of invasion. I was always ready to impart instruction to anyone who would be of the slightest assistance in preventing that. That danger is not altogether past. The children should be taught to do something in defence of the country as soon as they can toddle. This is a grand country, and although I am one of the kindest-hearted men—I would not even wittingly harm an ant—I would shoot every man of you who tried to do it harm. We have our duty to perform, and we of the rifle clubs should teach everyone to use the rifle. The use of the sword should also be taught, and boxing, too—in fact, everything that would be of the slightest assistance in defending the country."

INSPECTION OF TROOPS.

The State Commandant, Brigadier-General Ramaciotti, V.D., will hold an inspection of troops on the Barrack-square, Victoria Barracks, this afternoon, at 4 o'clock.

WAR TIME IN LONDON

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. Lloyd George in Demand.

LONDON, May 30.

Mr. Lloyd George, whose growing importance in affairs is worth watching, comes into prominence this week in two regards. He has been given the task of solving the problem of Ireland, and he is urgently at grips with the munition workers, with a view to persuade them to forego their Whitsun holidays. As mediator between the opposing forces of Irish opinion Mr. Lloyd George is obviously valuable. There is for one thing his personal quality, which attaches to him, on the personal side, men of widely differing political views. For another thing, there is his present position in the political world. It is always a developing position. He is not now, as he was of yore, merely the fervid reformer of social wrongs. He may still be that, and still be a Radical, but he has definitely moved beyond the limits of Radicalism. He has swung so far, indeed, towards sympathy with Conservative projects that Radicalism pure and simple is exceedingly angry with him—as witness its outcry against him in the matter of compulsory service—while Conservatism is becoming his strongest support—as witness the "Times" and its now sustained and steady advocacy of him. Thus he is likely to be a good mediator, at touch with both sides, save in respect of their worst extremists. If only he can mediate successfully in the matter of Ireland, what gratitude will be due to him! As to the munition workers, they are to be advised by their representatives to postpone Whitsun holidays until later in the year, when the need of munitions may not be quite so crucial as at present. I was one of a company of responsible journalists of London assembled the other day at the invitation of Mr. Lloyd George to hear from him a confidential statement as to munitions. None of his confidence is betrayed when one says that the provision of munitions, and more munitions, is a matter of such urgency that they simply must be turned out, Whitsun or no Whitsun.

Mr. Churchill.

Mr. Churchill, it seems, has definitely forsaken the field for the forum. He has returned once more to politics, that is to say, and with all the intent discoverable in the two or three striking speeches he has delivered. The latest of them was in the nature of a demand that soldiers should be more generally concentrated upon fighting and less upon the subsidiary tasks of the war. His complaint that there are 200,000 officers, each of whom has an orderly, was certainly startling, and he made it merely in illustration of similar wholesale waste of men. As to which, there is a defect which applies to the men of our own Australian army as to those of other British forces—we cannot tell who have been fighting and who have not, and those who have escaped actual contact with the desperate work of the first line share the glory of it with those who have won through it. That is not right; but it was not one of Mr. Churchill's points. And, for that matter, any particular speech of Mr. Churchill is of less interest than the fact that Mr. Churchill himself is again on the scene. He, too, is worth watching.

Mr. Hughes in the Midlands.

Mr. Hughes has made something very like a triumphal procession through so many of the great Midland towns that by now public welcomes, and cheering in the streets, and presentations of the freedom of cities, must be for him a quite familiar business. There can be no doubt, however, that in all this ceremonial recognition of Australia's Prime Minister, and these popular demonstrations with Mr. Hughes as their central figure, Australia has had an immense publicity. That at any rate is to the good. One must still remember, nevertheless, that Mr. Hughes' speeches, though they have survived well enough the certain shock of first criticisms, are still variously regarded by various people. Their rhetoric has been effective. It has secured for them the ear of the vast public, which likes rhetoric. And even those who probe through the phrases in search of definite substance agree that Mr. Hughes's rhetoric is certainly eloquent. But they will admit no more than that; in which regard Mr. Hughes is scarcely to blame. This week again he has been on a consistently high level of vigorous speech. Perhaps his most interesting Midland city was Manchester, where, fortified no doubt by the weakening in some quarters of Manchester's traditional slogan, he spoke with much fire on his favourite subject of England's need for economic reform. He was courteously heard, but if the "Manchester Guardian's" polite refusal even to discuss the fiscal issue with him is any gauge of the practical effect of his speech, the Ship Canal will continue to take its customary course, and bear its customary cargoes. Nevertheless, Mr. Hughes and his sustained vigour of statement have served us well. One's imagination reels at the thought of the ambassadors who might have come out of Australia in this hour, on this mission. Mr. Hughes is never colourless, at all events, and never namby-pamby. Even if his speeches be only rhetoric, they are good rhetoric, and they have drawn Australiawards the attention of a great body of the British public. This afternoon the High Commissioner's reception to Mr. Hughes at the Hotel Cecil is in progress, and many Australians are meeting the Prime Minister.

Sir Douglas Haig's Despatch.

We are glad to have the despatch of the commander-in-chief, made available to us this morning. It covers the work of five months past, a period during which our news of operations on the British front has been the merest trickle of unessentials. Of late, especially, we have been the more restive under this veil of silence by reason of our long and steadily continued lists of casualties, in which we have seen the names of hundreds of officers and thousands of men, with little else to disclose the fact of hard fighting and heavy loss. General Haig's despatch is cautiously worded, but it lets in some light upon our darkness. We see from it at all events that lesser operations have been in unceasing progress. The mining work in particular seems to have been unusually active, while the fighting around Ypres, and the big affair at St. Eloi, were quite evidently of importance. The latter, especially, was a matter of incessant big-gun bombardment, varied by infantry attack, and it seems to have effected little for us beyond a temporary advantage, which, subsequently, we lost. At St. Eloi, no doubt, many of our recent casualties occurred, but, though the lists have been distressingly long, we can be quite sure that the enemy suffered at least equally. The despatch includes a reference to the arrival at the British front of Anzacs and South Africans, who, with the Canadians already there, show the Dominions as now furnishing, in General Haig's words, "a valuable part of the Imperial forces in France."

WAR LOAN.

MOUNT MORGAN COMPANY'S OFFER.

ROCKHAMPTON, Sunday.

In connection with the appeal of the Commonwealth Treasurer to employers of labour to assist the Government by collecting subscriptions from employees in the raising of £50,000,000 required for war purposes, the Mount Morgan Goldmining Company has made it possible for every man in its employ to take bonds of from £10 to £50 each, the company finding the whole of the necessary cash at the outset, and the employees to pay back the amount to the company by instalments at the rate of 1s of per week for each £10 of bonds. No charge will be made for granting the advances, or for collecting the repayments, and the company will pay over the full half-year's interest in cash as it is received.

The directors of the Queensland Insurance Company, Ltd., have decided to assist the members of their staff to subscribe to the new issue of the war loan, and will advance the money for the purpose. The payments by their members being fixed at 13/4 per month for 15 months for each £10 bond. Interest benefits in full will be allowed to subscribers as received.

THE SOMME.

BRITISH ADVANCE.

GAINS AT MANY POINTS.

HARDECOURT TAKEN BY FRENCH.

The French and British communiques show that gains have been made at several points since the offensive was resumed.

East of La Boisselle, on Thursday evening, the British seized enemy positions over a front of 1000 yards; and on Friday morning advanced a further 500 yards on a 2000 yards front.

South of Thiepval, on Friday, the British stormed portion of Liepsig redoubt, and advanced in the same district, into Ovillers village. Further south, near Fricourt, co-operating with the French, they drove the enemy from two woods and three lines of trenches. British troops took Contal Maison and lost it again.

On Saturday, the British made further progress in Ovillers, and, further south, fought their way into Trones Wood.

The French on Saturday, co-operating with the British, captured Hardecourt and a knoll to the northward.

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

1000 YARDS TRENCH TAKEN.

General Sir Douglas Haig reported on Friday afternoon:—The enemy last night heavily bombarded our new positions at Bernafay Wood, Mantauban, and La Boisselle, eastward of Albert, using some lachrymatory shells. The enemy suffered severe casualties.

Severe fighting took place eastward of La Boisselle last night. We captured a trench over a front of 1000 yards, in which we are now firmly established.

We completely crushed a determined attack on our new lines south-west of Thiepval, north-west of La Boisselle.

We resumed a vigorous offensive this morning in certain sectors in the Albert district. The Germans simultaneously launched heavy attacks in the vicinity of the Ancre (north of Albert) and north of Fricourt, with the result that violent fighting is in progress over the whole front from the Ancre to Montauban.

The infantry has already gained important tactical successes in the vicinity of Ovillers (between La Boisselle and Thiepval), La Boisselle, and Contal Maison.

The enemy has regained 250 yards north-west of Thiepval.

The enemy's artillery was particularly active at Loos and in the salient at Hulluch (north of the line of the present offensive).

REDOUBT PARTLY CAPTURED.

In a despatch on Friday night General Sir Douglas Haig reports:—Despite stubborn resistance, our infantry, who were well assisted by artillery, pushed the British advance with the utmost gallantry throughout this morning's fight, and gained several important successes.

After a fierce bombardment we assaulted and carried a further portion of an immensely strong work, known as the Leipsig redoubt south of Thiepval. The redoubt is situated on a salient in the German line, and the enemy exercised all his ingenuity in its fortification for the last 20 months.

OVILLERS ENTERED.

Further south, one of our brigades, attacking from the west, forced a way across 600 yards of the German front trench, into their defences at Ovillers. Fierce fighting is now in progress for possession of the village.

LINE OF TRENCHES TAKEN.

Continuing his report on Friday night, Sir Douglas Haig says:—Following last night's successes eastward of La Boisselle, we advanced over a maze of German trenches on a front of nearly 2000 yards, to a depth of 500 yards. North of Fricourt, linking up with the above attack, we drove the enemy from two woods and three lines of trenches.

CONTAL MAISON ATTACKED.

About 10 o'clock this morning the Prussian Guard was thrown into the fight east of Contal Maison, in a desperate effort to force us back. Our fire crushed the attack. The enemy subsequently fell back to the north, leaving 700 prisoners. At noon we stormed and carried Contal Maison, but were forced out by a strong counter-attack. The enemy's casualties today must have been very severe.

Our artillery caught large numbers retiring in the open. We heavily shelled the village of Bazentin le Petit, east of Contal Maison, at a time when it was full of German reserves. An officer who was taken prisoner states that his battalion encountered a strong machine-gun fire from one of our aeroplanes at a height of 300 feet. The same battalion was heavily shelled by our long-range guns. The flooded and sodden state of the ground added to the difficulties of our troops.

NEW POSITIONS TAKEN.

Reporting at midnight on Saturday, Sir Douglas Haig said:—

There has been further fighting to-day, principally on our extreme right flank, with further important successes.

After a fierce preliminary bombardment we stormed a line of trenches eastward of Bernafray Wood, and gained a lodgment in the strongly-defended Trones Wood (1½ mile east of Montauban), capturing 130 prisoners and several machine guns.

The French artillery greatly assisted our advance.

The enemy's losses under the Anglo-French bombardment were severe. A strong counter-attack, in mass, across the open broke down under our 18-pounders and seventy-fives, and the enemy retired in disorder.

Hand-to-hand fighting continues among the ruins of Ovillers, where we have made an appreciable advance.

Our aeroplanes exploded an ammunition depot and bombed enemy billets.

BAVARIANS' LOSSES.

A French communique, on Friday night reported: Between Belloy and Estrees (five miles south of the Somme) the Bavarian 17th Division suffered seriously during six successive assaults.

French light batteries and machine guns ploughed through and through two regiments. One Bavarian company was surrounded in a building on the Belloy-Berny road, and compelled to surrender.

HARDECOURT CAPTURED.

The French communique, issued at midnight on Saturday, says:—Despite continuous rain and fog, our troops northward of the Somme attacked the village of Hardecourt (seven miles east of Albert) and a knoll to the northward, in conjunction with the British, who are attacking Trones Wood and a farm south-eastward of the wood. Within 35 minutes we were in possession of our objectives.

Two counter-attacks against the knoll were broken by our fire. The enemy's losses were serious, and 200 prisoners were taken.

SUCCESSES ANALYSED.

Details of General Sir Douglas Haig's new offensive are eagerly awaited. In the opinion of military experts the first stage of the battle has ended, and after further systematic bombardment of the enemy lines, the British have restarted a fresh rush. The most satisfactory feature is that all the ground has been held, except part of 200 or 300 yards of the plateau of Thiepval.

The French success is even greater. In five days they have accomplished, in the direction of Peronne, what the Germans have won in 139 days at Verdun. This success is due to the careful preparations with which he British and French intend to persevere until the German positions are annihilated, and the line cracks up. The Allies have men and material enough to carry on the present battle for weeks—even months. The British have suffered none of the setbacks experienced at Neuve Chapelle and Loos, indicating that the staff work has immensely improved.

One result of the offensive is that no fresh infantry attacks at Verdun are reported. The Germans are withdrawing men from the Verdun sector, and rushing reinforcements to the menaced front, between the Ancre and the Somme. They have already sent 110,000 through Saint Quentin from various sectors.

KING'S CONGRATULATIONS.

The King has sent a message to Sir Douglas Haig requesting him to convey his sincere congratulations to the troops on the results achieved during the recent fighting, and adding, "I am proud of my troops. None could have fought with greater bravery."

Sir Douglas Haig replying, said, "All ranks will do their utmost to deserve his Majesty's confidence."

HAVOC OF BOMBARDMENT.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Paris correspondent says that a Bavarian captain, who was taken prisoner, says that everything possible was done by the Germans to strengthen the defences, and the number of machine guns was increased threefold for the expected attack by the French on June 28, but for three days more the Anglo-French bombardment was continued with increasing violence. "Our moral and physical resistance began to diminish," he added. "I counted 900 shells falling per minute. The French must have discovered a new explosive. I had never seen such havoc as it inflicted."

ENEMY REPORTS.

A Berlin communique states:—Lively engagements on both sides of the Somme all night long did not take a course unfavourable to ourselves. The region south of Contal Maison, Ham, and Estree witnessed the severest fighting.

FRICOURT.

GALLANT BRITISH ASSAULT.

PHILLIP GIBBS'S DESCRIPTION.

LONDON, July 8.

Mr. Phillip Gibbs, the "Daily Chronicle's" correspondent, writes:—

"I watched the British troops going into the assault on Fricourt. They picked poppies and cornflowers and put them in their belts and caps. They went into battle with smiling faces. Under sweat and dust I saw the same men returning. The officers had a lonely look. Not a large number was left of the men who went first to the assault on Fricourt. They were simple Yorkshire fellows, with a broad North Country burr—ordinary lads who were not created to face hell fire.

"When I spoke to some of them they were still shaken. Their words faltered. Many could remember nothing of the first rush across No Man's Land. Suddenly they found themselves with bombs in their hands scrambling over the Germans' parapets. There were dead everywhere. Some of the German dugouts were 30 feet deep, and were uninjured, and fitted with long periscopes.

PICKING OFF THE OFFICERS.

"When the Germans from their dugouts saw our waves of men coming on their gunners rushed upstairs to the wrecked trenches and manned the machine guns. Each gunner was accompanied by a sniper, to pick off the British officers. So many subalterns were killed that every British soldier had to carry on for himself. Nevertheless our men reached the second and third German lines, carrying on a desperate fight with the German soldiers, who tumbled out of the earth flinging bombs.

"'Well, if you're asking for it——' said one burly Britisher. And so saying he flung himself upon a great German, running the bayonet through his body. It was bloody work for boys who were not butchers by instinct, but passion caught them and they saw red.

"MY LIFE OR HIS."

"The boys suddenly found themselves fighting like demons. 'It was my life or his, and I was out to kill first,' explained one. 'Most of the Germans, however, when we were within 10 yards of them flung up their hands and cried for mercy to those whom they had tried to blow to bits the moment before. It was rather late, but mercy was given.

"'I surrender,' said one German officer, putting out his head from a hole in the earth. 'I have a wounded man with me.' 'All right,' replied a Yorkshire sergeant. 'Fetch him up, and no monkey's tricks.' Out of the hole came 40 men. Each said 'Kamerad' to the sergeant, who answered 'Good-day to you—and how many more?'

CAPTURE OF THE CRUCIFIX TRENCH.

"The capture of the Crucifix trench was the outstanding episode at Fricourt. The attackers stumbled over shell craters and dead bodies, and reached the trench, which was full of Germans, with the sunken road beyond also full.

"The Yorkshire boys went through the barrage, and bombs worried them. Across the broken parapets and over the masses of tumbled earth they fought single fights with big Germans, like terriers worrying rats.

"Directly the trench was taken the captain sent up a red rocket. The guns were lifted, and our shells crashed into a shelter wood beyond. The Germans also saw the rocket, and knew that the trench had been captured. They lowered their range, shelling captors and captured alike.

"The captain, though he had bullets in his ribs, called for 10 volunteers, and led the party to explore the shelter wood. They found it full of Germans. It would have required at least a thousand men to capture it, so they crawled back to the Crucifix trench, where they spent the night under an intense bombardment from shells and shrapnel.

GRIM EPISODES.

"The same division captured the shelter wood the following day. There were many grim episodes. A badly-wounded Yorkshireman crawling in the wood, passed a German crouching also on his hands and knees, with blood oozing from him. The German stared at the Briton, who crawled on. The German raised himself, and still kneeling, revolvered the lad, immediately dropping down on his hands and crawling on. A British comrade chanced to witness his murder. A rifle shot ripped through the trees, and the German crawled no more.

"Another German surrendered. As a Yorkshireman approached to make him a prisoner he pulled out the detonator of a bomb and raised his hand, but the Yorkshireman's quick thrust with the bayonet so terrified the German that he forgot to throw the bomb. Then a queer look came into his eyes. He remembered that the bomb was going off. It did, blowing the German to pieces. The Yorkshireman was uninjured."

AERIAL TORPEDOES.

DEADLY BRITISH WEAPON.

NEW YORK, July 9.

A message from Berlin says that a German officer has described the effect of the British aerial torpedoes. "I saw a tremendous geyser of black earth rise nearly three hundred feet into the air, covering everything with rocks and bricks and dirt like a miniature Vesuvius," he said. "These torpedoes fell unceasingly. We watched the devilish things coming through the air for ten or twenty seconds. There was awful suspense, and then an indescribable roar and concussion.

"The situation was hopeless. As far as the eye could reach our ground was torn and gaping. Mine craters, with a lumber of barbed wire and trench reinforcements, were scattered everywhere in hopeless chaos."

THE SUPREME MOMENT.

VISCOUNT ESHER'S VIEWS.

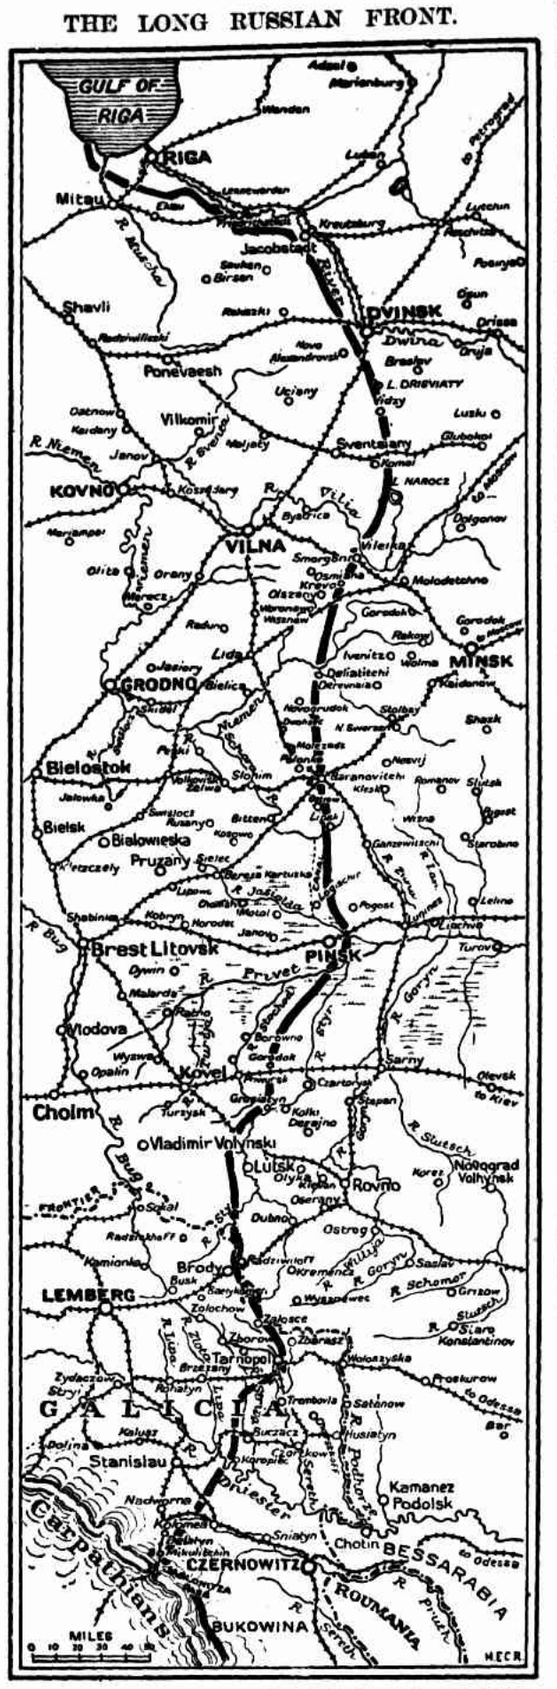

LONDON, July 8.

Viscount Esher, writing from France to a Scottish correspondent, urges the people to throw every ounce of energy into the scale.

"The game is going fast in favour of the Allies," he says. "The ball has now been passed to us for the final rush. The supreme moment is at hand when every man, every shell, gun, and ship should be concentrated on the task."

He adds that the mighty German effort is dying away, and there are manifold signs of the disintegration and lowering moral of the Germans.

THE LONG RUSSIAN FRONT.

The heavy black line represents approximately the long front of the Russian armies from Riga to the Carpathians. Although this is to all appearances one long line of armies, it is really divided into two separate fronts by the Pripet Marshes, which are situated in the vicinity of Pinsk. The northern group of Russian armies covers the front from the western side of the Gulf of Riga to a point below the German salient at Pinsk. This northern group is faced by the German armies in the east under Marshal von Hindenburg. The Russian offensive along this portion of the line was delivered by General Evert's armies in the centre. The front affected was between Lake Narocz in the north to Baranovitchi in the south, the fighting being most severe between Smorgon and Krevo. The southern group of Russian armies, under General Brussiloff, has made further progress west of Kolki, in Volhynia, and south-west of Kolomea, near the Carpathian mountains. In this region they have cut the railway line which crosses the Carpathians, via Jablonitza Pass, at Mikulitchin.

VERDUN BATTLE.

ARTILLERY ACTIVE.

FIGHT AT THIAUMONT.

LONDON, July 9.

A French communique issued on Thursday night said:—There has been brisk fighting at Thiaumont Work. After several attacks the enemy succeeded in gaining a footing in the advanced elements. A counter-attack drove him out with serious losses.

A French communique issued on Friday afternoon states:—There has been a violent artillery struggle at the Thiaumont Work, and in the Fleury and Chenois sectors, and a small attack on La Petre Wood.

German aeroplanes bombed the open town of Lure. Eleven women and children were killed. A note was taken with a view to reprisals.

A French communique, issued at midnight on Saturday, reports an intermittent bombardment of the first and second French lines on the left bank of the Meuse. There is very violent artillery activity northward of Fort Souville (north-east of Verdun), Fumin Wood (to the westward), and Damloup (to the eastward).

GERMAN REPORT.

A Berlin communique states:—The French delivered attacks over a wide front east of the Meuse, particularly in a wood south-west of Vaux Fort. They failed with considerable losses to the French.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN.

THE NEW AGREEMENT.

IMPORTANT PROVISIONS.

Under the new Russo-Japanese agreement Japan undertakes not to be a party to any political arrangement or combination against Russia, and both agree to act together if the Far Eastern rights of either are threatened.

TOKIO, July 7.

In addition to providing that Japan or Russia shall not participate in any political combination against either of them, the treaty provides that in the event of either's Far Eastern rights or interests being menaced Japan and Russia shall confer as to the methods to be adopted to protect and defend those interests.

Count Okuma (the Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs), in the course of an interview, said that Japan cannot bear China's long political disturbances, which upset Japanese commercial interests. Japan will maintain an open door policy in China, and there is a full understanding with Great Britain, which Power welcomes the Convention as endorsing the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

AN AMERICAN OPINION.

NEW YORK, July 7.

A summary of a Japanese newspaper article which has been cabled to Washington states that if a third Power objects to Japanese action in China Russia, if requested, will take concerted action with Japan.

The "Times," in commenting on the treaty, says: "We need to act, unless we are content to see our commercial opportunities in China pass exclusively into other hands."

MESOPOTAMIA.

TURKISH MARAUDERS.

General Sir Percy Lake reports:—Marauders in Turkish pay have occasioned some trouble on the Tigris.

The general situation is unchanged. The climatic conditions are particularly trying, but the north-west winds are overdue.

BRITISH INTERNED.

THE SMYRNA BOMBARDMENT.

SALONICA, July 8.

Travellers state that, as retaliation for the bombardment of Smyrna, leading British residents in Constantinople have been interned at Urfa, in Mesopotamia.

Details of the recent bombardment show that two entire urban districts in the Turkish quarter of Smyrna were burnt, and 2500 persons killed.

GREECE.

ATTITUDE OF ENTENTE.

M. VENIZELOS'S POSITION.

LONDON, July 7.

The Athens correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" interviewed M. Venizelos (a former Premier of Greece), who stated that the Entente's Note was severe and stern towards the Scouloudis Government, but fatherly to the Greek people.

The Entente's action, he said, was based on treaties which were apt to be forgotten. The Powers thus renewed their obligation to protect Greece, which might be a valuable asset in the future. The Greeks had lost their constitutional liberties, and were faced with the necessity at the end of the war of creating a revolution to regain them. The Powers had saved them from this.

"The 'Daily Telegraph' adds:—The Venizelist Party will go to the country with a clear issue. M. Venizelos will ask for a mandate to tell the Crown that the policy of the country in the future must be governed by Parliamentary Government representing the people's will. He will ask the country to leave to the discretion of the Government its attitude in connection with the war. There is every indication that if the elections are held fairly, there will be a large Venizelist majority.

BRITISH CABINET.

OTHER CHANGES.

The "Daily Chronicle" says that, consequent upon Mr. Lloyd George's acceptance of the Ministry of War, Mr. E. S. Montagu (Financial Secretary to the Treasury) will become Minister of Munitions, Mr. H. J. Tennant (Under-Secretary for War) will be appointed Chief Secretary for Scotland, and Mr. M'Kinnon Wood (Secretary for Scotland) will be appointed Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, and Secretary to the Treasury.

The French press unanimously applauds the appointment of Mr. Lloyd George as Minister of War.

RUSSIANS.

NEW ADVANCES

NORTH AND SOUTH.

HEAVY PRESSURE ON ENEMY.

The Russians have advanced to a new line between the Pripet Marshes and Lutsk, where they have taken numerous prisoners.

Their armies westward of Bukowina, advancing beyond Kolomea, have seized a village westward of Buczacz. Unofficial reports indicate an advance by Russian troops into the Carpathian passes, and the growing disorganisation of the enemy forces in this region.

Over 10,000 prisoners were taken north-west of Kolomea on July 4 and 5.

The Germans have been launching counter-attacks against the Russian armies which have commenced an advance north of the Pripet Marshes, but the latest reports state that these are decreasing in intensity, and the Russians have consolidated their gains.

IMPORTANT BATTLES.

STEADY PURSUIT IN SOUTH.

LONDON, July 9.

The following Russian communique was issued on Saturday night:—The Russians on the Lower Styr, occupied the line from Gorodok to Grusiatin (west of Kolki and north of Lutsk), taking over 2000 prisoners.

We sabred many Austrians at Optovo during our pursuit after a cavalry charge, and also took 600 prisoners and a number of guns.

We captured the village of Gregoroff (east of Monastir and west of Buczacz), taking over 1000 prisoners.

The combat at Lake Narocz (north of the Pripet marshes) is losing its intensity. The last German counter-attacks have not given them any advantage.

The "Morning Post's" Petrograd correspondent states that a Russian airship made a satisfactory attack on the railway station at Skobeloff camp, 16 miles west of Baranovitchi, just north of Pripet.

ENEMY ADMITS WITHDRAWAL.

An Austrian communique says:—In Bukovina we took 500 prisoners and four machine guns.

Our troops on the Styr salient, north of Kolki (northward of Lutsk), after holding their own for a month against the enemy forces, which have increased from three to fivefold in superiority, received instructions to withdraw the first lines, owing to the fear of being surrounded.

An Austrian communique, issued at midnight on Saturday, says: We withdrew from the Styr salient, northward of Kolki, to previously allotted positions. The enemy pressed after us at some few points.

Attacks by great masses of Russians north-eastward of Baranovitchi were shattered with very heavy enemy losses.

A Berlin communique states:—The Russians continued their operations against Field Marshal von Hindenburg. They were repulsed south of Lake Narocz after fierce fighting. General von Linsingen abandoned the corner lines protruding towards Czartorysk (northwards of Kolki, and adjoining the Pripet Marshes) owing to superior pressure on the sides of the salient. A new line of defence has been selected. The Russian attacks on Sokul (between Kolki and Lutsk) broke down with heavy losses.

RUSSIAN CAVALRY SUCCESSES.

A Russian communique says: The battle west of the Lower Styr (north-east of Lemberg) continues with much success. Our troops captured fortified Austro-German positions. The enemy took flight under our artillery fire. Our pursuing cavalry charged the fleeing enemy in the Voltchetzk region, and captured a Krupp battery of six guns. The gunners were surprised and only fired a few shots. Another cavalry charge captured a battery, in addition to three heavy cannon. We captured 270 officers, 9900 men, and 29 machine guns, west of the Lower Strypa (northwards of Kolomea), on July 4 and 5. We occupied the first line of the German trenches, south-west of Lake Narotch (north of the Pripet Marshes), after a bayonet attack. Fighting continues.

RUSSIAN PRESSURE IN SOUTH.

The interest in Russia centres in General Lechitsky's advance on the Carpathians, where the fighting is in the shadow of the great peaks of Chernagora and Jablonitza. The Russians have achieved wonders in crossing the mountain ridge and dropping into the valley of the Upper Pruth (30 miles south-west of Kolomea), which is only ten miles from the Korosvezo Pass, where the Hungarian frontier is.

The "Morning Post's" Petrograd correspondent says that all the most eastern routes for the enemy's retreat across the Carpathians into Hungary are held by the Russians. The position of the enemy in Galicia is daily becoming graver. The Russian operations are proceeding at an accelerated rate, indicating the collapse of the enemy.

The cutting of the Stanislau railway below Delatyn (west of Bukovina) has enormously impeded the enemy's operations.

Great panic prevails in Galicia. Many of the inhabitants have taken refuge in Budapest.

THE GENERAL SITUATION.

The Germans are still reinforcing the Austrians in Volhynia, but they are unable to pierce General Kaledin's front northwards of Lutsk, and are sustaining great losses.

General Evert's operations in the centre of the Russian offensive north of the Pripet Marshes are making progress. Many prisoners have been taken.

Advices received in Rome from Petrograd state that owing to the triple reverse at Riga, Kolki (north of Lutsk), and Baranovitchi (north of the Pripet Marshes), the Germans have begun to remove their whole front westward.

Since the outset of General Brusiloff's great attack the Austro-German casualities have totalled 350,000, including 235,000 prisoners. The Russians have also captured 250 cannon and 750 machine guns.

Russia has recovered considerable areas of her own soil, with larger tracts of enemy territory, which she was compelled to abandon in 1915.

It is reported that a formidable Russian force is within thirty-five miles of Lemberg, and that already the whole of the Galician railways have been cut off from Southern Hungary.

ANGER IN HUNGARY

EXCITING SCENES.

The "Morning Post's Budapest correspondent states that exciting scenes have taken place in the Hungarian Chamber.

Members shouted at Count Tisza, the Premier, demanding the protection of Transylvania territory against invasion, and insisting that the Generals responsible for the terrible losses in June be called to account.

Count Tisza said that the fighting might be considered as a passing episode.

M. Just, leader of the Independent party, interrupted: "A nice little episode! A hundred thousand Hungarian soldiers slaughtered!"

Count Tisza: "In Volhynia we are gaining back the lost ground, and in Bukovina steps have been taken to stay the enemy's offensive."

The correspondent adds that the bitterness against the Austrian Generals who led the army to destruction is indescribable.

OVERSEA VISITORS.

PARLIAMENTARY PARTY

WELCOMED BY THE KING.

King George this afternoon received the oversea Parliamentary representatives in audience.

His Majesty, in welcoming the visitors, said: It gives me much pleasure to welcome you, as I fully recognise the aim of your visit. It promotes intercourse between the mother country and the dominions, maintains a constant interchange of ideas, and helps to bridge the seas dividing the Empire. Fifteen years ago the Queen and I visited the great dominions, and treasure abiding recollections of the loyalty and affection evinced on that unique and memorable tour.

We, on our part, greet you to-day with feelings not less hearty and sincere as representing those who, though separated by vast distances, hastened across the oceans to support the mother land in the hour of danger. Gloriously have they fulfilled that mission, sacrificing their sons in the common cause, and placing their wealth and resources at the disposal of ourselves and our allies. Never as long as the Empire lasts will the heroism which was immortalised on the battlefields of Anzac, Ypres, and Hooge be forgotten.

I congratulate the members of the South African Union, who are justly proud of the successes of General Botha and General Smuts's vigorous offensive. During the past 18 months it has been my pleasure to inspect the dominion forces. I can testify to the splendid quality of the men and their spirit of loyalty and devotion, of which they have given most ample proof in the face of the enemy.

I trust your stay here will be pleasant and instructive, and that every opportunity will be given to estimate the efforts which are being made to keep the navy and army efficient, and bring the war to a victorious end.

We can learn much from each other—so it is my earnest hope that such visits will be frequent and fruitful, and that they may be similarly reciprocated by visits from the mother country to the dominions. These visits will tend to consolidate the union of the Empire, which has been consecrated by memories of common sacrifice and heroic determination to defend it.

Sir George Foster (Canadian Minister of Trade) replied on behalf of the delegates. He said the services the oversea dominions had been able to render had been given freely. Resting on the basis of the firm conviction that this gigantic struggle involved the liberties of civilisation, which are absolutely vital to their own wellbeing, men from every part of his Majesty's dominions of Canada, South Africa, and Australasia had given of their best in the great contest.

The King and Queen shook hands with the visitors, who were entertained with afternoon tea. Their Majesties had long conversations with several Australian and New Zealand delegates.

TORPEDOED.

UNARMED BRITISH STEAMER.

LONDON, July 7.

The British steamer Gannet (1127 tons), which was unarmed, has been torpedoed and sunk.

BRITISH STEAMER CAPTURED.

The British steamer Lestris (1384 tons), owned by the Cork S.S. Company, Ltd., has been captured and taken to Zeebrugge.

BRITAIN'S WAR WORK

A MIGHTY ARSENAL.

Mr. F. G. Kellaway, M.P., speaking in Bedford, said there were now 90 arsenals in Britain. The war-workers numbered 3,500,000, of whom 660,000 were women.

A certain machine gun, he said, was produced in hundreds weekly. We were now able to supply guns in such numbers that if necessary their limbers could touch each other in a line from the Somme to the sea.

SLUMP IN AMERICA.

NEW YORK, July 7.

The "Evening Sun" expects a great slump in munition making will occur, as the Allies are now able to supply their own needs.

American munition makers after October will either close up or resume their old business.

LATE WAR NEWS.

Late War Cables will be found on Page 10.

ITALIAN FRONT.

INFANTRY PROGRESS

TWO POSITIONS TAKEN.

LONDON, July 8.

An Italian communique issued on Thursday night reports: There is an intense artillery action between the Adige and Astico. The enemy is especially bombarding Mount Majo, and continues to resist attacks northward of Posina, against Mount Cimone.

Our infantry continue to make progress along the Rio Freddo and Astico valleys. We renewed our attack on the Sette Comuni plateau against a strongly fortified line, from Mount Interrotto to Mount Campigoletto. We captured two important points—Caserazebio and Maigapozza—taking 400 prisoners.

We drove back violent counter-attacks with heavy losses, and continue to dislodge the Austrians from the slopes eastward of Muso. We drove back, with the bayonet, two attacks on the Monfalcone sector.

The communique issued on Friday night stated: We are consolidating our positions in the Upper Astico region, and are pushing forward towards the enemy's lines. Lively fighting continues on the Asiago plateau.

AUSTRIAN VERSION.

The latest Austrian communique says: We repulsed several attacks in the Monfalcone sector, on the Isonzo front, and also between Cima Dieci and Monte Cebio, southward of the Sugana Valley, and north of Asiago, inflicting heavy losses.

THREE BATTALIONS WIPED OUT

The "Daily Telegraph's" Rome correspondent states that during recent successful operations at Monte Pasubio, three Austrian battalions were wiped out. The battle extended to Val Lagarina and Val Astico. Furious fighting took place on a front of six miles along lofty summits and equally deep valleys and gorges, the Italians finally occupying Monte Ctarno, Maiga Zugno, and Monte Saluggio, northward of the Astico Valley.

RUHLEBEN CAMP.

HOW THE PRISONERS ARE FED.

AMSTERDAM, July 9.

Seven men, released from Ruhleben and eleven women and children, including some families from Ruhleben, have traversed Flushing on their way to England. They are unanimous in stating that England is keeping the camp alive.

The food supplied last Sunday at Ruhleben was as follows.—Breakfast: Bread and a brown swill called coffee. Dinner: A indleful of vegetable soup and four or five potatoes, many of them bad. Supper: Brown swill called cocoa.

IN GERMANY.

DESIRE FOR PEACE.

Prince Wedel, under the auspices of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German Chancellor, has formed a National Committee, advocating an honourable and lasting peace. It includes prominent industrialists and agriculturists.

Conservative newspapers are indignant. They bitterly assail the Government for giving the committee semi-official sanction, and declare that Germany needs a gloriously decisive, not a so-called reasonable, peace.

There have been further riots in Munich, due to exasperation at the enormous Bavarian casualties, and also the high prices of food. The burgomaster has been dismissed for inefficiency.

The "Frankfurter Zietung" remarks that all are aware that the military situation is critical. The proper utilisation of the forces demands weighty consideration. "The responsibility devolving on the staff in the West is terrible," it adds, "but our fortress is firm."

14,000,000 MEN.

COLONEL GAEDKE'S ESTIMATE.

Colonel Gaedke, writing in "Vorwaerts," says that 14,000,000 men are fighting.

America's and Japan's help, he adds, has precipitated events, and the Entente is now, for the first time, making concerted attacks on all fronts.

HOME RULE.

ATTITUDE OF UNIONISTS.

LONDON, July 7.

Mr. Bonar Law presided at a meeting of Unionist members of the House of Commons to-day which discussed Home Rule. It was decided to await developments.

The meeting of Unionists at the Carlton Club was marked by a very lively discussion. Opponents to the settlement sharply criticised the action of the leaders of the party, and urged that the paramount object of the Government should be the immediate re-assertion of the law in Ireland, with full security for peace in the country for the remainder of the war.

AERIAL BATTLES.

A Berlin communique states:—In the aerial battles in June the Germans lost seven aeroplanes. The French and English lost 37, of which 22 are in our possession.

BRITISH TRADE RETURNS

The returns of the Board of Trade for June show that the imports increased by £11,027,761, and the exports by £14,040,995 compared with the same month last year. Re-exports decreased by £477,845.

UNITED STATES AND MEXICO.

WASHINGTON, July 7.

The Secretary of State (Mr. Lansing), in his Note to Mexico, says that the United States Government is ready to exchange views immediately with regard to a practical plan to remove and finally prevent the recurrence of all difficulties.

The press expresses the opinion that a Mexico-American Commission will be appointed to study the problem and make recommendations.

GERMAN STEAMER SUNK.

BY RUSSIAN SUBMARINE.

LONDON, July 9.

A Russian submarine sank the German steamer Dovita in the Baltic. The crew were landed in Sweden.

REPRISALS.

GERMANY'S THREAT.

NEW YORK, July 8.

A message from Berlin says that the Germans threaten to answer the blockade by reprisals on prisoners. There is a growing demand in Germany that prisoners' rations shall be reduced. The Germans say they have a terrible and effective weapon against England in the possession of more than 2,000,000 prisoners. The "Deutsche Zeitung" says: We did not begin the hunger war. The stomachs of the imprisoned English may feel the result of Britain's policy.

ROLL OF HONOUR.

AUSTRALIAN OFFICERS IN FRANCE.

LONDON, July 8.

Captain Gerald Neame, a Queenslander, who was attached to the East Kents, has been killed in action in France.

Lieutenant Douglas Rodger, of the Army Medical Corps, and formerly of the Queensland Education Department, has been killed in France.

Lieutenant Charles Vaisey, of the Flying Corps, and formerly of Australia, has died of wounds, the result of an air fight in France.

WAR CHARITIES.

EXPLOITED BY SWINDLERS.

LONDON, July 9.

The committee appointed by the Home Secretary recommends the adoption of regulations compelling every war charity to register. It deprecates the recklessness of titled patrons in lending their names without inquiring into bona fides of the promoters, and mentions that out of £129,000 collected for the victims of the war in an allied country there remained a balance of £42,000. No account was published regarding the expenditure in connection with the fund.

Swindlers in some instances conducted relief schemes until their antecedents were discovered.

HEROIC SWIMMERS.

FRENCH SAILORS FEAT.

A French communique reveals an exciting story of the rescue of the crew of the French submarine La Fourche, which was sunk recently, after the torpedoing of the Italian auxiliary cruiser, Citta di Messina, which she had been escorting.

Although the submarine was broken in two, only 19 of the crew were drowned. The commander ordered the survivors to don lifebelts. They dived into the sea, and swam for four hours, keeping together, the best swimmers helping the others. All joined in singing the "Marseillaise." Italian cruisers rescued them, not a man of these heroic swimmers being lost.

WOOL CLIP.

CONTROLLING DESTINATION.

It is reported in Bradford that the idea of the Government's purchase of the British wool clip originated with Mr. Hughes, the Commonwealth Prime Minister.

It is stated that the British authorities approached Mr. Hughes with a view to further controlling the destination of Australian wool, and also limiting the price. Mr. Hughes replied that he could not recommend the Australian Government to take action unless Britain set the example.

It is believed in some quarters in Bradford and London that an all-round scheme dealing with the Empire's wool is inevitable.

COMMONWEALTH'S SHIPS.

The Commonwealth Government has taken over the Strathbeg and Dalton Hall, and expects to receive three further vessels in a few days time.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

The R.M.S. Morea (from Sydney) has arrived at Marseilles. The four-masted schooner Samar (from Sydney) and the steamer Eurymedon have arrived at San Francisco. The four-masted schooner W. H. Talbot, which sailed from Melbourne on May 8, has arrived at Astoria. The steamer Ventura has left San Francisco, and the American four-masted schooner Forest Home has left Columbia River for Sydney. The American four-masted schooner Honoipu has left Puget Sound for Newcastle.

July 8.

The steamer Barrington Court has arrived at Marseilles. She left Albany on May 7. The R.M.S. Niagara, which left Sydney on June 8, arrived at Vancouver. The steamer Nantwen, which left Port Pirie on April 8, has passed the Lizard. The R.M.S. Kashgar has sailed from London for Sydney.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Admiral Sir Day Bosanquet's son has been killed at the front.

The export of jute bags will be prohibited from July 17.

The Board of Trade appeals to traders in the United Kingdom, in deference to Australian wishes, to abstain from the use of the word Anzac for trade purposes.

The Copenhagen newspaper, "Dagens Nyheder," states that Britain has accepted the guarantees under the new Swedish commercial law concerning re-exports, hence local merchants will receive large deliveries, which were previously held up.

The boot trade is engaged in the manufacture of 9,000,000 pairs of boots for the Russian troops.

PRISON HORRORS.

REPORT FROM AUSTRIA.

NEW YORK, July 9.

The "World's" Rome correspondent describes the shocking horrors of Austrian prison camps. The Poles and Italians undergo terrible sufferings. Priests, professors, and ladies are forced to live in revolting promiscuity; sanitation is so bad that typhoid has killed two thousand, and the terrible filth has brought on gangrene, followed by careless amputations. When baths are provided, the men and women are compelled to cross open spaces perfectly naked, and at the women's baths Austrian officers have organised revolting orgies.

WAR NOTES.

EFFECT OF EASTERN OFFENSIVES.

The Russians along their extended line from the Gulf of Riga in the north to the Carpathians in the south, have recently taken the offensive at several important points. The results have been satisfactory, but there does not appear to be the slightest foundation for the report received from Rome that the Germans have begun to remove their whole front westward. This message states in effect that the enemy has decided to retreat on account of reverses at Riga, Baranovitichi, and Kolki. Our views regarding Marshal von Hindenburg's tactics would undergo a radical change if this were so. The official Russian communiques regarding the recent fighting on the fronts both north and south of the Pripet Marshes have been brief, but there is no reason for supposing that they have been framed with a view to minimising the actual Russian successes. Very little has been said in the official messages regarding the fighting near Riga, and unofficial reports merely mentioned the effect on the German armies near the coast of the fire of Russian warships in the gulf. The offensive carried out by General Evert's armies between Lake Narocz and Baranovitchi constituted the most important of the recent operations north of the Pripet Marshes. It met with considerable success, and proved to the world that the Russians here had fully recovered from the effects of their big retreat which ended last September. But the Russian communique does not claim much more than the capture of the first line of trenches. The defeat of the Austro-Germans near Kolki, in Volhynia, will no doubt be most helpful to the Russians, but it cannot affect the whole front, from Riga to the Carpathians, which, it must be remembered, is over 700 miles long.

ADVANCE IN VOLHYNIA.

Although there is no reason to expect the Russians to immediately turn the tables on the armies which drove them back eastward last year, the progress made in their offensive movements need not be under-estimated. The latest Russian communique states that the fighting near Lake Narocz is losing its intensity and that the German counter-attacks have not gained any advantage. This proves that General Evert's armies are consolidating their gains, and that the inevitable lull has succeeded the initial forward dash on this section of the Russian northern line. To the south of the Pripet Marshes the prospects of the Russians are very bright, and, although the fighting along the Styr River near Kolki has been overshadowed by the Battle of the Somme, our Allies in Volhynia appear to have proved themselves equal to the enemy armies, which were recently reinforced through Kovel. The statement in the Russian communique that General Brussiloff's forces have now advanced to a line between Gorodok and Grusiatin and taken over 2000 prisoners means that a vast improvement has been effected in the Russian front at this awkward point.

THE GORODOK-GRUSIATIN LINE.

When the Russians drove westward on a narrow front in the direction of Kovel and Vladimir-Volynski the Austro-Germans threw their weight against the Russian front at Kolki and north-eastward along the Styr River. Kolki, as we previously pointed out, stood near the angle formed by the Russian line, where it ran southward from the Pripet Marshes and turned sharply to the westward along the upper side of the Russian wedge driven into the German line towards the important railway centre of Kovel. By pinning the Russians down near Kolki the Germans prevented them widening the front of their drive. At the same time the enemy continued to batter away at the northern side of the wedge at points to the west of Kolki. The Russians were accordingly unable to make much progress towards Kovel. While pressing on Kolki, however, the Austro-Germans were in danger of being forced into an awkward salient by the gradual advance of the Russians further north. The capture of a strongly fortified position to the north-west of Chartorysk, and of the first line of trenches in the Touman region, mentioned in the Russian communique published on Friday last, considerably increased the danger to the enemy forces in this narrowing salient. Chartorysk is on the Styr River, about 12 miles to the north-east of Kolki, and Touman is about 6½ miles west of Kolki. This pressure on both sides of the salient has largely been responsible for the enemy withdrawal admitted in the Austrian communique, and for the Russian advance to a new line between Gorodok and Grusiatin. Gorodok is about 19 miles north of Grusiatin, and about a similar distance north-west of Chartorysk, while Grusiatin is about 10 miles due west of Kolki. Although, as the Austrian communique suggests, the enemy has fallen back to previously prepared lines, the Russians should now be in a better position for their future advance on Kovel.

"IMPORTANT TACTICAL SUCCESSES."

The cabled messages received during the week-end regarding the fighting by the British and French in the Artois-Somme region, mention gradual important advances at various points north of the Somme River. The British are pressing in a north-easterly direction along a line from the Ancre River in the north to Montauban in the south-east. They have secured successes at Ovillers, on the northern side of the Albert-Bapaume road, and also near La Boisselle, on the southern side of the road. The fighting has been carried into the village of Ovillers itself, while further progress has been made to the eastward of La Boisselle on a front of nearly 2000 yards. Another forward move north of Fricourt linked up with the advanced forces east of La Boisselle, and a further push to the north-east took the British into Contal Maison, but unfortunately they were unable to hold the village. These advances, though "important tactical successes," as described by General Sir Douglas Haig, do not make any great alteration in the front as shown on an ordinary map. The co-operation of the French and British on the latter's right flank nearer the river was most successful, and resulted in the capture by the French of Hardecourt, to the north-east of Maricourt, and other smaller gains, but had to withdraw again. The effective work performed by both the British and French artillery is a pleasing feature of the renewed activity in this sector.

OPERATIONS IN MESOPOTAMIA.

There has been very little news for some time past from the British and Russian forces in Mesopotamia. The explanation for this is contained in the Petrograd message published on Saturday, and in General Sir Percy Lake's report this morning. The intense heat is said to be making the campaign most difficult for the Russians and the British are also finding the weather very trying. The Russians "in the Baghdad region," who are reported to have fallen back 80 miles, are no doubt identical with the force which has been in the Kermanshah region for some time past. This force, which is under General Baratoff, was reported early in June last to have struck a blow at the Turks near Khanikin, about 100 miles to the north-east of Baghdad. It will be remembered that we warned our readers at that time not to over-estimate the importance of the Russian success. It was generally believed that this particular Russian force was not of formidable strength, and was therefore not likely to seriously menace Baghdad. With the aid of the reinforcements which they are reported to have received from the armies previously intended for the invasion of Egypt and the attack on Salonica, the Turks have apparently sent strong forces against the Russians in this region, and General Baratoff, realising his inferior strength, very wisely withdrew. Besides having under his command only a limited force, he was operating fully 250 miles from his base at Kazvin, in Northern Persia. There is therefore no cause for alarm at the retreat of this small force of Russians, and, if the British further south, and the main Russian armies in the Caucasus are not achieving big victories at present, they are keeping strong Turkish forces from operating in other regions.

COALING BATTALION.

NEW REGULATIONS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Details of the work of the new naval transport coaling battalion have been worked out by the Navy Department and are covered by a regulation under the War Precautions Act which was gazetted on Friday. A member of the battalion may at any time be required to leave any other work at which he is engaged. If, in the opinion of the Minister, any contract would, if allowed to continue in force, be likely to interfere with the performance by a battalion of its duty, or cause such industrial unrest as would tend to reduce the number or efficiency of members, the contract may be cancelled and no action may be brought against anyone in connection therewith.

WOMAN STRANGLED.

TRAGIC END TO PLEASURE TRIP.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Last night Adela Browne, a married woman, 45 years of age, was found strangled in her bed at the Cricket Club Hotel, St. Kilda. Later her husband, Ernest Browne, 38, who is described as a manager, was arrested on a charge of murdering her.

It appears that during the morning Mr. William Skinner, a well-known resident of South Melbourne, called at the hotel, of which the deceased woman was the licensee, and took her and a friend to the races in a motor, and they all returned at 7 p.m. Skinner and Browne had an altercation, with the result that the police were called in, and Skinner was advised to leave the hotel. Browne then went away, but returned at half-past 10 o'clock. Half an hour later he called out that his wife was choking. A servant went into the Brownes' bedroom, and found Mrs. Browne lying on the bed black in the face, with a motor veil tied round her neck.

RECRUITING.

31,873 MEN ENLISTED SINCE DECEMBER.

MR. CATTS'S FIGURES.

What was described as "an unexpected presentation" at the headquarters of the New South Wales recruiting campaign on Saturday last, drew from Mr. J. H. Catts, M.P., an interesting statement, in which it was made clear that this State has surpassed all the other parts of the Commonwealth in responding to the appeal of the Prime Minister. It was Mr. Catts's last day at Challis House as organising secretary of the recruiting campaign. At noon Mr. W. F. Buchanan (officer in charge of enlistment records), on behalf of the staff, asked Mr. Catts to accept a travelling clock.

Mr. Catts, in acknowledging the good wishes which accompanied the presentation, said, on December 1, 1915, he started what was called the new recruiting campaign at the request of the Premier. At the time—that was to say, from the commencement of the war to November 30—New South Wales had furnished 86,000 soldiers. Having won the leading position by raising more men than any other State, it was feared in some quarters that New South Wales would not be able to keep ahead. New South Wales was still leading. The records showed that from December 1 last to June 30 the actual number of enlistments in New South Wales was 31,873. These figures did not cover the whole of the recruiting activities in the State. The soldiers now in camp had been selected from between 50,000 and 60,000 volunteers. Leaving out of consideration those who had been rejected, it was, he thought, a wonderful thing for New South Wales to raise nearly 32,000 physically fit soldiers on the top of the 86,000 men who had already joined the colours.

A present to Mr. J. J. Sheils, who has received an appointment on the Commonwealth Prices Adjustment Board, followed.

423 MEN FOR THE WEEK.

There was a slight increase in recruiting during the last seven days, the figures showing that a hundred more men were enrolled last week than in the previous week, when 323 men only were accepted as fit. The figures for each day were:—Sunday, 30; Monday, 103; Tuesday, 62; Wednesday, 58; Thursday, 54; Friday, 61; and Saturday, 45—a total of 423.

The recruiting at the week-end was not very brisk but some good men were among those accepted. They included two carpenters, a club steward, a coal-lumper, a fitter, a farmer from Blackbull (Q.), a waiter, a clerk, a leather bag maker, and a wheelwright. One fine big man came along, and was most anxious to enlist, but he was too honest with regard to his age.

Further recruits numbered amongst them an importer, a joiner, a motor-driver, a couple of engineers, two horse-breakers, a hospital wardsman, a signalman from the railways, a dental surgeon, an orchardist, a plumber, a stoker, a farmer from Curban, a traveller from the islands, a painter, a farmer from Berry, a tram conductor, a slaughterman, a brush-maker, a miner from Mort's Dock, a dentist, a Custom's officer, a bank clerk from Nambucca River, a grocer, a milkman, and a University student.

One man well under five feet wished to enlist. He was turned down because he did not come up to the regulation minimum. He then asked to be served out with a reject badge, but was told he did not need one as his stature was his best passport.

On the green card, which every recruit has to fill in, is a question asking if the recruit has money, or has expectations of receiving money. One man on Saturday was able to state that he had £10,000 behind him. He was the son of a rich Victorian grazier.

YESTERDAY'S ENLISTMENTS.

At Victoria Barracks yesterday morning 52 men volunteered, and 39 were accepted.

IN OTHER STATES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

On Saturday in Victoria 74 men volunteered for active service, and 44 were accepted. For the week 785 offered and 319 were accepted.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

Twenty-two recruits were accepted in Queensland on Saturday, bringing the total enlistments up to 38,607.

FIRE COMMISSIONERS.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

A new fire station at Wickham was opened last night by the Fire Commissioners.

PUBLICAN FINED £20.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

Robert Forbes, licensee of the Sunnyside Hotel, at Broadmeadow, was on Friday fined £20 by Mr. Adrian, S.M., for selling a bottle of whisky to a soldier on Sunday, July 2. Defendant stated that the soldier came and pleaded for the whisky, stating that it was for sickness. Inspector Cook said that the police knew that this hotelkeeper had been carrying on a systematic Sunday trade with the soldiers.

James Allen, a soldier, pleaded guilty to a charge of aiding and abetting the offence of selling liquor, and was fined £3.

LATE WAR NEWS.

"SINISTER HYPOTHESIS."

HOW WAR AROSE.

COLONEL CHURCHILL'S ANALYSIS.

LONDON, July 9.

Colonel Winston Churchill is contributing to the "Sunday Pictorial" four chapters on the world war. The first is entitled "The Sinister Hypothesis," and emphasises the impossibility of a democratic Parliamentary country like Britain, or the United States, or France planning and organising an aggressive war, and making all diplomatic and economic policies conform over a long course of years to a supreme military object. Such a country, says Colonel Churchill, would only be able to obtain indispensable measures of defence with the utmost difficulty. The United States is experiencing that difficulty to-day. The British navy was only maintained at its proper strength by annual wrangles. France had only completed part of necessary preparations for defence when the war began.

The war will decide the final adoption by the vanquished of a system of Parliamentary Governments or a system of military autocracies. The British Government and the House of Commons would not believe in the approach of a great war, and then determined to prevent it, but a sinister hypothesis was continually in their thoughts. This duality and discordance—namely, the visible, peaceful world and the hypothetical world, which, one moment, was fantastic, and the next, seeming about to leap into reality, with vistas of fathomless catastrophe—for nearly a decade were the keynotes of British politics.

Doubtless, with after knowledge, and with the war raging, some, favouring downright courses, might suggest that it was the Government's duty to state openly in Parliament all its forebodings, and trust to the people to make preparations against appalling contingencies.

THE ALTERNATIVE.

Had any Minister been able to forewarn the country of the Austro-German plans, would he have been believed? Would Germany have watched impassively Britain's conversion into a first-class land power, piling up munitions, avowedly to frustrate her aims? No. The only alternative was to care for the fleet, provide for the effective use of our small army, if the situation required it, to preserve a steady consistent friendship with Powers sharing our anxieties, avoid provocation by word or act, and hope for the best. It was very hard to foretell what would happen. Wise men, with full knowledge of the facts, came to a wrong conclusion; foolish men, giving rein to their prejudices, found the right conclusion.

On the one hand, it seemed inconceivable that any civilised Government would take the plunge when so many crises had been surmounted by cool and loyal behaviour, when there was so much for all to lose and so little for any to gain. A shrewd, wise, sober judgment might well have decided that peace would be maintained.

On the other hand, German power grew unceasingly. Small States quaked, great States took counsel together. While the electors of the United Kingdom, in 1906, were affirming by the largest majority within living memory their devotion to peace, to retrenchment, and to reform, their trusted leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, was principally concerned about the Algeciras Conference, and had already, on the expressed understanding of a Government in nowise committed to war, authorised military conversations with the French General Staff.

GERMAN ACTIVITIES.

Then came the German naval laws, Austria's assertion of sovereignty in Bosnia and Herzegovina, the German ultimatum to Russia in 1908, the Panther incident at Agadir in 1911, and finally the entanglements in the Balkans. Meanwhile, diplomacy proceeded. The most attentive eye could hardly comprehend where the real intention lay. Germany's policy, after the Agadir incident, was correct and considerate, and Anglo-German diplomacy was harmonious. Through the Balkan conferences Germany seemed to be, with us, bent on peace. A wave of optimism swept over the British Government and the House of Commons.

Although, abroad, the increase in armaments was constantly accelerated, although the £50,000,000 capital tax levied in Germany set an alarm bell ringing for all ears to hear, the struggle to obtain the necessary supplies for the fleet was never more prolonged nor more severe than early in 1914.

The German Ministers were doubtless sincerely anxious to be the friends of England. It was to their interest, and, moreover, it was according to instructions. There was policy behind policy. The German nation's deep-purposes did not lie in the Foreign Office. Germany's soul had been surrendered to the general staff. Somewhere in that immense organism, after Agadir, the intention was formed "to keep England out of it," and diplomacy directed that end.

Somewhere, too, in the main headquarters, trained intelligences, peering over calculations, were now to say, "All is ready. The hour is come to move."

The All Highest, graciously consenting, a British squadron, early in July, for the first time for some years, visited Kiel, where were races, banquets, and speeches. There was sunshine, there was the Emperor. The sinister hypothesis seemed far away. Yet it was now to leap into reality.

GERMANY'S FOOD.

RIOT AT KIEL.

DISTRIBUTION SCHEMES.

COPENHAGEN, July 9.

Numerous sentences have been imposed on men and women in connection with the bread riots which occurred at Kiel on June 15. Many stores were looted. A woman ringleader was sentenced to 2½ years' imprisonment.

The German Food Department has ordered the preparation of a complete schedule of the food in Germany at the beginning of August.

A conference of high officials discussed a system of distributing dinners in all large German cities. Five-sixths of the population of Hamburg and nineteen-twentieths of Frankfurt have already participated in such distributions. The Berlin authorities are arranging a large scheme of food distribution.

After July men and women in Germany will be obliged to obtain permits to buy clothes. All cycle tyres are shortly to be commandeered.

SOMME BATTLE.

BRITISH FIGHTING.

UNSURPASSED GALLANTRY AND TENACITY.

PRAISE FROM THE FRENCH.

PARIS, July 8.

The French newspapers declare that the British yesterday fought with unsurpassed gallantry and tenacity. The object was to straighten the front and bring it into line with the French. The fighting was the fiercest during the present offensive, and the centre of the combat is now at Ovillers, which the British are steadily encircling, despite Germany's huge sacrifices for keeping it. The Germans' action in sending up the Prussian Guard to east of Contal Maison proves that they scented danger. The German Emperor's picked troops returned again to the attack. They left 5000 dead on the battlefield.

The "Petit Parisien" says the struggle for the Leipsig redoubt was especially severe. The British left the trenches with magnificent spirit, and charged wonderfully. Spectators unanimously praise their intrepidity in the final overwhelming rush, in which they took possession of a great portion of the fortress two hours after beginning the attack.

Then the victorious troops attacked Ovillers, which is a veritable fortress. With splendid dash they seized first the streets and then the village.

BRITISH CAPTURES.

RAIN IMPEDES OPERATIONS.

General Sir Douglas Haig reports:—Very heavy rain in the afternoon and evening impeded our operations between the Ancre and the Somme. The night was chiefly spent in improving the forward positions we gained in Friday's fighting. We bombarded the enemy's trenches with field guns and trench mortars at Gommecourt.

Despite unfavourable weather our aeroplanes performed valuable service. We bombed an aerodrome at Douai, completely wrecking a hangar.

During the offensive we have captured 20 guns, 51 machine guns, and many searchlights.

EASTERN FRONT.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE CONTINUES.

PETROGRAD, July 8.

The Russians continue to advance along the Dniester, west of the Strypa, and are now within 20 miles of Halich Stanislav.

WITHDRAWN

DECLARATION OF LONDON.

LONDON, July 8.

The withdrawal of the Declaration of London, which has been gazetted, announces that the Allies throughout intended to exercise belligerent rights set in strict accordance with the law of nations.

His Majesty the King, with the advice of the Privy Council, orders the following provisions to be observed:—

Firstly.—A hostile destination required for the condemnation of contraband shall be presumed to exist unless the contract is shown.

Secondly.—The principle of continuous voyage or ultimate destination shall be applicable in both cases of contraband and blockade.

Thirdly.—A neutral vessel carrying contraband with papers indicating a neutral destination, which, nevertheless, is proceeding to an enemy port, shall be liable to seizure if she is encountered before the end of her next voyage.

Fourthly.—A vessel carrying contraband shall be liable to capture if the contraband be more than half of her cargo.

WOOL CLIPS.

OPPOSITION TO PURCHASE.

LONDON, July 8.

The wool agitation is unabated, and is exciting interest in Parliamentary circles. Numbers of questions for and against the price offered have already been given notice of in the House of Commons. Hitherto similar questions have been postponed, pending negotiations. The farmers point out that colonial wools have advanced 80 to 90 per cent. on the prices early in 1914. Their opponents declare that they will urge the Government to impose the Excess Profits Tax on the farmers if the demands are conceded.

The agitation brings the colonial wool more and more into prominence. Speakers at the meeting of the Lincolnshire Farmers' Union protested that the Government was allowing the wool users to buy wool in New Zealand while stopping the sales of English wool.

The Yorkshire "Observer" understands that the Government will not take action in the direction of acquiring the colonial wool clip unless the situation becomes more acute than at present.

FARMERS AND SETTLERS.

The twenty-third annual conference of the Farmers' and Settlers' Association of New South Wales begins this morning, at the Southern Cross Hall, Castlereagh-street. The business paper contains about one hundred notices of motion by delegates. Reforms of many kinds are sought, mostly in connection with agricultural, political, and local government matters. Probably the principal matter to be decided will be the agreement between the Liberal and Progressive parties. On the subject of Upper House reform five motions have been received.

BOYS' BRIGADE.

The annual report of the Boys' Brigade to be presented at the annual meeting, which is to take place to-morrow afternoon, under the chairmanship of Sir William Cullen, states that the total number enrolled is 1699, the average weekly attendance being 1115, and the nightly attendance 222. A splendid response had been made by past members and some of the older present members of the brigade to the call to arms. Eighty-one had enlisted already, of whom 81 were abroad and five in training camps. Good progress had been made by the boys in the carpentry, fretsaw, and basket-making classes. The singing class had always been well attended. Every encouragement had been given to boys of 14 years and over to become efficient in handling a rifle. Many new members had joined the rifle club, and practically all members on active service had derived much assistance in improving their shooting by means of the range. The captain, Norman Dean, had won the gold medal presented by Mrs. J. B. Bettington to the member who scored the highest points in the year. The attendance at the Sunday night meetings had shown a marked increase. The year had closed with a credit balance of £18 1s 9d.

FAMILY OF SOLDIERS.

NINE SONS VOLUNTEER.

WAGGA, Sunday.

An extraordinary, if not unequalled, record for patriotic spirit by one family has been established by the Birrells, of Wagga. Mr. and Mrs. Birrell have 11 sons living, all but three of whom are married. Of these sons nine have volunteered, four have been rejected as medically unfit, and five are on active service. The youngest son (Stanley) could not enlist for the reason that he lost an arm and sustained other serious injuries in an artillery manoeuvring accident before the outbreak of the war. Thus ten of these lads have offered their services to the Empire, while the eleventh was only deterred from doing so by the fact that he has a young and helpless family. One of those rejected—Mr. Alfred Birrell, who is married—has three times tried to pass here, and is now endeavouring to get through in Victoria. One of those in France (William Birrell) has been awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal. In Wagga a public subscription has been opened for the purpose of buying an artificial arm for the only boy of this family at home.

CASUALTIES.

WOMAN BURNT.

Burns about the face, left arm, and hands were sustained by Mrs. Laura Stephenson, 44 years of age, living in Phillip-street, Putney, about 6 o'clock on Saturday morning, as a result of a primus stove exploding when being lit, and igniting her dress. The Civil Ambulance conveyed her to the Balmain Cottage Hospital.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT AT HURSTVILLE.

A railway accident occurred at Hurstville railway station on Saturday morning, as a result of which Frederick Longfield, 36 years of age, a stone-mason, living at Dalcassie, Dalgety-street, Hurstville, had his right leg and left foot severely crushed. He was attempting to board a moving train when he slipped and fell between a carriage and the platform, the wheels passing over his right leg and his left foot. Dr. Cooley, of Hurstville, attended the injured man, who was later taken to Sydney Hospital by the Civil Ambulance.

GIRL'S HAND CAUGHT IN A MACHINE.

While cleaning a weaving machine in some woollen mills at Marrickville on Saturday morning, Florrie Blackburn, 19 years of age, living in Union-street, Erskineville, had her right hand caught in the machinery. Two fingers were severed. The Civil Ambulance conveyed her to the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital.

KILLED BY MOTOR CAR.

JUNEE, Sunday.

Elva Gladys Metcalfe, aged 6 years, who, on her way from school, was knocked down by a motor car, died of her injuries. The Coroner returned a verdict of accidental death. The child ran across the road, hesitated, and ran back under the car.

THE SOLDIERS' WELCOME.

The Soldiers' Welcome, within St Andrew's Cathedral grounds, is becoming a popular resort for men in khaki. The facilities provided in the way of recreation, reading, and writing are eagerly made use of by the men, and refreshments are supplied throughout the afternoon and evening by a committee of ladies.

On Sunday afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock, a bright service was held by Canon Bellingham. He was assisted by workers, who led the singing, in which the soldiers joined with much heartiness. After several favourite hymns, including "Onward, Christian Soldiers," had been sung—they were selected by the men themselves—Canon Bellingham gave an eloquent but homely address. His breezy and chatty style appeared to suit the men's ideas of a "religious service," for they listened to the Canon's remarks with rapt attention. During the afternoon solos were sung by Mr F. A. Robertson and Mr. A. P. Cooper, and Mr. H. Vaughan played the accompaniments. After the service the soldiers were entertained at tea by the ladies.

COAL EXPORTS.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

The export of coal for the week ended Friday reached 82,405 tons, of which 59,785 tons went to Commonwealth and New Zealand ports, and 22,620 tons to oversea countries.

WHEAT AGENTS COMBINE.

YOUNG, Sunday.

At a meeting of wheat agents a Country Wheat Agents' Association was formed for the purpose of protecting their common interests. The different centres in the wheat belt, south and west, were represented as far as the Victorian border in Riverina and to Trangie in the west.

MINERS AND NON-UNIONISTS.

HOBART, Sunday.

A message from Queenstown states that members of the Miners' Association at Gormanston and Queenstown have decided to refuse to work with non-unionists. It is understood that the resolutions will be acted upon without delay.

THE WEATHER.

THE WEEK'S RAIN.

The rainfall during the first week of July, though rather light, extended over almost the whole State, and, following upon the excellent rains during June, is likely to greatly assist agriculture. The prevalent cloudiness was also useful, and limited the number and severity of frosts during the period.

The heaviest fall of rain occurred in the south coast division. At Gabo 271 points fell, at Crookhaven 174, at Eden 165, and at Green Cape 141. In the Hunter and Manning division of the seaboard also some substantial aggregate falls were registered, and the showers at Port Stephens totalled 1 inch. Away from the coast the rain was lighter, except on the southern tableland, where 105 points were recorded at Kosciusko, 101 at Nimitybelle, and 98 at Delegate.

The sources of rainfall during the week comprised most of the principal weather systems, but Antarctic and anti-cyclonic control predominated until the end of the period, when a combination of monsoonal and Antarctic influence formed the weather over South-eastern Australia.

Temperature during the week was rather lower than usual during daylight hours, but the prevalence of cloudiness prevented night temperatures from falling unduly low.

FALLS IN QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

Reports from Cunnamulla on Saturday stated that splendid rains had fallen over the whole of the south-western area, and that it was still raining steadily. The Warrego River rose 6ft on Friday, and a further rise was expected later. Light, steady, soaking rain set in at Charleville early on Saturday morning, and continued steadily all day. The fall is general over the district, from 50 to 200 points having been registered.

RAIN IN NORTH-WEST.

BROKEN HILL.—Good rain fell in Broken Hill and district on Thursday night and Friday morning. Broken Hill had 73 points, Underumbera 111, Thackeringa 63, Silverton 58, Euriowie 82, Poolambacca 100, Corona 62, Milparinka 60, and other places from 20 to 100 points each.

RAIN REPORTS.

Messrs. John Sanderson and Co. have received the following telegraphic advice of rain:—"Belalie Station, Bourke, Saturday: Rainfall last 30 hours 160 points; Calwarro Station, Hungerford, 105 points; Tinelindah (outstation), 162 points; Kerribree Station, Ford's Bridge, 78 points; general."

BERRIGAN.—Steady rain fell on Friday throughout Southern Riverina. The local record was 118 points, but in parts of the district the registration reached 150 points. It is still showery. The rain has been the most beneficial experienced for many years during the winter. Showery weather continues at Tocumwal. The Murray River is rapidly rising, and the low-lying parts are under water.

BREWARRINA.—General steady rain set in on Friday, and continued throughout the night. It is still raining. The totals so far are: Brewarrina, 67 points; Booroома, 55; Narran, 63; Bokhara, 102; Milroy, 85; Cartlands, 122; Gundawerra, 84; Wulkara, 62; Yurcurrie, 82; and Talawanta, 101 points.

COONAMBLE.—Owing to the continued rain the annual show of the Coonamble Agricultural Society, fixed for the 13th and 14th inst., has been postponed for a fortnight.

WELSH COLLIERIES.

LONDON, July 9.

The acquisition of ordinary share capital in the firm of Messrs. D. Davies and Sons, the owners of 3500 acres of steam coal measures, with a yield of 1,250,000 tons per annum, and employees numbering 7000, places Lord Rhondda at the head of the most powerful colliery combination in the kingdom. The properties under Lord Rhondda's control, as chairman, now produce 6,000,000 tons per year, and employ 23,000 men, to whom wages totalling £2,500,000 per annum are paid.

ANTI-CONSCRIPTION.

MEETING BROKEN UP.

ROWDY DEMONSTRATION IN THE DOMAIN.

The Socialists and their anti-conscription policy met with a rebuff in the Domain yesterday afternoon, while a recruiting meeting held near by had the fullest sympathy of the crowd, and proved in every way a success.

Anticipating excitement, a crowd of eight or ten thousand people gathered on what is generally known as the cricket ground, where the two meetings were held side by side. Interest naturally centred in the anti-conscription party. A large posse of police, in charge of Inspectors Brooks and Fullerton, guarded the temporary platform of the Socialists. Their duty was to preserve order.

The Socialist party raised a banner, with the words "Conscription is Slavery" painted on it. This angered the returned soldiers and men from the local camps, who gathered in force. The men in khaki made it clear that the banner would have to be lowered. Inspector Brooks ordered the banner to be taken down, as it was likely to cause trouble in the Domain. This was done amid the cheers of the crowd.

A speaker then mounted the platform and announced the objects of the meeting, appealing for fair play. His reign as a speaker was a short one, for the soldiers and crowd counted him out, and he was pulled from the stump, the crowd cheering. A second speaker rose, amid derisive laughter, and asked if we were in Mexico.

Voices: "You ought to be there," and above the noise was a woman's shrill voice: "My husband and brother are at the front, but not for mongrels like you."

"Hear, hear," cried those immediately surrounding her.

The speaker appealed for British fair play. He said: "You boys have been fighting at Gallipoli. Surely you have the spirit of fair play in you." He added, "I hold a letter in my hand from the Returned Soldiers' Association."

Voices: "Down with him."

The table collapsed, and the speaker disappeared amid cheers from the crowd. He, however, mounted the stump again, and was immediately counted out. He said he would appeal to the Lord Mayor, in the interest of freedom of speech, to call a public meeting in the Town Hall.

Voices: "The Lord Mayor is not game." Other voices: "You can terrorise the Government, but not the public," a remark which called for cheers. Several of the soldiers cried: "Pull him down," and down he went, amid general laughter.

A third speaker rose and said: "We will hold our meeting over yonder, pointing in the direction of the Botanic Gardens. The band is there. This is evidently the returned soldiers' meeting. Come over and listen to us."

A man in khaki, in a loud voice, shouted: "By Heavens you will hold no meeting here to-day. Recruiting has fallen off ever since you have been holding these meetings."

At this stage, the band, which was stationed beyond the recruiting meeting, struck up the "National Anthem." As everybody present uncovered their heads, the soldiers cried to the Socialists: "You don't like that tune." The followers of the Socialists party retorted: "That won't win the war."

Without attempting to change the site of the meeting, another effort was made to proceed. Amid laughter a fourth speaker rose and said: "Now, boys, give us a show. There is simply a difference of opinion, and let us agree to differ. As Britons we have a right to listen to fair argument. I am sent here as the representative of the Political Labour League. I have a resolution to move. I will read it."

The crowd immediately commenced to count out the speaker, and there were cries of "You boss the Government, but you won't boss us." Cheers followed. Few heard the wording of the resolution, which was against conscription.

There were cries of "Get down." "Pull him down," while the soldiers and others joined in the chorus. "It's a long way to Tipperary."

The speaker called for a show of hands in favour of the resolution. A few voted for it, but the majority were against it. He however, declared it carried unanimously. This caused an uproar, and there were loud cries of "Pull him down." The meeting became disorderly, and there was a rush of soldiers and others for the speaker, who finding he could not proceed, although protected by a strong posse of police, left the stump.

Voices: "Come on, who is next?" But there was no response, and after waiting for some time the crowd, which had swelled to large proportions, bustled the police, evidently trying to drive the Socialist party from their stand. Finding they could not proceed, the Socialists decided to retire. Their table which acted as the stump had been broken, and the police escorted them to the Domain gates at St. Mary's entrance; the soldiers and the crowd following. As the Anti-Conscriptionists passed through the gates they were hooted, and a chorus of men, including soldiers shouted: "The pro-German brigade will retire." A remark which created laughter and cheers.

The crowd then returned to the recruiting meeting, which proved an enthusiastic one. Mr. Davis, secretary of the Returned Soldiers' Association, was addressing the meeting at the time. He said, "Our friends who have just retired said they would not fight for their country, what are they at all?"

A voice: "Mongrels."

Mr Davis: My friend says they are mongrels, but a mongrel is a half-bred animal. They are not even worthy of the name of mongrel. They should not have the protection of the boys in the trenches. These people (3) no matter what becomes of the country they won't fight, and they were over there (pointing to where the anti-conscription meeting was broken up) in hundreds. We don't want any such socialistic talk here. The country is ours, and it is worth fighting for. (Loud cheers).

SUPPLY OF TEACHERS.

PREPONDERANCE OF WOMEN.

Some interesting statistics were supplied at the Education Department on Friday in regard to the supply of teachers. Up to December 31, 1915, 312 teachers had volunteered for military duty. Nineteen of these teachers had been killed in action, 303 were at the front or in training, while 20 were engaged in local military duties.

At the close of 1915 6453 primary teachers, 299 High school teachers, and 58 cookery teachers were employed by the Education Department, while 582 students were undergoing a course of training either at Blackfriars or Hereford House. Including these students, there was an increase of 461 teachers—or prospective teachers—over the corresponding figures for 1914. One hundred and seventy-three temporary teachers were engaged during the year, without passing the usual examination, to take the place of teachers who had volunteered for the front. Some of these temporary teachers will no doubt later on qualify for a permanent appointment.

Including students in training, there are now, for the first time in the history of the department, a greater proportion of women teachers than men. For many years New South Wales has been the only State where the men teachers preponderated. In South Australia, according to the latest available figures, women constitute 68 per cent. of the teaching service; in Western Australia 66 per cent., in Victoria and Tasmania 64 per cent., and in Queensland 56 per cent. Including the work mistresses, the cookery teachers, and the students in training, 3706 women teachers are at present employed in the Education Department of New South Wales, as against 3636 men.

The actual teaching staff includes 6344 primary teachers, 299 High school teachers, 109 work mistresses, and 58 cookery teachers. These comprise 3484 men teachers and 3326 women, so that as far as teachers actually at work are concerned the men are still in the majority. But the students in training give the women the majority, since there are 82 men and 363 women taking the long course of training at Blackfriars, and 70 men and 117 women taking the short course at Hereford House.

FRENCH'S FOREST.

At the conclusion of the Liberal Conference on Saturday about 40 members, under the guidance of Dr. Arthur, M.L.A., visited French's Forest. They were shown over the ground, and inspected the cottages in course of erection, afterwards being supplied with refreshments. The visitors were pleased with what they saw, and were impressed by the way in which men from the city are taking up the work.

WAR CASUALTIES.

SAPPER W. R. STRUSZ

News has been received by Mr. and Mrs. H. Strusz, of Newtown, that their son, William, has been admitted to the Brook War Hospital, London, suffering from severe gunshot wounds, while fighting in France. He enlisted in September, 1915, and sailed on November 30, 1915.

LANCE-CORPORAL FINCH

Lance-corporal M. W. Finch, of Orange, who is serving in France, was at the end of May wounded in the left foot by a piece of shell.

LANCE-CORPORAL ROURKE.

SINGLETON, Sunday.

Lance-corporal Keith Rourke, whose name appeared in the 182nd casualty list, has been wounded four times—three times in the Gallipoli campaign, and once in France. He enlisted from Singleton, but his mother and family reside at Mosman.

GUNNER L. M. HOWELL.

YASS, Sunday.

News has been received by Mr. David White, Yass, that his brother-in-law, Gunner L. M. Howell, formerly of Strathfield, and well known in tennis circles, has been wounded in France. Gunner Howell went to the front with a battery of artillery, and was afterwards transferred to a trench mortar battery.

PRIVATE A. THOMPSON.

It is officially reported that Private Alan Thompson, a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Thompson, of Grafton-street, Woollahra, was killed in action in France, on June 13. At the time of enlisting he was an employee of the Water and Sewerage Board, and was a prominent member of the Bondi Surf Club.

UNITED STATES WHEAT YIELD.

NEW YORK, July 8.

It is expected that the United States wheat yield for the year will total 750,000,000 bushels. The yield of oats is estimated at 1,317,000,000 bushels.

CLAIMS BY SHEARERS.

PERTH, Sunday.

In connection with the strike against the shearers' agreement in the De Grey district of the north-west, which originated at Mulga station, the Pastoralists' Association has instructed stations affected not to pay more than the agreement rates. The men are demanding 27s 6d per 100, in place of 22s 6d, £2 a week for shed hands, instead of £1 6s, and 2s 3d per bale instead of 2s for pressing.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Federal Treasurer (Mr. Higgs) stated on Saturday that he had received several letters asking whether the Federal Government intended to increase invalid and old-age pensions. He wanted it known publicly that this subject would be considered among other matters of policy when Mr. W. M. Hughes, the Prime Minister, returned from London.

STATE ELECTIONS.

Mr. F. H. Molesworth has submitted his name for selection to the St. George Branch of the Liberal Association, as a candidate in the forthcoming State election. Mr. Molesworth is hon. treasurer of the New South Wales Alliance.

NAVY AND ARMY RANKS.

It is pointed out by the military authorities that as uniform will in future be universally worn on shore by naval officers, proper marks of respect should be paid to them by all members of the Commonwealth military forces, and these latter must make themselves thoroughly acquainted with the naval officers' uniform, together with the marks of respective ranks, which are as follow:—

Navy.	Naval Uniform.	Relative rank in Army.
Captain of 3 years' seniority	4 stripes and gold peak on cap	Colonel
Captain under 3 years' seniority	4 stripes and gold peak on cap	Lieut.-Col.
Commander	3 stripes and gold peak on cap	Lieut.-Col.
Lieutenant of 8 years' seniority	2½ stripes	Major
Lieutenant under 8 years' seniority	2 stripes	Captain
Sub-Lieutenant	1 stripe	Lieut.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

STOCKS AND SHARES.

Business was extremely restricted on the Stock Exchange on Saturday.

The following business was transacted:—

Morning: Burns, Philp, 25/; Aust. Gas B, 24/2/6; I.O.A., 5/8; W.A. Govt. 4 per cent. debentures, 1924, £90.

FINANCIAL.

THE WAR LOAN.

CUSTODY OF BONDS.

Bonds to bearer are negotiable just as a bank note is, and are risky to leave in insecure places. Hence, war loan bonds are delivered into the care of the banks, Commonwealth, Savings, and Trading. All three classes receive them and give a receipt. Two examples of receipts are appended.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF WAR LOAN BONDS FOR CUSTODY.

The Bank of New South Wales, , hereby acknowledges to have received from , of War Loan Bonds, with coupons attached, as enumerated in his letter of request No. , dated , to be held at his risk and without liability or responsibility of any kind on the part of the bank.

GOVERNMENT SAVINGS BANK OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

Received from , Commonwealth War Loan Bonds Nos. , to the value of pounds, for safe custody, under the following conditions:—

(1) The Commissioners of the said bank are authorised to detach the interest coupons on the half-yearly interest dates, and to credit the amount to the investor's Government Savings Bank account.

(2) This receipt must be handed into the bank when the bonds are returned to the investor.

It will be noticed that in the case of the Bank of New South Wales, the bonds are held at the risk of the owner, and without liability or responsibility to the bank. No such stipulation is made in the case of the Savings Bank. Usually it is the Government institution which disclaims responsibility. In at least one of the banks on the occasion of the handing over of the second issue of war bonds no receipt was given unless specially asked for, the bonds being taken merely for "safe custody," without any formality.

LOANS FOR THE LOAN.

"Finance," after premising that it is impossible for men on wages with families to take up even the smallest war loan bonds, writes further:

The idea does not appeal to me to be the best. Can we not raise sufficient money to prosecute the war to the end by other means than asking employees to mortgage their future earnings? A number of people are unable to contribute to the war loan, and yet possess sufficient wealth to do so. This is because their wealth is in houses, land, etc. Surely there must be means of utilising this wealth by lending it to the Government should the owner so desire. The loan would be perfectly safe, and would not debar the owner of the property from disposing of such property at any future time. Under our system of finance we appear to have wedded ourselves to certain strict regulations which may yet hamper us in the war. If it is possible to advance to the Government the future earnings of its people, which is what loans from employees mean, then surely present wealth or past earnings, which are absolute, should be a safer and sounder system of financing our affairs.

It is acknowledged that many men with families will not be able to subscribe to the loan. But there are many single men who, being just as well paid as married men, should be able to do so. As to raising money on the security of property, if it is merely mortgaging future earnings, it may be sound finance, and it has been done to take up stock with the previous war loan. But if it is intended to create a charge on the house until the maturity of the loan, then it is unsound. It is raising a loan to provide another loan. It is well recognised that it is sound finance to provide for loans out of saved income.

WAR BONDS ON DEPOSITS.

Contractor points out that—

Quite a large number of people engaged in business are wholly or partly contractors.

With nearly all contracts, especially Government or municipal, it is the custom to lodge deposits when submitting tenders, which deposits are held during the currency of the contract. With large contracts the amount deposited is considerable, and many contractors have a number of such deposits outstanding for some "works," and for the supply of materials. It is also usual to hold moneys ready for deposits when submitting further tenders, so that in the aggregate each contractor has a substantial sum involved.

It would be a simple matter for the various municipal and government bodies to arrange to accept War Loan Bonds in lieu of cash deposits. Many contractors could then invest substantial sums in War Loan Bonds, and lodge them for the amount required in lieu of cash when submitting tenders or signing contracts.

This arrangement would appeal to contractors, as at present the money lodged by way of deposit is unproductive, as interest is rarely paid on the amounts lodged.

The large amount actually involved is my excuse for bringing this matter under your notice.

NON-PAYMENT OF INSTALMENTS.

"Worker" asks what would happen in the case of subscribers to the war loan should they be taken under conscription. No demand for repayment could be enforced. A request for repayment would meet with sympathetic consideration from the Commonwealth Government. Each case would be determined on its merits.

MISCELLANEOUS QUERIES.

Anxious (Federal Income Tax).—Forms will be available in due course at Junee. The time for making returns has been extended to August 31. Where income is derived in Australia from more than one State, the return must be made on a special tax form, which may be procured when available at the local post-office on application.

R.I.F. (Federal Land Tax).—A Federal land tax ready-reckoner may be obtained from the Federal Taxation Department, Warwick House, on payment of 1s.

BRITAIN WAKING UP.

Evidence is accumulating of the strong feeling growing in the United Kingdom of the need of keeping British trade and British companies virtually as well as nominally in British hands. A month ago we had the Inter-Imperial Commerce Congress passing drastic resolutions in this direction. The president of the Seed, Oil, and Cake Trade Association of Great Britain forwards us a copy of resolutions in the same direction passed by that body. These resolutions ask for the creation of a board of commerce, the re-organisation of the British Consular service, amendment of naturalisation laws, prevention of foreign firms disguising their nationality; if aliens hold shares in British companies, holdings to be limited to a minority of shares; granting of domicile to foreign banks on same basis as granted to British banks by foreign countries, export duty on cotton seed and palm kernels from British possessions exported to foreign countries; import duty on all vegetable oils imported from foreign countries into the United Kingdom from foreign countries; the giving of greater attention to scientific education.

BANK OF VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The directors of the Bank of Victoria, Ltd., will recommend at the half-yearly meeting of shareholders, to be held on August 1, that the usual dividend of 6 per cent. be paid on ordinary and preferential shares.

LONDON FINANCIAL CABLES.

PEEL RIVER LAND COMPANY.

LONDON, July 8.

The Peel River Land Company has declared an interim dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum.

SUEZ CANAL COMPANY.

Our cables of a few days ago announced that the Canal dues were to be increased 6d per ton. The report for the year 1915 supplies the reason for the advance. Profits in that year decreased by £1,075,000. The profits were £3,929,000. The dividend of £4 16s per share absorbed all the profits and £290,000 of the amount brought forward from 1914. The net tonnage passed through the canal in 1915 was 15,266,200, as compared with 19,409,500 in 1914. This decrease is practically all accounted for by the disappearance of German, Austrian, and Turkish vessels, whose tonnage in 1913 amounted to 4,239,800. There were, of course, many merchant vessels which did not use the canal last year, but much of the displaced traffic was made up for by voyages of warships, which represented 3,379,600 tons, as compared with only 391,000 tons in 1913. The British proportion of the total tonnage using the canal is greater than ever, as could only be expected in the circumstances. In 1913 the ratio was 60 per cent., in 1914 66 per cent., and now it is 76 per cent.

COMMERCIAL.

A PLATINUM SUBSTITUTE.

Platinum is of great importance in the manufacture of certain scientific apparatus, not only because it can be heated to about 1750 degrees C. without melting, but also because of its resistance to nearly all acids and gases. But its cost—three or four times that of gold—renders it unattainable for many purposes. An alloy "illium" which has been produced at the University of Illinois, seems to be a suitable substitute. This alloy has such resistance to chemical action that contact with nitric acid for 24 hours produced no weighable loss, and it also has great density and a tensile strength of about 50,000 pounds per square inch. Its melting point is about 1300 degrees C. It has been developed after many difficulties, and is said to include in its complex composition 60.65 per cent. of nickel, 21.07 of chromium, 6.42 of copper, 4.67 of molybdenum, 2.13 of tungsten, 1.09 of aluminium, 1.04 of silicon, 0.98 of manganese, and 0.76 of iron, with minute quantities of carbon and boron. Tested as material for a calorimetric bomb, it held 35 cubic inches of gas at 25 to 30 atmospheres without leak, showing no corrosion after 1500 determinations of the heating value of coal gas.

ADULTERATED LEATHER.

A correspondent writes:—

Sir,—From information gathered from cases tried before the Customs Court of exporters shipping leather and stating that it contained a certain percentage of adulteration when it contained a great deal more, the Collector of Customs stated that he has had a number of cases where the leather was adulterated with 14 per cent., 15 per cent., and up to 25 per cent. of glucose. The exporters state that their declarations are made from statements made to them by the tanners, and they have no means of knowing whether they are right or wrong. The tanners state to the authorities that it is imperative for them to use glucose to make a finish on their leather, but this, I am informed, is absolutely untrue. It is used solely and only as an adulterant, as glucose is worth under 3d per pound, and leather up to 2/, and the leather that is used locally is generally more adulterated than that which is exported. No only are the public being cheated, but glucose contains a percentage of sulphuric acid, which attracts moisture, and in wet weather the soles of boots are not going to be improved by its excessive use.

The Customs Department allows up to 10 per cent. of glucose to be put into leather for export. I have been positively informed that a large manufacturer in England used to re-dress over 1000 sides of Australian leather a week for belting purposes, but the adulteration was so excessive that they had to give it up altogether, thus a very valuable customer is lost to Australia.

From inquiries I have made I am sure that if the Government prohibited the adulteration of leather in any way, shape, or form, the tanners in Australia would ultimately benefit, as they would get a much higher price for their leather, and buyers all over the world would accept it as the hall-mark of purity, and buy it at the maximum price.

With reference to the glucose that is used in this leather, on which I am informed that no excise duty is paid, and yet it is made largely out of imported maize. Surely there is something wrong here, that a concern should make an article out of foreign material in Australia solely to adulterate leather and yet not pay any excise duty. The department can very easily find out how much glucose is sold as leather by getting the returns from the manufacturer of glucose made and sold over a given period. As none is exported, the figures will be very reliable, and of public interest. And why should an article like this, not paying excise duty, come into competition with Australian-grown sugar, the production of which means the employment of an enormous amount of labour, and on which a heavy excise duty must be paid?

Quite possibly some tanner will make the excuse that glucose is necessary to finish leather, but if the tanners flesh their hides in a proper manner there would be no need of glucose or anything else to paste the irregular particles down. In former times tanners used to use size, made out of hide trimmings, which are the basis of glue and gelatine, and which were collected in the tanyard and boiled down. Let them revert to these more honourable methods.

AUSTRALIAN JEWELLERY.

Mr. A. H. Eatch, president of the Federated Jewellers, Watchmakers and Allied Trades' Union of Australia, writes:—

Sir,—After reading letters in your commercial column dealing with Australian jewellery, I ask the favour to make a few remarks thereon.

In the first place I commend Mr. Daring for his outspoken opinion, recognising in him an Englishman with experience in both countries, also one who has the trade at heart and knows its future possibilities from an artistic point of view, and not as a retailer. However, I want to cross swords with Old Jeweller on his letter of to-day. Mr. Daring is right; given the opportunity, the same class of work can be produced as that which is imported the skilled ability is here. My association has been working for a considerable time to encourage an advance in the artistic portion of the trade, in so far as a class is about to be started at the Technical College for the education and designing and manufacturing etc. It can be done, and will be done here, provided there is sufficient encouragement, and that encouragement must come from the retailer as well as the manufacturer. The greatest encouragement is the action that Old Jeweller complains of, namely, the Minister's action.

Old Jeweller states there are articles that cannot and will never be made here. Let him state what those articles are. However, who is Old Jeweller, why the nom-de-plume? I would like to know whether he is a manufacturer, retailer, wholesale merchant, or perhaps he is a watchmaker, most likely neither. The question at issue has a difference of interest to each of these, so let him come out in the open. His cheap sneer about the unionist feelings and Mr. Daring goes for what it is worth, while Old Jeweller is in the dark. Mr. Daring is not a member of the union. His position does not warrant his being so. I do not know him, but have heard of him. At any rate, he has the courage of his convictions. Old Jeweller's complaint about the union goes the same way. Is a minimum of £3 5s per week sufficient (not excessive, as Old Jeweller would have you believe) enough to encourage the production of the class of work that Old Jeweller states can only be made in London or Paris. It takes an apprenticeship of six years to be competent, and then he only receives that which a great number of unskilled labourers are receiving.

Old Jeweller, come out and let us know who you are, then I can deal with you. Fair play is bonny play. Do this and then I will meet you on the union complaint. I do know this, that there are manufacturers who are ambitious enough, and are prepared to do that which Old Jeweller says cannot be done, but I believe you are a retailer and writing as one, whose interests are not in the same groove as the manufacturer. However, I challenge you to make yourself known and enable us to discuss the matters as they should be, not in the dark, but in the interests of the trade, and the advancement of an industry that has been kept back by the unpatriotic actions of most of the retailers of the trade, one of whom I believe you to be.

The action of the Minister complained of can be answered by him. The trade, however, hopes he will maintain his attitude. The other matters I will be only too pleased to discuss when I know who Old Jeweller really is.

BIG ORDER FOR TINNED SALMON.

The New York "Journal of Commerce" reports the largest order ever given for tinned salmon as having been placed by the Italian and French Governments. The quantity stated is 400,000 cases of pink salmon, and it is mentioned that reports received from important coast packers more than two weeks ago estimated that not more than 500,000 cases of pinks and chums combined were held by coast packers at that time. There have been no very heavy sales reported since that estimate was made, and stocks probably remain at about 450,000 cases. With stocks at such a low ebb it may prove impossible for the European Governments to secure the full amounts of their orders. Just what percentage of the total order they will be able to purchase from the coast packers will probably depend upon the price that they are willing to pay for the supplies, according to opinions expressed by New York brokers. The stocks remaining on the coast are said to be widely scattered, and purchases will have to be made in small lots from many packers, which fact in itself will tend to raise prices to a higher level.

LONDON METAL QUOTATIONS.

The Australian Metal Exchange reports that the London metal (middle) quotations for July 7 were as follows:—

Copper.—Standard, spot, £90/10/ (£6/5/ lower); three months, £89/10/ (£5/15/ lower). Electrolytic, £129 (£1 lower per ton.

Lead.—Soft, foreign, spot, £27/17/6 (2/6 down); forward, £27 (unchanged), per ton.

Spelter.—Spot, £44 (£2/10/ lower); forward, £41 (£2/10/ lower), per ton.

Tin.—Standard, spot, £173/2/6; three months, £173/7/6 (both unchanged), per ton.

Silver.—Standard, spot, 29 15-16d, a fall of 5-16d per oz.

The amount of wool manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour on Saturday was 213 bales.

At Darling Harbour on Saturday 1287 tons of wheat and 140 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

JUTE.

LONDON, July 7.

Jute, native first marks, August-September shipment, is quoted at £29 per ton at Dundee, a fall of 10/ since Tuesday.

BUTTER.

Danish butter is slow and unchanged at 112/ per cwt on spot.

WHEAT.

July 8.

The wheat market is firm, largely owing to small world's shipments, especially to England.

Grain shipments afloat on July 7, a week previous, and at the corresponding date a year ago, were:—

	July 7, 1916. Qrs.	June 30, 1916. Qrs.	July 9, 1915. Qrs.
United Kingdom	2,090,000	2,585,000	2,875,000
The Continent	4,590,000	4,980,000	1,920,000
	6,680,000	7,565,000	4,835,000

Total shipments for Europe last week were 1,055,000 quarters, compared with 1,690,000 quarters in the previous week and 585,000 quarters in the corresponding week of last year. Shipments included:—Atlantic Coast, 418,000 quarters (245,000 quarters last year); Pacific Coast, nil (nil); Argentina, 209,000 quarters (64,000); Australia, 109,000 quarters (nil).

Later.

Wheat cargoes are quiet. Holders offer sparingly. Chicago futures are quoted:—July, opening 1.04idol., closing 1.05⅛dol.; September, opening 1.06⅛dol., closing 1.05⅛dol. The market thus opened ½ cent weaker than it closed the previous day, and closed ⅛ cent weaker than it opened.

FROZEN MEAT AND RABBITS.

Quotations are:—Australian frozen mutton, 8½d per lb; New Zealand, 9d; South American, 8½d, the lastmentioned being ½d lower on the week. Australian and New Zealand frozen lamb, 10d; South American, 10½d—all unchanged.

Rabbits are firm, but slow of sale. New South Wales blues, ex store, are fetching 25/ to 25/6 a crate.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Hemp is inactive, and unchanged.

Rubber.—Fine hard Para, 2/5½ per lb (unchanged); plantation first latex crepe, 2/3½ (1d down); smoked sheet, 2/3½ (1d down).

Copra is quiet, and without change.

Cotton, American middling, of July-August shipment, is worth 7.90½d per lb (.02½d lower since June 16).

Linseed oil is unchanged at £34 per ton, equal to 2/8.78 per gallon.

PRODUCE.

THE BUTTER MARKETS.

Prescott, Ltd., reports concerning the butter markets of Australia:—

Sydney.—Trade this week has been normal, and prices are unchanged at 144/8 for choicest, 140/ firsts, 128/4 seconds. Any shortage has been made up by drawing on the butter in the winter storage scheme.

Melbourne.—The market is firm as regards choicest qualities of fresh-made butter. These are saleable at 200/, but in lower grades there is a slack market, and a big range in values. Some sales have been made as low as 120/, but good fresh accounts have realised up to 170/. Arrivals for the week ended June 30 total 2241 boxes butter, and 12 tons cream. As soon as the warmer weather comes on a good increase is anticipated.

Brisbane.—The local price is unchanged at 140/ per cwt. Very little of the butter purchased by the Government has been disposed of; the bulk of it is still in cold storage. It was understood this would be sold on the highest market, and the profits handed back, pro rata, to the factories. From present indications this venture is not very promising. Last week's production is estimated at 5601 boxes.

RAILWAY MARKET.

The usual week-end yarding was offered at Alexandria on Saturday, but buyers were very few, and a typical Saturday market, with easier values, prevailed. A large manifest of 237 trucks "out," combined with the medium quality of goods at their disposal, caused buyers to be more reticent, and all lines were lower.

Available produce totalled 63 trucks, comprising 57 of forage, 2 of grain, and 4 of potatoes; while produce outstanding was manifested at 139 of hay, straw, and chaff, 7 of grain, and 31 of vegetables.

The following sales were transacted:—

VEGETABLE MARKET.

"I never saw such a dull Saturday; there seems to be no money about," was a criticism of Saturday's business at the City Vegetable Markets. Stocks of green vegetables lay heavy on agents' hands, and buyers were hard to find. A large supply of cabbage, mostly inferior, caused a decided fall; while for other greens firm prices, but no business, prevailed. Bunch varieties suffered in the same way. It was only in the potato section that any stir was apparent. Here a few pumpkins moved out, but potatoes and onions were quiet at late values.

Quotations for varieties in season were:—

Cabbage.—Local /3 to 2/; cauliflowers, local, good 1/ to 6/; lettuce, 1/ to 2/ per dozen.

Beetroot.—2/ to 2/3; carrots, 2/ to 2/3; celery, 3/ to 4/6; herbs, 1/3 to 1/6; leeks, 1/6; mint, 2/; parsley, 2/6 to 3/; parsnips, 2/ to 2/6; radishes, 1/; rhubarb, 2/ to 2/6; spinach, to 1/; white turnips, 1/6 to 2/; eschalots, 2/6 to 3/; watercress 2/ to 3/ per dozen bunches.

Beans.—French, 3/ to 5/; peas, local, 6/ to 8/6 per bushel.

Pumpkins.—Local, prime 2/ to 8/, small 2/6 per dozen; /1 to /1½ per lb, 6/ to 8/ per cwt; onions, 6/6 to 7/6 per cwt; Swede turnips local and Tasmanian, 3/ to 4/6; sweet potatoes, 8/ per cwt.

MINING.

A TROUBLED WEEK.

BEGINNING OF THE END.

SLUMP IN METALS.

The operations of the Sydney Stock Exchange last week ranged from unwonted buoyancy and activity on Monday, less exuberance on Tuesday, and general easing of values on Wednesday, stagnation on Thursday, the same on Friday, operators evidently marking time, with buyers and sellers on Saturday still in doubt as to what will be the immediate future of the market.

This doubt, uncertainty, irregularity, and stagnation were due to a pronounced "break" in the London Metal Market. It was long expected. Operators recognised that the high prices reached by metals, consequent on the demand for munitions of war, must come to an end some time, and the big drop early in the week was a warning sign that the beginning of the end of the war had commenced. Confirmation of this was found in the announcement that the War Munitions Department in England had cancelled several American contracts for the supply of ammunition, and that the number of factories employed in England making war munitions had increased from 11 to 80.

The copper, silver-lead-zinc, and tin mines have been "on a good wicket" for a long time past; but those halcyon days are rapidly disappearing, and if the efforts started a couple of months ago to restart several old copper mines and smelting plants in this State on the strength "of the high price of copper," does not speedily materialise, the justification for them restarting will soon vanish if the present sag continues. Still, with copper at £95/5/ to-day, as compared with £79/2/6 12 months ago, there ought to be a profit to "gougers" in working good grade ore at £95/5/ per ton. But seeing that the price receded £5/5/ in a week, and £24/15/ in a month, it looks as if the ebb will continue steadily until the price will soon get below the gougers' limits.

Twelve months ago spelter sold at £105 per ton. To-day it is £46/10/—a decline of £58/10/. Lead was less affected, being £28 to-day, as compared with £29/15/ 12 months ago. The "spot" price of tin has likewise been well maintained. True, the three months' price to-day—£165/15/—is £8/17/6 less than 12 months ago, but even if it receded to pre-war rates, the winning of tin oxide by the effective dredging plants employed in Malay would spell dividends on one pound ground. What it would spell in the case of the 8½lb ground, said to be the average of the lease acquired by the Austral Bolivia, Ltd., in South America, one can imagine.

The early history of New Zealand was largely associated with the remarkable gold production of the west coast, especially around Hokitika. In those early days the miners, with their crude appliances and desire to get rich quick confined their attentions to the rich deposits. The gold-bearing alluvium shed from rich reefs in a country scoured during ages of torrential rains was never thought of in those early days, and when years latter dredges were employed—the wrecks of some are said to be seen to-day—they lacked the effectiveness only obtained in tin-dredging after years of experience and failures.

The success of the Australian tin dredger in Malay has convinced mining men that if a properly equipped dredger can make a profitable recovery of tin oxide in Malay, even on ground previously worked by the Chinese with a hoe, shovel, and "long-tom," the chances of success are even greater in dredging the gold-bearing river flats on the west coast of New Zealand.

Hence the preliminary work of the Ahaura Gold Dredging Corporation and the Rimu No. 1 Dredging Company, New South Wales propositions, is being watched with interest. The former in a fortnight's opening run of a sluice-box dredge, in cutting a channel to reach the good gold-bearing wash, recovered 44oz—a payable yield—and the secretary's statement, that this would be improved upon as the plant got further into the deposit, is borne out by the fact that the second run of only 134 hours yielded 32oz of gold. When they get started the operations of the Rimu No. 1 Dredging Company, which will be under the direction of Mr. James George, of Bright, Victoria, with a long experience in dredging, the plant is expected to "speak some."

The contract signed for the supply to the Amalgamated Zinc (De Bavays), Ltd., of power by the Tasmanian State Hydro-Electric Department, to enable the former to treat by electro-metallurgical processes complex zinciferous ores from Broken Hill, or any part of the Commonwealth, marks the first practical step taken to kill Germany's past domination in the production of spelter from Australian zinc concentrates.

Westonia gold stocks were irregular throughout the week, and continued so on Saturday. The manager of the Edna May Deep Levels mine is regarded as a capable man for the position, but his forte is not sending an abbreviated telegram that will leave no doubt as to what he means to convey regarding a new development. He had the members of the Stock Exchange guessing on Friday as to what he meant by telegraphing on Friday that he had cut in the shaft the hanging wall reef of Edna May reef. So on Saturday he telegraphed:—"Apparently there is a misconception re reef cut in shaft. This is not the main reef, but hanging wall reef, and confirms all our estimates. We expect to cut the main reef in crosscut 48ft levels in about three weeks. We are now cutting out for back of plat."

There was nothing vigorous about any section of the market on Saturday, and it finished up with members marking time in consequence of a further fall in metals.

Last month the South Kalgurli Company (W.A.) crushed 9734 tons of ore for gold valued at £12,211. The expenditure was £10,516. The Associated treated 9645 tons gold, valued at £12,297, expenditure £10,519; and Kalgurli mine, 9380 tons gold, valued at £17,066, expenditure £11,880.

MINERAL EXPORTS.

BROKEN HILL, Sunday.

The mineral exports from Broken Hill for the month of June were valued at £422,624, made up thus:—Lead concentrates, 481,680cwt, valued at £333,232; zinc concentrates, 358,500 cwt, valued at £76,946; silver-lead ore, 71,950 cwt, valued at £11,346. The exports for May were valued at £328,874, and for April £266,760.

AMALGAMATED HILL END, LIMITED.

The managing director reports for June:—Main shaft: From 100ft level carried a drive 20ft through Star of Peace blow, which contained little or no values, so the work was stopped. Main shaft No. 1 winze timbered; skids and ladders put in to 60ft, where intermediate level been driven 20ft north, leaving vein on wall. Timber put in to secure very heavy ground north of crosscourse at lower tunnel level. Here vein shows very fair gold in 3in of stone. Sloping carried on for 50ft in length south of the crosscourse, vein showing good gold occasionally. Incessant rains during month greatly retarded operations. Considerable surface damage done; machine drills hung up, and compressor shut down from want of firewood, and much water carried into lowest level, which is being bailed preparatory to running a crosscut from the end of the level to the Star of Peace vein.

UMEARI GOLD, LIMITED.

The dredge master reports, under date June 10, that he is making good headway with the extension and alterations to the mineral saving appliances. He also states that the paddock he dredged into terrace, in order to moor the dredge in during a stoppage, is serving its purpose well. He will keep the dredge there until alterations are finished, then he will shift it up to the waterhole about 150 yards, and open out a paddock. This will enable him to dredge the terrace and beach where he obtained the best surface prospects.

MOUNT OXIDE MINES, LIMITED.

"Shareholder" writes:—"Seeing that the action brought against the directors for recovery of £20,000 was settled fully two months ago in favour of the company, I think it is high time the shareholders were called together, with a view of discussing matters connected with the future of the mine, etc., and the distribution of the scrip, which has been lying in Sydney for the past 12 months. Trusting some of those largely interested will take steps to obtain an immediate settlement of the Mount Oxide mine affairs."

WARWICK FARM RACING CLUB.

JULY MEETING.

ST. MEDOC WINS HURDLE RACE.

GALTEE QUEEN THE WARWICK HANDICAP.

In dull, threatening weather, the Warwick Farm July reunion took place on Saturday, and, though rain seemed imminent right through the afternoon, none fell. The track was good going, the fields were of fair proportions, and the racing was witnessed by a large gathering of sporting folk. The only mishap was a harmless fall in the race over obstacles, and the only matter to claim the attention of the stipendiary stewards was a protest for interference, lodged against La Balfour, who was first past the post in the Pace Welter. After hearing evidence, the officials disqualified La Balfour and awarded the race to Applique. Wagering was pretty brisk, and, for once in a way, backers had a trifle the better of the deal, inasmuch as four favourites and a second favourite were successful, and in the last race the favourite only lost on protest. The general arrangements were efficiently supervised by the secretary, Mr. H. B. Dando. The details of the racing are as under:—

HURDLE RACE, handicap of 100 sovs; second horse 10 sovs, and third horse 5 sovs from the prize. About 2m.

Mr. J. Birk's b g St. Medoc, by St. Alwyne (imp.)—Birida, aged, 10st 7lb (J. Onions) 1

Mr. V. G. Neuyon's b m Yellowboe, 6yrs, 9st 6lb (W. Baker) 2

Mr. E. J. O'Dwyer's b g Inverara, aged, 10st (S. Rae) 3

Other starters: Jacoleen, 10st 10lb (J. Clifton); A.J.I., 10st 8lb (F. Coleman); Algous, 9st 4lb, including 4lb over (J. Shepherd); Clash of Arms, 9st 4lb, including 4lb over (W. Burn); Armillary, 9st (C. Morton).

Betting: 6 to 4 v A.J.I., 7 to 2 v St. Medoc, 7 to 1 each v Yellowboe and Armillary, 14 to 1 each v Clash of Arms and Inverara, 20 to 1 v Jacoleen.

Algous moved off in front, while A.J.I. dwelt and lost some ground. Racing along the back stretch, Yellowboe took charge from Clash of Arms, St. Medoc, and Inverara, but nearing the first obstacle near the half-mile post St. Medoc took charge, and flew the hurdles, followed at half-length intervals by Armillary and Yellowboe, after whom came Inverara and Clash of Arms, with A.J.I. still in the rear. Rounding the bend Yellowboe resumed command, and was followed by St. Medoc and Armillary, the latter of whom hit hard and lost ground. Yellowboe turned into the straight, but at the Leger hurdle Clash of Arms slipped, and St. Medoc was upsides with her, and the mare passed the stand with a slight advantage from St. Medoc; Inverara, and A.J.I. were next, and the others a long way out of it. Yellowboe held her place past the mile post and homestead, but six furlongs from home St. Medoc ranged up alongside, cut her down in a few strides, the pair being 10 lengths clear from Inverara and A.J.I. That order was preserved in the run home, St. Medoc winning by six lengths from Yellowboe, who was three lengths in front of Inverara. A.J.I. was four lengths away, and 30 in front of Jacoleen and Algous, while Armillary hit the last obstacle, and parted with his rider. Time, 3m 50s.

FARM STAKES HANDICAP of 100 sovs; second horse 15 sovs, and third horse 5 sovs from prize. 1m.

Mr. H. Cohen's br g Royal Navy, by Royal Artillery—Mura, 4yrs, all. 3lb, carr. 7st 4lb (L. Siely) 1

Mr. J. A. Dunn's br g Mount Alf, 3yrs, 7st 10lb (T. O'Keefe) 2

Mr. F. Forbes' br g Easy, 4yrs, 7st 12lb (A. Wood) 3

Other starters: Vedas, 9st (W. Black); Metiris, 7st 7lb (J. Reynolds); Wolma, all. 7lb, carr. 6st 12lb (L. Smith); Alma A., 7st 5lb (G. Meddick); Spadella, 7st 5lb, inc. 2lb over (E. Betting: 10 to 9 on Royal Navy, 9 to 2 v Mount Alf, 7 to 1 v Easy, 10 to 1 v Vedas, 20 to 1 each v Wolma and others.

Easy and Metiris made play, but as they raced along the back Primus and Vedas were disputing the lead, just in front of Royal Navy and a big bunch. Passing the five furlongs post Mount Alf ran to the front, and passed the half-mile post, followed by Volt Ilario, Primus, and Vedas. The field closed up as they rounded the bend, and Mount Alf turned for home with Easy, Volt Ilario, and Royal Navy in pursuit. Mount Alf was still leading at the distance, whence Royal Navy came with a brilliant run, and just got up in time to beat Mount Alf by a neck. Easy was five lengths away, followed by Primus, Spadella, and Volt Ilario almost in line, with Vedas at the head of the others, and Metiris last. Time, 1m 43s.

JUVENILE HANDICAP of 100 sovs; second horse 15 sovs, third horse 5 sovs from the prize, 6f.

Scholes); Mountwood, 6st 12lb (A. Bindon).

Betting: 7 to 4 v Roman Queen, 5 to 1 each v Dynasty and John I.D., 7 to 1 v Grand Vizier, 10 to 1 v Winkipop, 15 to 1 v War Tax, 20 to 1 each v Lord Disgrace and Migundra, 25 to 1 others.

John I.D. was the smartest off the mark, while Papillion dwelt at the post, and took no part in the race. At the end of the first furlong Roman Queen was in front from John I.D. and Lord Disgrace, and at the half-mile post Roman Queen and John I.D. were disputing the lead, followed two lengths away by Antonio Maid and Winkipop. Without change they swung into line for home, and Roman Queen, taking charge at the distance, won comfortably by a length and a half from Winkipop, who beat John I.D. by a head for second place. Dynasty was fourth, followed by Lord Disgrace, War Tax, and Grand Vizier, with Master Poppet last. Time, 1m 17s.

MAIDEN HANDICAP of 75 sovs, second horse 10 sovs, and third horse 5 sovs from the prize. 6f.

Callinan); Miss Poppet, 7st 11lb, inc. 1lb over (W. Lillyman); Paragarde, all. 5lb, carr. 7st 7lb (D. Rosen); Foreign Lady, 7st 7lb (A. Smith); Tocsin, all. 7lb, carr. 7st (W. Crockett).

Betting: 4 to 1 v Zuland, 5 to 1 v Random Shot, 6 to 1 v Auld Jock, 7 to 1 each Daddy Christmas, Tocsin, Miss Poppet, 8 to 1 v Flightiness, 10 to 1 v Agincourt, 20 to 1 each v others.

Paragarde moved off in front, but at the end of the first furlong Zuland and Random Shot were disputing the lead, followed by Agincourt and Daddy Christmas, after whom came Auld Jock and Tocsin. Without material change they ran to the bend, where Zuland got his head in front of Random Shot, and so they entered the straight separated by a length, and followed by Daddy Christmas, Agincourt, and Auld Jock. Zuland was not afterwards troubled, and won easily by four lengths from Agincourt, with Auld Jock a head away third. Random Shot was a head away fourth, followed by Daddy Christmas and a bunched lot, whipped in by Paragarde. Time, 1m 16¾s.

WARWICK HANDICAP of 100 sovs, second horse 15 sovs, and third horse 5 sovs from the prize. 1¼m.

Mr. M. Mulcahy's br m Galtee Queen, by Bobadil—Vibrate, 5yrs, 7st 8lb (K. Bracken) 1

Mr. J. Sotterr's blk g Grab Apple, 4yrs, all. 3lb, carr. 6st 13lb (C. Barden) 2

Mr. A. Castle's b g W.L.S., aged, 7st 12lb (G. Meddick) 3

Other starters: Charleville, 8st 12lb (W. Black); Chid, all. 5lb, carr. 8st 7lb (W. Kelso); Lady Zell, 8st (A. Wood); Value, all. 3lb, carr. 7st 5lb (G. Hutchins); Prince Palatine, all. 7lb, carr. 7st 1lb (N. R. Russell); Sequarious, all. 7lb, carr. 6st 9lb (W. Crockett); Albuna, all. 7lb, carr. 6st 9lb (T. Rooke); Tarpaulin, all. 3lb, carr. 6st 13lb (L. Siely); King Mostyn, all. 3lb, carr. 6st 7lb (M. Goode).

Betting: 9 to 4 v Galtee Queen, 5 to 2 v W.L.S., 7 to 1 v Lady Zell, 10 to 1 v Value, 12 to 1 v Grab Apple, 14 to 1 v Sequarious, 16 to 1 each v Chid and Charleville, 20 to 1 each v Albuna and others.

They left in line, and passing the stand Chid had a slight lead from Galtee Queen, King Mostyn, and Grab Apple, but as they swung out of the straight Grab Apple ran to the front, and rattled past the homestead a couple of lengths from Chid, after whom came King Mostyn, Galtee Queen, W.L.S., and Prince Palatine. W.L.S. ran up next the leader at the five furlongs post, and the pair separated by a length, were followed past the half-mile post by Galtee Queen, King Mostyn, and Value. That order was preserved round the bend and into the straight. W.L.S. challenged Grab Apple at the distance, while on the rails Galtee Queen put in her claim, and in a bumping finish the favourite won by a length and a quarter from Grab Apple, who was a length and a half in advance of W.L.S. Value was a length away, followed by Prince Palatine, King Mostyn, Albuna, Tarpaulin, and Lady Zell, with Charleville last. Time, 2m 10s.

PACE WELTER. A handicap of 75 sovs; second horse 10 sovs, and third horse 5 sovs from the prize. 6f.

Mr. S. E. White's b g Applique, by Featherstitch (imp.)—Tottie, 5yrs, 9st 4lb (W. Black) 1

Mr. H. V. Foy's br g Bandoliero, 4yrs, all. 7lb, carr. 8st 7lb (N. Russell) 2

Other starters: Mount Mostyn, all. 5lb, carr. 9st 1lb (W. Kelso); Kahonji, 9st 5lb (W. M'Lachlan); Royal Parade, all. 7lb, carr. 8st 9lb (A. Lindsay); Kenilera, all. 3lb, carr. 8st 13lb (L. Betting: 3 to 1 v La Balfour, 4 to 1 v Kahonji, 5 to 1 v Bandoliero, 6 to 1 v Viburnum, 8 to 1 v Applique, 10 to 1 v Chantry, 12 to 1 v Duke Merv, 14 to 1 each v Long Reef and Royal Parade, 16 to 1 v Mount Mostyn, 20 to 1 v Lady Minnie and others.

When they had settled into their strides Chantry had charge from Kahonji and Viburnum, with La Balfour, Applique, and Bandoliero handy. Chantry piloted the field into the straight, followed by Applique, La Balfour, Kahonji, and Bandoliero. Chantry was beaten at the distance, where Applique was in charge from Bandoliero, who shot up on the rails, and La Balfour on the outside joined issue. An interesting battle among the trio resulted in La Balfour passing the post a neck in advance of Applique, who beat Bandoliero by a head for second place. Then, a length away, came Kahonji, who was four lengths clear from Mount Mostyn, Chantry, and Royal Parade, with Collar at the head of the others, and Duke Merv last. Time, 1m 16s.

A protest for interference, lodged against La Balfour, was upheld, and the race awarded to Applique.

Mrs. E. M. Crouch, 51 Moncur-street, Woollahra, writes:—"I suffered from extreme nervousness, loss of appetite, and poorness of the blood. I tried Clements Tonic, and have derived great benefit. I recommend it to those similarly affected."—Advt.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

Since 9 a.m. on Friday there has been a continuance of the unsettled wet weather over eastern Australia, due to the combined influences of monsoonal and Antarctic activity. In New South Wales particularly the rain was bountiful and widespread, many stations reporting amounts which exceeded the inch. This was more noticeable on the northern border (with an extension northward to central southern Queensland), and on our south-west slopes.

About 500 miles easting has been made by the various pressure systems in the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. Saturday, and now the Antarctic disturbance is shown over the south-eastern States, with its centre to the west of Tasmania.

The high pressures both eastern and western, are still energetic, although they have slumped about one-tenth each in central barometric values. The outer isobars of these two "highs" have coalesced, so that now one huge connected system occupies a considerable portion of the continent. A "col," however, exists between the two chief centres over south-eastern Queensland and our north-eastern districts.

Present indications favour further unsettled weather generally, with thunder in north and north-east parts, but more rain, chiefly confined to south of the Lachlan; snow on central and southern highlands later; squally winds between north-west and south-west.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Nominations are invited up to 4 p.m. to-day by the secretary, Mr. Geo. W. S. Rowe, for the July meeting of the Rosehill Racing Club on the 22nd inst. The half a dozen events on the card carry in the aggregate 700 sovs prize money.

The Hurdle Race at Warwick Farm on Saturday, though it attracted eight competitors, was practically a match between St. Medoc and Yellowboc, who alternated in command all the way, and the former, taking charge three furlongs from home, scored easily from the mare. A.J.I. was sent out a warm favourite, but he shaped most disappointingly, and failed to get a place. Three of the contestants—Algous, Clash of Arms, and Armillary—are new to the game. Clash of Arms stopped at the hurdle near the St. Leger in the first round, and Armillary hit the same obstacle in the second round, and parted company with his rider. St. Medoc was bred at the Combadello Stud, and is by St. Alwyne from Birida, by Wallace.

The card for the Gosford Racing Club's meeting on the 19th inst. demands the attention of owners and trainers to-day, for at 4 p.m. entries close with the secretary, Mr. H. R. Evans. The prize money totals 260 sovs, distributed over six races.

In a field of a dozen for the Farm Stakes at Warwick Farm on Saturday, Royal Navy was sent out at a shade of odds on, with Mount Alf the best backed of the others. The latter took charge after a couple of furlongs had been cast behind, and carried his field along until just inside the distance, where the favourite came with a fast run, and just got up in time to justify the confidence of his backers. Royal Navy is a four-year-old gelding by Royal Artillery from Mura, by Grafton (imp.) from Lady Roodee, by Roodee, was bred by Mr. J. C. Thompson, and his spring engagements include the Epsom Handicap and the Metropolitan, with the minimum weight. The Ruenalf gelding Easy started third favourite, and the market accurately foreshadowed the result of the race.

The Australian Trotting Club holds a meeting on the Victoria Park track this afternoon, and the programme promises highly interesting sport. Large entries have been secured, and a number of good performers are engaged. The transit service includes special trams from Circular Quay and the Railway-square loop, and the first race is timed to start at 2.15 p.m.

Fourteen youngsters took the track at Warwick Farm on Saturday for the Juvenile Handicap, with Roman Queen at the head of the quotations; while others backed with confidence were Dynasty, John L.D., and Grand Vizier. The favourite justified her position in the market by winning practically all the way. The Earlston filly Winkipop escorted Roman Queen past the post, with John L.D. a trifle away third, and Dynasty close up next. The winner is a Widden-bred filly, by Charlemagne II. from Majesty, by Trenton from Bonnie Rosette (imp.), by Barcaldine, and is the property of Mr. E. H. Knight.

Messrs. H. Chisholm and Co. hold their monthly sale of blood stock this afternoon at their stables, Randwick. The lots catalogued include a couple of fashionably-bred fillies, by Footprint (imp.), and several racehorses, including the racing pony Frithfield. The sale commences at 3 p.m.

Zuland, a recent arrival from New Zealand, opened his winning account at Warwick Farm on Saturday in the Maiden Handicap, for which, in a field that was one short of a dozen, he started favourite, the imported horse Random Shot being next fancied. The favourite made one act of it, scoring easily from Agincourt. Zuland is a son of Finland, and was piloted by the New Zealand horseman G. A. Reed. Random Shot missed a place by a very narrow margin.

Messrs. Wm. Inglis and Son will offer for sale by public auction at their bazaar, at noon to-day the racehorses Lady Orcus, Laf, King Pharaoh, Eastern Pearl, Raleigh, and Poisanto.

Galtee Queen, hailing from Frank McGrath's stables, and owned by the Western Australian sportsman Mr. M. Mulcahy, left the paddock a slightly better favourite than W.L.S. for the Warwick Farm Handicap, on Saturday, in a field of a dozen, and, after Grab Apple, with W.L.S. and the favourite in her wake, had cut out the greater portion of the work to the distance, the pair closed on the Grafton gelding, and at the half-distance the trio were in line, but the favourite, on the rails, forged to the front inside that point, and won in good style from Grab Apple, with W.L.S. in the other situation. Galtee Queen is a Victorian-bred mare, by Bobadil from Vibrate, by Wallace from Swing, by St. Albans, and is engaged in the A.J.C. Metropolitan, with 7st 3lb.

The New South Wales Trotting Club's meeting was postponed from Saturday until to-morrow.

The largest field of the afternoon at Warwick Farm on Saturday was that of 21 for the Pace Welter, which was run in the waning light. It was a good betting event, half a score of the contestants being marketable, with La Balfour favourite, closely followed in the quotations by Kahonji, Bandoliero, and Viburnden. Chantry turned for home with Applique, La Balfour, and Bandoliero in hot pursuit; but the son of Challenger was tiring at the distance, inside of which La Balfour, Applique, and Bandoliero were battling it out almost on terms, and in a bumping finish, La Balfour, Applique, and Bandoliero passed the post in that order, and separated by very narrow margins. A protest for interference was lodged, and the stipendiary stewards upheld the objection, awarding the race to Applique, who is by Featherstitch, and is trained by J. Laffan. La Balfour holds an Epsom Handicap engagement, with 7st 10lb.

Though Messrs. Thompson Bros.—the owners of Wingarra, Oakleigh, Torrie Lodge, and Woodlawn studs—have Charlemagne II., Cooltrim, Royal Artillery, Aryan, and Sunshine (imp.) in their studs, they recently added another English horse, Halbred, to their forces. Halbred was imported by Mr. Tom Payten, and is an exceptional, fashionably-bred son of William the Third. He is advertised in the "Sydney Mail" to serve at Wingarra.

According to the "Sydney Mail" stallion list, Flavinius is again the property of Mr. James Rutherford, of Wollombi. Mr. Rutherford purchased this horse, when a yearling, among the first of the Flavus tribe bred at Merton. After the horse had won several important events he sold him to Mr. Fred. Merton for 2000 guineas, and has now bought him back for his own stud. Cyrus, one of Dr. Spooner Hart's importations, and the sire of Hitachi, is now the property of Messrs. Bowman, of Grampian Hills, and is advertised to do stud duty there next season.

Mr. A. E. Thompson, of Inglewood stud, near Muswellbrook, has purchased Baverstock from Messrs. Baillieu, of Melbourne, for stud purposes. Baverstock was considered one of the best horses in Victoria by his owners, but an injured joint prevented him from being thoroughly trained. He only won one good race, though twice tried, superior to Amata. Baverstock is by Maltster, from the great Wakeful, consequently can boast of distinguished parentage. He is to arrive at Messrs. Inglis and Son's stables during the week, and is advertised in the "Sydney Mail" to serve at Inglewood next season.

The Sydney jumper Glenquinn was sent to Melbourne last Thursday, and his trainer, P. Nolan, leaves for the southern capital to-night to superintend the gelding's training for his Caulfield engagements.

Coolamon Turf Club's racing fixture of August 17 has been granted registration by the A.J.C.

The apprentice jockey, Moran, had his first ride at Newcastle on Saturday, and succeeded in piloting Jean Mostyn, winner of the Novice Handicap.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

Replying to a deputation representing the breeders of trotters, the Chief Secretary (Mr. M'Leod) stated on Thursday that in his opinion trotting as a sport did not tend to produce a good utility horse, but rather a horse of an artificial type. While he promised to place the views of the deputation before the Cabinet, he frankly said that he had no sympathy with those who were opposed to the curtailment of racing.

The V.R.C. stipendiary stewards on Thursday concluded the inquiry into the running of Bridges at the Grand National meeting on Wednesday, and decided to accept the explanations made.

The following racehorses were sold by auction on Friday:—B c Palos, by Bobadil—Volturno, 2yrs, to J. Solomon, of Geelong, 855gns.; ch c Bridgenorth (imp.), by Bridge of Canny—Rosenush, 5yrs, to Mr. P. Allen, 375gns.; b m Nushka, by Orzil (imp.)—Kettledrum (1905), to Mr. L. K. S. Mackinnon, 350gns.; blk f, yearling, by Blankney II.—Fishery, to Mr. E. Finn, 2?0gns; ch f Dewy Dawn, by Wallace—Nushka, 2yrs, to Mr. J. Widdis, 150gns.

MARKERS' TOURNAMENT.

The twentieth annual tournament was brought to a conclusion at the Tournament Hall of the promoters, Heiron and Smith, Ltd., on Friday night, when, in the play-off for third and fourth prizes, W. Abotomey (receives 75) beat J. Bessell (receives 150) by 156. In the final F. Weiss beat G. M'Donald by 102. The tournament games were played on a special figured blackwood table, and bonzoline balls were used. Prizes were won by the following:—First prize, F. Weiss, £40; second, G. M'Donald, £17/10/; third, W. Abotomey, £7/10/; fourth, J. Bessell, £3 10/. Highest break, £1/1/, and highest proportional break, £1/1/, W. Abotomey; highest break (country player), £1/1/, C. The above prizes will be paid over at the company's showrooms, 216 Castlereagh-street, this morning, at 11 o'clock.

LINDRUM v M'CONACHY.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The match of 18,000 up with the hazards limited to 25 shots, between Fred Lindrum and Clarke M'Conachy, the latter receiving 3000, was concluded yesterday. The scores were: Lindrum, 18,000; M'Conachy, 16,557.

BOXING.

KAY BEATS STONE.

At the Stadium on Saturday Fred. Kay (Australia), 10st 5½lb, beat Harry Stone (America), 10st 9½lb, on points in a 20-rounds contest. Kay found Stone's methods somewhat mystifying for a time, but he won well, after a good scientific exhibition by both men. Stone caused much amusement when he indulged in his "hop, step, and jump" tactics; but several times Kay steadied him and put a stop to the comedy.

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAMME.

The management has got some good talent on to-night's bill. Sid Sullivan and Sid Godfrey will box 20 rounds, and will enter the ring shortly after 9 o'clock. The preliminaries will include a six rounds bout between Ned Ross and Charlie M'Leod, and a ten rounds contest between George Newbury and Harry Kilrain. Doors will be opened at 7 o'clock, and the first try-out will be staged at 7.30.

AMERICAN BOXERS RELEASED.

The American boxers who arrived by the Sierra on Tuesday under engagement to the Stadium management were detained on board, but were released towards the end of the week. They were introduced to the spectators on Saturday night.

CLABBY BEATS HOLLAND.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Clabby beat Holland in the sixth round at the Stadium last night.

PROPOSED FREE LOAN SOCIETIES.

At the annual meeting of the Pennant Hills District Rifle Club, Mr. H. G. Levy proposed that free loan societies for returned soldiers and sailors and their widows and dependents be formed in every district throughout Australia, with the object of lending sums of money, free of interest, to such as may need assistance. These loans, he said, would enable many to start in business without being dependent upon charity, and the amounts would be gradually repaid. The meeting appointed a committee, consisting of Messrs. H. G. Levy, W. M. Nixon, R. D. Hartwell, and the general committee of the club, to call a public meeting of residents of the district to start the movement.

VICTORIA RACING CLUB.

G.N. STEEPLECHASE MEETING.

CORADJIL WINS GRAND NATIONAL STEEPLE.

PHYLACTERY THE JULY HANDICAP.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The final day's racing of the V.R.C. Grand National Steeplechase Meeting was held yesterday in showery weather, but there was a very large attendance to witness the sport. The soaking rain of the previous day made the track very dead, but it was ideal going for jumping.

The 17 acceptors went to the post for the Grand National Steeplechase, and after his victory at Williamstown it looked probable that Bullawarra would go out a short-priced favourite, but there was an impression that he was not quite forward enough in condition to see out the long race, and the state of the ground being considered against him he eased to 7 to 1, while Booligal and Highland Clan were quoted at the same price. Rendrock, Chess, and Coradjil were also in good demand, and every starter, as a matter of fact, received support of a more or less liberal character, Riverman and Wadden being the outsiders of the party. The horses went off at a steady pace, W.T.S. in the lead, but Busra showed the way over the first fence. Booligal, as usual, was somewhat eager, and he worked his way to the front after crossing the second obstacle, but he hit very hard and fell, and Highland Clan came down at the same obstacle. Little Busra, jumping remarkably well, came up the lane and over the stand treble well in advance of the others; while Wyndarra, at the tail of the field at the time, ran off at the last set of the treble. Flash Jack, who had apparently broken down, and was a long way back, fell at the bridge. Busra continued to cut out the running, but Ribbenluke assumed command after passing the bridge, only to fall back several lengths owing to hitting a fence near the abattoirs the second time round, and coming down on his nose. His rider made a good recovery (considering that the bridle had slipped), but Ribbenluke's chance had been spoilt. In quick succession Artillery Bill, Chess, and Canadium came to grief. In the meantime Rendrock had gone to the front, while Coradjil and Bullawarra were both prominent. Rendrock led into the straight, only to be caught after passing the distance by Coradjil, who won a fine race by a length. Bullawarra tired under his big weight, and, though he finished third, was three lengths or more behind Rendrock. Westaway, Busra, and El Progresso finished well up, but Wadden, who was the nearest of the others, was some distance back. The victory of Bullawarra would probably have been a little more popular, as he carried top weight, and is a great public favourite; but Coradjil's win was well received, as his owner, Mr. E. Manifold (a member of the V.R.C. committee) is recognised as being a sportsman of the right type. He does not bet a great deal, and backers in supporting his horse know they are certain of a straight run. This was the third Grand National Steeplechase winner he has been interested in. With his brother, Mr. J. C. Manifold, he won in 1898 (Dungaun), and again in 1909 (Mysore). Mr. Manifold bred Coradjil himself, which, of course, made the victory the more acceptable to him. D. H. Allan, a well-known rider a few years ago, trained Cadajil, while R. Connelly rode him, and thus scored his first important victory over jumps. This was Coradjil's fourth attempt to win the Grand National. He was third to Leah Kleshna and Statecraft in 1913, and to Zephuron and United Kingdom in 1914, and sixth to Flash Jack last year. At the weights and on the day it must be admitted that the best horse won the Grand National. On a drier day Bullawarra may have made a better fight of it, but possibly his condition rather than the state of the going beat him. None of the horses or jockeys sustained any particular injury, though Chess cut his stifle a little and Flash Jack pulled up so lame that he is hardly likely to race again for a considerable time.

The details of the racing are subjoined:—

LAWN HANDICAP, 6f.

Mr. E. Fisher's Ipoh, by Silent Friend (imp.)—Merry Queen, 8st 7lb (P. Kelly) ... 1

Headwind and Ludovitch were the smartest away, from Ejector, Golden Wire, Rudas, and Le Noir. Headwind had a clear lead at the course proper from Ludovitch, Silver Lake, Gold Brew, Duverney, Ipoh, and Ejector. Headwind still held command at the distance from Duverney and Ipoh, but both coming fast they headed the leader at the half-distance, whence a ding-dong duel resulted in half a head victory for Ipoh, with Headwind two and a half lengths away. Dhuldul was fourth. Orinoco, Ludovitch, Golden Wire, and Le Noir were next, with Gold Brew last. Time, 1m 17¾s.

DOUTTA GALLA HURDLE RACE, 2¼m.

Betting: 5 to 2 v Wisconsin, 5 to 1 each v Lord Dudley and Boyeo, 6 to 1 v Royal Precedent, 8 to 1 v Uxbridge, 10 to 1 v Jack Rice, 25 to 1 v Munday.

Uxbridge moved off slowly, and Boyeo led over the first hurdle from Munday and Lord Dudley. Passing the judge's box Wisconsin and Boyeo were together, with Royal Precedent, Lord Dudley, and Jack Rice, with Uxbridge last. Munday and Boyeo led along the riverside, and at the bridge they were still together in front from Wisconsin, Royal Precedent, and Jack Rice. Royal Precedent led into the straight from Jack Rice and Lord Dudley. The last-named forged to the front at the half-distance, and won by a length from Jack Rice, with Royal Precedent a length away. Wisconsin was fourth, with Boyeo next, and Munday last. Time, 4m 27½s.

Riverman, 9st 4lb (A. Wilson)
W.T.S., 9st 4lb (P. Robertson)

Betting: 7 to 1 each v Bullawarra, Booligal, and Highland Clan, 12 to 1 each v Rendrock and Chess, 14 to 1 v Coradjil, 15 to 1 each v Ribbenluke and Flash Jack, 20 to 1 each v Canadium, Busra, and Artillery Bill, 33 to 1 each v El Progresso, Wyndarra, Westaway, and W.T.S., 50 to 1 each v others.

Busra, W.T.S., and Westaway moved off in front, and W.T.S. led out of the straight from Busra, Westaway, Wyndarra, Bibbenluke, Chess, El Progresso, and Rendrock, with Wadden last. Busra flew the first fence from Westaway, Wyndarra, Booligal, and Bibbenluke. Booligal was in the lead at the back from Westaway, Busra, Rendrock, Coradjil, W.T.S., Highland Clan, Canadium, and Bullawarra, with Flash Jack and Wyndarra last. Booligal fell at the abattoirs, and brought down Highland Clan, leaving Westaway in front from Rendrock, Busra, and Bibbenluke. Rendrock led round the turn from Westaway and Busra. The last-named raced the field over the treble, with Westaway, Rendrock, Bibbenluke, Riverman, Bullawarra, Coradjil, El Progresso, and Chess in close attendance. Wyndarra, who was last, ran off at the last set of the treble. This order was practically unchanged at the riverside, but Bibbenluke ran to the front at the bridge from Artillery Bill, Busra, and Bullawarra, Flash Jack losing his rider. Bibbenluke hit heavily at the abattoirs. Rendrock came round the turn first from Westaway, Coradjil, Bullawarra, and Busra, and the order was the same over the last jump. Rendrock led into the straight from Coradjil and Bullawarra. At the distance Coradjil headed Rendrock, and won by a length, with Bullawarra three lengths away third. Westaway was fourth; then came Busra, El Progresso, and, after a long gap, Wadden, W.T.S., and Riverman, with Bibbenluke last. Time, 6m 24½s. Canadium, Artillery Bill, and Chess fell in the last six furlongs.

Goldsign at once went to the front. Anacrion crashed into the second fence in the straight, bringing most of it down, and killing himself. Ralmara fell over him. Manx Lad fell at the next fence. Goldsign had a long lead, but was tiring when Seastream fell off on the flat before reaching the abattoirs, leaving Ungala five lengths in front of Gold Vale, who pulled up at the sheds, having broken down. Ungala was the only horse left in, and he cantered home. Time, 4m 29s.

Indefinite fell before reaching the first hurdle, at which Avenger also came down. Barwidgee and Ramoth made most of the running from Carpathus, Monsignor, and Lumut. Ramoth went to the front at the sheds, and led over the last hurdle from Lumut, Coranatus, Barwidgee, and Blind Murphy. Ramoth easily shook off his pursuers in the run home, and won by five lengths from Lumut, who beat Coranatus by three lengths for second place. Blind Murphy was fourth. Then came Barwidgee, Rebel King, and Nickajack, with Sejour a bad last. Time, 3m 48s.

Betting: 9 to 4 v Phylactery, 8 to 1 v King's Chancellor, 10 to 1 each v Caracre and Lady Felicia, 12 to 1 v Honorious.

Pochee and Golden Rock were the quickest to find their legs, and they showed the way past the sheds to Honorious, Phylactery, King's Chancellor, and Miss Bob. Golden Rock led round the turn, but King's Chancellor was the first into the straight from Phylactery and Toleration. Phylactery was in front at the distance, with Caracre and Honorious coming very fast. The favourite reached the judge's box first by a length and a quarter from Caracre, with Honorious two lengths away third. TO THE LAMP OF A MAN'S LIFE

It is said there are three wicks—BRAIN, BLOOD, AND BREATH. If that is true, we suggest that, to keep the wicks trimmed, a man should eat

For this is a nourishing food, and one not likely to be excelled as a Brain and Body Builder.

"Rex" Camp Pie consists of selected morsels of Good Meats, compounded, seasoned, and cooked, then packed in a firm jelly.
